Learning To Race:

Learning Race, Learning Place Erin N. Winkler, 2012-11-15 In an American society both increasingly diverse and increasingly segregated the signals children receive about race are more confusing than ever In this context how do children negotiate and make meaning of multiple and conflicting messages to develop their own ideas about race Learning Race Learning Place engages this question using in depth interviews with an economically diverse group of African American children and their mothers Through these rich narratives Erin N Winkler seeks to reorient the way we look at how children develop their ideas about race through the introduction of a new framework comprehensive racial learning that shows the importance of considering this process from children s points of view and listening to their interpretations of their experiences which are often quite different from what the adults around them expect or intend At the children s prompting Winkler examines the roles of multiple actors and influences including gender skin tone colorblind rhetoric peers family media school and especially place She brings to the fore the complex and understudied power of place positing that while children s racial identities and experiences are shaped by a national construction of race they are also specific to a particular place that exerts both direct and indirect influence on their racial identities and ideas Learning Race and Ethnicity Anna Everett, 2008 An exploration of how issues of race and ethnicity play out in a digital media landscape that includes MySpace post 9 11 politics MMOGs Internet music distribution and the digital divide It may have been true once that as the famous cartoon of the 1990s put it Nobody knows you re a dog on the Internet and that as an MCI commercial of that era declared on the Internet there is no race gender or infirmity but today with the development of web cams digital photography cell phone cameras streaming video and social networking sites this notion seems quaintly idealistic This volume takes up issues of race and ethnicity in the new digital media landscape The contributors address this topic still difficult to engage honestly clearly empathetically and with informed understanding in twenty first century America with the goal of pushing consideration of a vexing but important subject from margin to center Learning Race and Ethnicity explores the intersection of race and ethnicity with post 9 11 politics online hate speech practices and digital youth and media cultures It examines universal access and the racial and ethnic digital divide from the perspective of digital media learning and youth The chapters treat such subjects as racial identity in the computer mediated public sphere minority technology innovators new methods of music distribution digital artist Judy Baca s work with youth Native American digital media literacy and minority youth technology access and the pervasiveness of online health information Contributors Ambar Basu Graham D Bodie Dara N Byrne Jessie Daniels Mohan J Dutta Raiford Guins Guisela Latorre Antonio Lopez Chela Sandoval Tyrone D Taborn Douglas Thomas Family Socialization, Race, and Inequality in the United States Dawn P. Witherspoon, Susan M. McHale, Valarie King, 2023-11-06 This book examines the ways in which families can address racial and ethnic inequalities and racism and the impacts of these systems on health education and other family and family member outcomes It addresses the historical context of race and racism in the United States ethnic racial socialization in families of color and White parents attitudes and practices related to antiracist socialization Chapters describe structural racism debunk the myth of racial progress and explore the representation of race and racism in family research provide a historical account of ethnic racial socialization literature propose a model of ethnic racial socialization of Latinx families describe how racial socialization can be used therapeutically and address White normativity expand models of White racial socialization and learning and grapple with the complexities of antiracist socialization Finally the volume offers recommendations for the field of family research to meaningfully include race and racism as well as provides suggestions for translational work in this area related to policies programs and practice Featured areas of coverage include Ethnic and racial socialization among families of color White racial socialization and racial learning Antiracist socialization Opportunities for family research on race and racism to be used to enhance family policies and intervention programming Family Socialization Race and Inequality in the United States is a must have resource for researchers professors clinicians professionals and graduate students in developmental psychology family studies and sociology as well as interrelated disciplines including demography social work prevention science public health educational policy political science and economics Raising Mixed Race Sharon H Chang, 2015-12-11 Research continues to uncover early childhood as a crucial time when we set the stage for who we will become In the last decade we have also seen a sudden massive shift in America's racial makeup with the majority of the current under 5 age population being children of color Asian and multiracial are the fastest growing self identified groups in the United States More than 2 million people indicated being mixed race Asian on the 2010 Census Yet young multiracial Asian children are vastly underrepresented in the literature on racial identity Why And what are these children learning about themselves in an era that tries to be ahistorical believes the race problem has been solved and that mixed race people are proof of it This book is drawn from extensive research and interviews with sixty eight parents of multiracial children It is the first to examine the complex task of supporting our youngest around being two or more races and Asian while living amongst post racial ideologies What the White Race May Learn from the Indian George Wharton James, 1908 The Nature of Race Ann Morning, 2011-06-24 What do Americans think race means What determines one's race appearance ancestry genes or culture How do education government and business influence our views on race To unravel these complex questions Ann Morning takes a close look at how scientists are influencing ideas about race through teaching and textbooks Drawing from in depth interviews with biologists anthropologists and undergraduates Morning explores different conceptions of race finding for example that while many sociologists now assume that race is a social invention or construct anthropologists and biologists are far from such a consensus She discusses powerful new genetic accounts of race and considers how corporations and the government use scientific research for example in designing DNA ancestry tests or census questionnaires in ways that often reinforce the idea that race is biologically determined Widening the debate about race beyond the pages of scholarly journals

The Nature of Race dissects competing definitions in straightforward language to reveal the logic and assumptions underpinning today's claims about human difference

Race in American Television David J. Leonard, Stephanie Troutman Robbins, 2021-01-26 This two volume encyclopedia explores representations of people of color in American television. It includes overview essays on early classic and contemporary television and the challenges for developments related to and participation of minorities on and behind the screen. Covering five decades, this encyclopedia highlights how race has shaped television and how television has shaped society. Offering critical analysis of moments and themes throughout television history, Race in American Television shines a spotlight on key artists of color, prominent shows, and the debates that have defined television since the civil rights movement. This book also examines the ways in which television has been a site for both reproduction of stereotypes and resistance to them, providing a basis for discussion about racial issues in the United States. This set provides a significant resource for students and fans of television alike, not only educating but also empowering readers with the necessary tools to consume and watch the small screen and explore its impact on the evolution of racial and ethnic stereotypes in U.S. culture and beyond. Understanding the history of American television contributes to deeper knowledge and potentially helps us to better apprehend the plethora of diverse shows and programs on Netflix, Hulu, YouTube, and other platforms today.

Exploring the Role of the School Principal in Predominantly White Middle Schools Jacquelynne Anne Boivin, 2020-11-23 By detailing an explanatory sequential mixed methods study grounded in Critical Race Theory (CRT), this book explores the role of effective educational leadership in developing multicultural acceptance in predominantly white schools. Drawing on the rich experiences and accounts of school principals in rural middle schools in the US, the volume asks how principals' personal attitudes, professional experiences, and the degree to which they view themselves as a mentor and influencer within the school impacts their approach to improving multicultural understanding amongst students, staff, and faculty. The text is organized into five clear chapters providing critical reflections, a review of the relevant literature, and in-depth discussion of first-hand data. Six key findings relating to whole-school acceptance, the role of individual principals' attitudes, and support for teaching staff open new avenues for research and inform recommendations for the professional development of school principals. In presenting key theory and practical implications of research, this book will be crucial reading for researchers, scholars, and practitioners in the fields of educational leadership, multicultural education, sociology of education, and teacher education.

American Blackness Bernard Grenway, 2021-10-07 American Blackness: Navigating the Myth of the Black Monolith focuses on a set of theoretical applications and social narratives that highlight the disparate racial, social, and political perspectives of modern Black Americans. Dr. Grenway uses the text to push back against ideals associated with the black monolith by examining the many ways in which black Americans struggle to cope with educational, cultural, and socio-economical expectations.

How Real Is Race? Carol C. Mukhopadhyay,Rosemary Henze,Yolanda T. Moses,2013-12-11 How real is race What is biological fact what is fiction and where does culture enter What do we mean by a colorblind or postracial society or when we say that race is a social construction If race is an invention can we eliminate it This book now in its second edition employs an activity oriented approach to address these questions and engage readers in unraveling and rethinking the contradictory messages we so often hear about race The authors systematically cover the myth of race as biology and the reality of race as a cultural invention drawing on biocultural and cross cultural perspectives They then extend the discussion to hot button issues that arise in tandem with the concept of race such as educational inequalities slurs and racialized labels and interracial relationships In so doing they shed light on the intricate dynamic interplay among race culture and biology For an online supplement to How Real Is Race Second Edition click here Michigan Journal of Community Service Learning

,1999 Second Handbook of Research on Mathematics Teaching and Learning Frank K. Lester,2007-02-01 The audience remains much the same as for the 1992 Handbook namely mathematics education researchers and other scholars conducting work in mathematics education This group includes college and university faculty graduate students investigators in research and development centers and staff members at federal state and local agencies that conduct and use research within the discipline of mathematics The intent of the authors of this volume is to provide useful perspectives as well as pertinent information for conducting investigations that are informed by previous work The Handbook should also be a useful textbook for graduate research seminars In addition to the audience mentioned above the present Handbook contains chapters that should be relevant to four other groups teacher educators curriculum developers state and national policy makers and test developers and others involved with assessment Taken as a whole the chapters reflects the mathematics education research community's willingness to accept the challenge of helping the public understand what mathematics education research is all about and what the relevance of their research findings might be for those outside their immediate community

Teaching Race in Perilous Times Jason E. Cohen, Sharon D. Raynor, Dwayne A. Mack, 2021-03-01 The college classroom is inevitably influenced by and in turn influences the world around it In the United States this means the complex topic of race can come into play in ways that are both explicit and implicit Teaching Race in Perilous Times highlights and confronts the challenges of teaching race in the United States from syllabus development and pedagogical strategies to accreditation and curricular reform Across fifteen original essays contributors draw on their experiences teaching in different institutional contexts and adopt various qualitative methods from their home disciplines to offer practical strategies for discussing race and racism with students while also reflecting on broader issues in higher education Contributors examine how teachers can respond productively to emotionally charged contexts recognize the roles and pressures that faculty assume as activists in the classroom focus a timely lens on the shifting racial politics and economics of higher education and call for a more historically sensitive reading of the pedagogies involved in teaching race The volume offers a corrective to claims following the 2016 US presidential election that the current moment is unprecedented highlighting the pivotal role of the classroom in contextualizing and responding to our perilous times

The Handbook of Race and Adult Education Vanessa Sheared, Juanita Johnson-Bailey, Scipio A. J. Colin, III, Elizabeth Peterson, Stephen D. Brookfield, 2010-04-16 The Handbook of Race and Adult Education While much attention has been given to inclusion diversity and multiculturalism within adult education The Handbook of Race and Adult Education is the first comprehensive work to engage in a dialogue specifically about race and racism and the effect these factors have on the marginalization or oppression of groups and individuals This landmark book provides the field of adult and continuing education with a model for the discussion of race and racism from social educational political and psychological perspectives and seeks to articulate a conceptual challenge to the ethnocentric focus of the discussion in the field It offers adult education scholars as well as those engaged in research and teaching about race an opportunity to engage in a discourse about race and racism including examinations of how these factors have been seen through multiple theoretical frameworks how they have affected many lived experiences at work home and within educational settings and how they have served to privilege some and not others The book offers an exploration into how these factors need to be centered in a discourse and perspective that can provide those in the margins as well as in the center with ways to think about creating changes in their classrooms communities and homes This volume is a timely addition to the intense racial debate occurring in this country today It is a long overdue medium through which those in higher education as well as the general adult education field can engage in a discussion that leads to critical understanding and moves us into meaningful change
