Islam And Central Asia Center For Political And Strategic Studies:

Islam, Society, and Politics in Central Asia Pauline Jones, 2017-07-20 During the 1990s there was a general consensus that Central Asia was witnessing an Islamic revival after independence and that this occurrence would follow similar events throughout the Islamic world in the prior two decades which had negative effects on both social and political development. Twenty years later we are still struggling to fully understand the transformation of Islam in a region that evolved through a complex and dynamic process involving diversity in belief and practice, religious authority and political intervention. This volume seeks to shed light on these crucial questions by bringing together an international group of scholars to offer a fresh perspective on Central Asian states and societies. The chapters provide analysis through four distinct categories: the everyday practice of Islam across local communities; state policies toward Islam focusing on attempts to regulate public and private practice through cultural, legal and political institutions; and how these differ from Soviet policies; how religious actors influence communities in the practice of Islam; state policies towards the religion and subsequent communal responses to state regulations; and how knowledge of and interaction with the larger Islamic world is shaping Central Asia's current Islamic revival and state responses. The contributors, a multidisciplinary and international group of leading scholars, develop fresh insights that both corroborate and contradict findings from previous research while also highlighting the problem of making any generalizations about Islam in individual states or the region. As such, this volume provides new and impactful analysis for scholars, students and policy makers concerned with Central Asia. Political Islam in Central Asia

Emmanuel Karagiannis, 2009-12-04 A comprehensive study of one of the most feared but least understood international Islamist organizations in post-Soviet Central Asia, Hizb ut Tahrir. Using primary sources and first-hand accounts, it analyses its leadership, ideology, political methodology and party structure, and its future relationship to violence in this key region.

Politics, Identity and Education in Central Asia Pinar Akçalı, Cennet Engin-Demir, 2013 Focusing on the areas of politics, identity and education, this book looks at some of the most pressing and challenging issues that Kyrgyzstan faces in the post-Soviet era. It argues that Kyrgyzstan is challenged with oscillations between the old and the new, on the one hand, and domestic and international, on the other. The book analyses the process of post-Soviet transition in today's Kyrgyzstan by focusing on the political elites, some of the major identity problems and educational issues. It discusses how Kyrgyzstan's first president in the post-Soviet era had already been an exceptional leader even prior to the collapse of the Soviet Union in terms of his democratic and liberal tendencies. The book goes on to look at how identity is a major factor in the country, shaped to a large extent by genealogical factors and patron-client mechanisms on the one hand, and religious considerations on the other. Finally, it highlights how education has been perceived as a very influential agent of socialization that develops not only literacy and other skills but also common attitudes and values that are considered essential to any society. By evaluating these three areas, the book argues that Kyrgyzstan cannot isolate itself from the demands, priorities and pressures of international actors which sometimes are in conflict with the country's domestic conditions. It is of interest to students and scholars of Asian Studies, Politics and International Relations.

Being Muslim in Central Asia, 2018-01-03. This volume explores the changing place of Islam in contemporary Central Asia, understanding religion as a societal shaper, a roadmap for navigating quickly evolving social and cultural values. Islam can take on multiple colors and identities from a purely transcendental faith in God to a cauldron of ideological ferment for political ideology via diverse culture, community and history-based phenomena. The volume discusses what it means to be a Muslim in today's Central Asia by looking at both historical and sociological features, investigates the relationship between Islam, politics and the state, the changing role of Islam in terms of societal values and the issue of female attire as a public debate. Contributors include Aur lie Biard, Tim Epkenhans, Nurgul Esenamanova, Azamat Junisbai, Barbara Junisbai, Marlene Laruelle, Marantha Miles, Emil Nasritdinov, Shahnoza Nozimova, Yaacov Ro'i, Wendell Schwab, Manja Stephan, Emmrich Rano, Turaeva Alon, Wainer Alexander, Wolters Galina, M. Yemelianova, Baurzhan Zhussupov.

The History of the Central Asian Republics, Peter L. Roudik, 2007-10-30. Central Asia's long and complicated history is teeming with diverse cultures and traditions. The nations of Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan have served as a major cultural crossroad throughout the millennia with many customs colliding and blending along the way. In this comprehensive volume, students can learn how Central Asia developed in ancient times and how the nations of the steppes evolved through the Middle Ages into modern history. From the Silk Road to Russian colonization to Soviet rule, Central Asia's ever-changing nations continue to play an important role in international society today. This volume is the perfect addition to any high school, public or undergraduate library.

Everyday Islam in Post-Soviet Central Asia, Maria Elisabeth Louw, 2007-05-09. Providing a wealth of empirical research on the everyday practice of Islam in post-Soviet Central Asia, this book gives a detailed account of how Islam is understood and practised among ordinary Muslims in the region, focusing in particular on Uzbekistan. It shows how individuals negotiate understandings of Islam as an important marker for identity, grounding for morality and as a tool for everyday problem solving in the economically harsh, socially insecure and politically tense atmosphere of present-day Uzbekistan. Presenting a detailed case study of the city of Bukhara that focuses upon the local forms of Sufism and saint veneration, the book shows how Islam facilitates the pursuit of more modest goals of agency and belonging as opposed to the utopian illusions of fundamentalist Muslim doctrines.

Power, Networks and Violent Conflict in Central Asia, Idil Tunçer-Kılavuz, 2014-06-27. When the five Central Asian republics gained independence from the Soviet Union in 1991, expectations of violent conflict were widespread. Indeed, the country of Tajikistan suffered a five-year civil war from 1992 to 1997. The factors that the literature on civil wars in general and on the Tajikistan civil war in particular cites as the causes of war were also present in Uzbekistan, but this country had a peaceful transition. Examining this empirical puzzle by isolating the crucial factors that caused war to break out in Tajikistan but not Uzbekistan, this book applies a powerful comparative approach to the broader question of why civil wars occur Based on fieldwork in both countries it challenges many common explanations of civil war both generally and in Tajikistan in particular This includes highlighting the importance of elites power perceptions which have their origins in the interaction of structural process and network related variables Without examining these interactions macro structural explanations alone cannot explain the occurrence of civil war in one country and its absence in another Applying the insights of bargaining theories of war from the literature on international relations to the civil war in Tajikistan this book will be of interest to students of violent conflict civil wars Central Asia and Asian Politics

Religious Identity and Social Change David Radford,2015-06-19 Religious Identity and Social Change offers a macro and micro analysis of the dynamics of rapid social and religious change occurring within the Muslim world Drawing on rich ethnographic and quantitative research in Kyrgyzstan Central Asia David Radford provides theoretical insight into the nature of religious and social change and ethnic identity transformation exploring significant questions concerning why people convert and what happens when they do so A crisis of identity occurs when religious conversion takes place especially from one major religious tradition Islam to another Christianity and where religious identity is intimately connected to ethnic and national identity Radford argues for the importance of recognising the socially constructed nature of identity involving the dynamic interplay between human agency culture and social networks Kyrgyz Christians have been active agents in bringing religious and identity transformation building upon the contextual parameters in which they are situated Understanding Central Asia Sally N. Cummings,2013-01-25 Since Soviet collapse the independent republics of Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan have faced tremendous political economic and security challenges Focusing on these five republics this textbook analyzes the contending understandings of the politics of the past present and future transformations of Central Asia including its place in international security and world politics Analysing the transformation that independence has brought and tracing the geography history culture identity institutions and economics of Central Asia it locates the political in the region A comprehensive examination of the politics of Central Asia this insightful book is of interest both to undergraduate and graduate students of Asian Politics Post Communist Politics Comparative Politics and International Relations and to scholars and professionals in the region Russia's Engagement with the West Alexander J.
