Bursztyn Ph.D., 2002-03-30 Korn and Bursztyn and their contributors examine the cultural transitions that children make as they move between the cultures of home and school To better understand these transitions they explore how educators understand their students shifting experiences and examine how educators also negotiate transitions as they too move from home to school each day The narratives or case studies reflect this shifting gaze from child to teacher to parents and take up the various relational configurations that these can form amongst and between each other They turn a critical eye toward instances of classroom practice and school life connecting personal knowledge with school change In some cases the authors draw directly on autobiographical material linking these to a reflective approach to teaching Avoiding the celebratory tone that often attends discussions of multiculturalism the authors address how diversity engages us in continual renegotiation of the personal and social The perspectives of educators and of teacher candidates are presented and the construction of cultural identity and its impact on schools explored In illuminating the complicated nature of cultural transitions and the obligation of schools to create places in which children and families of diverse backgrounds can thrive they highlight how multiculturalism can play a transformative role in the lives of children and schools A must reading for educators and graduate students in education school psychology guidance and counseling Democracy and Multicultural Education Farideh Salili, Rumjahn Hoosain, 2010-04-01 Democratic political systems and the democratic way of life is aspired by most people around the world Democracy is considered to be morally superior to other forms of political systems as it aspires to secure civil liberties human rights social justice and equality before the law for everyone regardless of their gender culture religion and national origin

Enshrined in democracy is separation of religion and state fair and competitive elections of leaders according to a country's constitution which in turn is based on democratic ideals Democracy aspires for people of different backgrounds to live together with their differences intact but all contributing towards a better life for all In today's increasingly pluralistic societies many people of different cultural and national backgrounds are brought together Many have migrated from countries with autocratic political systems Some with religions that require them to behave in different way others with cultures teaching them values of harmony collectivism and conformity as opposed to the culture of their host country emphasizing individualism and cherishing differences Hence in multicultural societies development of pluralistic democracy a democracy which includes respect for diversity is essential A truly multicultural education which is based on the assumption that different cultures will be equally represented in education goes a long way towards education for democratic citizenship Such an education would make students aware of issues of human rights and justice and encourage them to define their own values and ways in which they could contribute to a better world The aim of this volume is to provide a forum for discussion of how multiple social perspectives and personal values can be brought together on common grounds around matters related to democracy Contributions from research and scholarly theoretical work as well as presentation of existing creative models of democracy education will be included Authors from the major democracies will comment on the models and practice of multicultural education in their respective countries to facilitate discussion and learning from each others experiences
