Economic Development And Cooperation In The Pacific Basin Trade Investment And Environmental Issues:

Economic Development and Cooperation in the Pacific Basin Hiro Lee, David W. Roland-Holst, 2010-05-19 The Pacific Basin is the most dynamic economic region of the world and has become a model for efficient international specialization growth and rising living standards This book brings together leading economic experts from around the region to appraise and distill the most important issues facing its policy makers including trade relations foreign investment flows and the environment As we stand at the threshold of the Pacific Century the lessons this region imparts to us hold the promise of rising living standards around the world Current Issues in Economic Integration M. Bruna Zolin, 2016-05-13 The current economic crisis has called into question the long term viability of the decoupling between multinational firms and the banking system It has also cast serious doubts on the US dollar centred monetary system and invited reassessment of the long term viability of US China economic relations based on a US current account deficit absorbed by Chinese financial institutions It is also an opportunity to analyse the rise in property prices particularly in fast growing economies Long term food security is also an issue bringing to the fore the multinational firms from emerging economies such as China and India and calling into question the response strategies of multinational firms from the West and Japan This book engages these key issues within the broad theme of integration to give an up to date consideration of the subject opening debate on the future stimulating role that Asia could play vis vis the West particularly the European Union Economic Integration and Development Mordechai Elihu Kreinin, Michael G. Plummer, 2003-01-01 The intriguing and provocative results on the effects of the single European market and NAFTA make this short book worth a read even if one is concerned only with how developing countries have been affected by regional trade agreements that do not include them Peter J Montiel Journal of Regional Science This book is an excellent attempt to pin down the effects of regional economic integration on developing countries it will prove to be a good guide for researchers and students of development economics working in the area of regional trading arrangements and policymakers and governments which are in the process of exploring the possibilities of forming free trade areas Pravakar Sahoo Development Policy Review Students interested in either the methodological issues inherent in research on trade or on the economics of trading blocs in general would profit from the book James J Hentz The European Journal of Development Research Questions related to the economics of regionalism became increasingly important beginning in the late 1980s when regional groupings started to become very popular as a tool of commercial policy The goal of this book is to address the question of whether or not regionalism in developed countries has truly benefited developing countries and to what degree regionalism among developing countries and between developed and developing countries will improve economic development prospects Mordechai Kreinin and Michael Plummer consider the implications of the emerging global trend of economic regionalism for developing countries The analysis focuses on the trade and investment effects of integration in developed countries on developing countries as well as the ramifications of regional integration in the latter After an extensive review of the theoretical and empirical literature pertinent to the economics of regionalism the book considers the ex post trade and direct foreign investment effects of the Single Market Program in Europe and NAFTA followed by chapters on ASEAN and economic integration in Latin America primarily MERCOSUR The study suggests three salient conclusions First in designing preferential trading arrangements developed countries should recognize and attempt to minimize the possible discriminating effect on developing countries Second the developing countries have an abiding interest in the success of WTO negotiations that would minimize the discrimination against them of regional groupings in Europe and North America And third any customs unions or free trade areas among the developing countries themselves should be outward looking if they are to enhance the welfare of developing countries Economists and policy scholars as well as readers interested in regionalism and economic development will find this book a great resource

Trade Integration in East Asia Mona Haddad, 2007 Production networks have been at the heart of the recent growth in trade among East Asian countries Fragmentation trade reflected mainly in the trade in parts and components is expanding more rapidly than the conventional trade in final goods This is mainly due to the relatively more favorable policy setting for international production agglomeration benefits arising from the early entry into this new form of specialization considerable intercountry wage differentials in the region lower trade and transport costs and specialization in products exhibiting increasing returns to scale The economic integration of China has deepened production fragmentation in East Asia countering fears of crowding out other countries for international specialization International production fragmentation in East Asia has intensified intraregional trade but has depended heavily on extraregional trade in final goods While production networks centered on China have contributed significantly to growth in East Asia they also breed vulnerabilities They have not automatically led to technology spillovers and have led to an extreme interdependence across East Asian countries

The Courteous Power John D. Ciorciari, Kiyoteru Tsutsui, 2021-11-08 The Courteous Power seeks to provide a nuanced view of the current relationship between Japan and Southeast Asia Much of the current scholarship on East Southeast Asian engagement has focused on the multidimensional chess game playing out between China and Japan as the dominant post imperialist powers Alternatively there has been renewed attention on ASEAN and other Southeast Asian centered initiatives explicitly minimizing the influence of East Asia in the region Given the urgency of understanding the careful balance in the Indo Pacific region this volume brings together scholars to examine the history and current engagement from a variety of perspectives ranging from economic and political to the cultural and technological while also focusing more clearly on the specific relationship between the region and Japan Multilateralizing Regionalism Richard Baldwin, Patrick

Low, 2009-02-19 Regional trade agreements RTAs have proliferated around the world in the past two decades and now nearly all members of the WTO are party to at least one Besides tariffs and rules of origin regulating trade in goods many RTAs now include provisions on services investments technical barriers to trade and competition rules as well as a host of issues not directly related to trade The geographic reach of RTAs is expanding with transcontinental agreements spreading forcefully alongside intra regional agreements Multilateralizing Regionalism was the title of a major conference held from 10-12 September 2007 at the WTO in Geneva Brought together in this publication the conference papers achieve two things First they marshal detailed new empirical work on the nature of the Spaghetti Bowl and the problems it poses for the multilateral trade system Second they contribute fresh and creative thinking on how to tame the tangle of regional trade agreements

The Rise of Asia Prema-chandra Athukorala, 2010-07-12 The Rise of Asia examines emerging trends and patterns of foreign trade and investment in Asia with a view to contributing to the policy debate on how development strategies should be adopted in response to challenges to economic globalization The existing body of knowledge in this subject area has predominantly been shaped by the experiences of the newly industrialized countries NICs in East Asia This volume is inspired by the conviction that generalization from the NIC experience is hazardous because the on going process of economic globalization over the past two decades has dramatically transformed the international context of national development policy making Moreover as embracing market albeit at varying degree and rapidly has now become an Asia wide phenomenon it is vital to look at the issues from a broader relational perspective paying attention to opportunities for intra regional division of labour within the wider context of global economic integration This book will be of interest to students and scholars with an interest in Asian studies economics political economy and globalization

Plummer, Erik Jones, 2006 Regional economic integration has become a key force in international commercial policy in the 2000s Europe has traditionally embraced regionalism the United States became actively involved in preferential trading arrangements only in the 1980s While Asia has been late in accepting formal regional economic integration accords all Asian countries are now in the process of creating various free trade areas and other forms of economic integration programs and some are already in place This volume analyzes the regionalism trend from an Asian perspective It considers the lessons from and the economic implications of various economic integration programs in the OECD mostly the EU but also NAFTA as well as the proposals for closer economic integration in the region itself Chapters deal with both real and financial integration issues
