Growing Up Brown Peter M. Jamero, Sr., 2011-09-01 I may have been like other boys but there was a major difference my family included 80 to 100 single young men residing in a Filipino farm labor camp It was as a campo boy that I first learned of my ancestral roots and the sometimes tortuous path that Filipinos took in sailing halfway around the world to the promise that was America It was as a campo boy that I first learned the values of family community hard work and education As a campo boy I also began to see the two faces of America a place where Filipinos were at once welcomed and excluded were considered equal and were discriminated against It was a place where the values of fairness and freedom often fell short when Filipinos put them to the test Peter Jamero Peter Jamero s story of hardship and success illuminates the experience of what he calls the bridge generation the American born children of the Filipinos recruited as farm workers in the 1920s and 30s Their experiences span the gap between these early immigrants and those Filipinos who owe their U S residency to the liberalization of immigration laws in 1965 His book is a sequel of sorts to Carlos Bulosan s America Is in the Heart with themes of heartbreaking struggle against racism and poverty and eventual triumph Jamero describes his early life in a farm labor camp in Livingston California and the path that took him through naval service and graduate school far beyond Livingston A longtime community activist and civic leader Jamero describes decades of toil and progress before the Filipino community entered the sociopolitical mainstream He shares a wealth of anecdotes and reflections from his career as an executive of health and human service programs in Sacramento Washington D C Seattle and San Francisco Stories we live and grow by Muna Saleh,2019-02-01 Interweaving my experiences as a Canadian Muslim woman mother grand daughter educator and scholar throughout this work I write about living and narratively inquiring Clandinin and Connelly Narrative Inquiry Clandinin alongside three Muslim mothers and daughters during our daughters transition into adolescence I was interested in mother and daughter experiences during this time of life transition because my eldest daughter Malak was in the midst of transitioning into adolescence as I embarked upon my doctoral research I had many wonders about Malak s experiences my experiences as a mother and the experiences of other Muslim daughters and mothers in the midst of similar life transitions I wondered about how dominant narratives from within and across Muslim and other communities in Canada shape our lives and experiences For while we are often storied as victims of various oppressions in media literature and elsewhere little is known about our diverse experiences particularly the experiences of Muslim mothers and daughters composing our selves and lives alongside one another in familial places The Storytime Handbook Nina Schatzkamer Miller,2014-01-27 Fresh fun ideas for children s storytime fill this book The author a long time storytime facilitator has put together 52 weekly themes plus additional plans for holidays all with detailed instructions for talking about the theme and choosing the books crafts songs poems games and snacks Each storytime idea is illustrated with photographs of a suggested craft and snack for easy reference Libraries bookstores preschools and parents alike can use this book to offer themed storytimes that include discussion literature art music movement and food Options are provided for each storytime so the ideas can be used year after year Resilience Ricardo Gomez,2023-11-25 This book is about the lived experiences of first generation Latino and Latina Latinx students going to college in Washington state combined with an analysis of immigration enforcement practices The experiences of resilience and creativity exhibited by Latinx students offer a stark contrast with the human rights violations by law enforcement agents whose collaboration with immigration enforcement is against the law in Washington state The book explores the work of the University of Washington Center for Human Rights particularly its work to defend and promote immigrants rights in Washington state The Center documents the collaboration and information sharing of local and state law enforcement with federal immigration enforcement agencies which predominantly target Latinx communities in Eastern Washington Since such collaboration and information sharing is now illegal under Washington state laws the findings of the work of the Center for Human Rights can be used by frontline human rights organizations in Washington state to advocate for stronger compliance by local and state law enforcement and stronger protection of immigrants rights In addition to documenting the work of the Center for Human Rights this book offers a collection of oral histories from UW students or alumni from Eastern Washington who self identify as Latinx Latinx is a gender neutral term for individuals who descend from Latin American ancestry and culture These Latinx stories offer a glimpse of the rich lived experiences in some of the communities that suffer the racial profiling and abuses of immigration enforcement These are the communities of migrant farmworkers that tend and harvest the fruits and agricultural produce of Washington the communities of origin of many of the students at the University of Washington

Getting to 30 Jeffrey Jensen Arnett, Elizabeth Fishel, 2014-05-06. This is the book parents have been waiting for. Michael Thompson, coauthor of Raising Cain. The book that is helpful, hopeful, and engaging. Jeanne Brooks Gunn, Ph.D., Columbia University. It is the book that addresses the new reality for parents of kids in their 20s and the issues that everyone in the media is talking about: When will this new generation of 20-somethings leave home, find love, start a career, settle down, grow up? And it's the book that will soothe your nerves. It's loaded with information about what to expect and guidance on what to do when problems arise as they probably will. In other words, this is the book parents need. Getting to 30 by Jeffrey Jensen Arnett, the world's leading authority on the post-adolescent phase he named emerging adulthood, and Elizabeth Fishel, author of Sisters and other books. As Getting to 30 shows, the road to adulthood is longer than we think, and for parents, bumpier. It explains what's really happening to your 18 to 29-year-old, including the story behind your child's moods. The phenomenon of the boomerang child and why it's actually a good thing for parents and kids. The new landscape of 20-something romance. And it gives all the tools parents need to deal with the challenges from six ways to listen more than you talk to knowing when to open and close the Bank of Mom and Dad while saving for retirement to figuring out the protocol for social media. Published in hardcover as When Will My Grown Up Kid Grow Up? Getting to 30 includes the latest research on the optimistic and supportive attitude most parents have regarding their 20-something children.

Diverse Stories Lou Richie's Sixth Grade Class, 2006-11. But what I also know is that writing allows students to explore and reveal how they view life based on their frames of references. There is no common theme in the Diverse Stories From the Imaginations of Sixth Graders because the students were allowed to write about whatever they wanted. How refreshing! The stories are equally as unique as the individual writers: some melancholy, some funny, some breathtaking, all fantastic. Mary B. Morrison, bestselling author of Nothing Has Ever Felt Like This. This charming collection of short stories shares the talents of Lou Richie's sixth-grade students from St. Lawrence O'Toole School in Oakland, California. Diverse Stories From the Imaginations of Sixth Graders was developed as a class project when Richie requested that each student write a short story. Impressed by their creativity and imagination, Richie sought to share their stories with the world. He approached bestselling author Mary B. Morrison about the project, and Morrison offered to fully sponsor the publication of their stories. Through the combined efforts of the students, Morrison, and Richie, Diverse Stories From the Imaginations of Sixth Graders was born.
