Authenticity and Authentication of Heritage presents an assimilation of chapters that critically address some of the key emerging areas associated with authenticity It presents a variety of inspiring pieces of work that range from host guest authentication and intangible heritage to knowledge transfer processes authenticating heritage in fairy tale settings authenticity and anxiety in the smell of death and life understanding the boundaries of authenticity nostalgia sustainability marketing destination competitiveness examining affective connotations of authenticity and their contribution towards optimizing hedonic and eudaimonic well being during times of disruption The contentious concept of authenticity continues to be valorised in heritage tourism This scholarly initiative seeks to broaden the discursive parameters of authenticity and identify power mechanisms that shape the way authenticity is produced marketed and consumed This is an attempt to share contemporary views on how the contemporary notions of authenticity are derived interpreted applied processed and legitimised in local and global contexts Furthermore the significant relationship between health and authenticity is explored To put it simply this pandemic has significantly halted the way people connect with their cultural resources and seek authenticity within their inner selves and the outside realms in the heritage tourism system Heightened sense of global consciousness is a call to polish our authentic selves and elevate above inauthenticity or moral hypocrisy So is authenticity an evolving story or is it a story of floating immobility Who can tell the story and who decides what elements to fossilise How can existentialist authenticity and self authentication promote moral selving and well being of the self and the society Many questions like these have emerged in recent literature and this book uses conceptual empirical and theoretical explorations to identify and engage with such inquiries The chapters in this book except for the concluding chapter were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Heritage Tourism Gender, Growth, and Trade David Kucera,2001 This book provides a comparative account of women s employment in Japan and Germany Kucera examines women s role as a flexible contingent workforce in two of the world s foremost industrialised economies Scaling in Ecology with a Model System Aaron M. Ellison,Nicholas J. Gotelli,2021-08-03 A groundbreaking approach to scale and scaling in ecological theory and practice Scale is one of the most important concepts in ecology yet researchers often find it difficult to find ecological systems that lend themselves to its study Scaling in Ecology with a Model System synthesizes nearly three decades of research on the ecology of Sarracenia purpurea the northern pitcher plant showing how this carnivorous plant and its associated food web of microbes and macrobes can inform the challenging question of scaling in ecology Drawing on a wealth of findings from their pioneering lab and field experiments Aaron Ellison and Nicholas Gotelli reveal how the Sarracenia microecosystem has emerged as a model system for experimental ecology Ellison and Gotelli examine Sarracenia at a hierarchy of spatial scales individual pitchers within plants plants within bogs and bogs within landscapes and demonstrate how pitcher plants can serve as replicate miniature ecosystems that can be studied in wetlands throughout the United States and Canada They show how research on the Sarracenia microecosystem proceeds much more rapidly than studies of larger more slowly changing ecosystems such as forests grasslands lakes or streams which are more difficult to replicate and experimentally manipulate Scaling in Ecology with a Model System offers new insights into ecophysiology and stoichiometry demography extinction risk and species distribution models food webs and trophic dynamics and tipping points and regime shifts
