Integrated Natural Resource Management

Bruce Morgan Campbell, Jeffrey Sayer, 2003 This book which contains 15 separately authored chapters discusses both the principles and applications of an integrated approach to natural resource management Such an approach must embrace the complexity of systems and redirect research towards the greater inclusion of issues such as participatory approaches multi scale analysis and an array of tools for system analysis information management and impact assessment Case studies particularly from developing countries in Asia Africa and Latin America are included This book is of interest to a wide range of readers in many disciplines including forestry soil and management sciences agriculture and development studies Diverse Contemporary Issues Facing Business Management Education Khan, Mohammad Ayub, 2014-09-30 In today's society it is not only desirable but essential for a business to take on a global edge. The best way to ensure a successful future is to educate business students about global policies currently at play. Diverse Contemporary Issues Facing Business Management Education discusses the issues that are facing both large and small corporations and the students who are seeking employment there. Questioning not only what changes globalization has brought to the business world but what ways our education system will have to change to keep up, this book is an essential reference source for business owners, educators, students, or anyone interested in the future globalization of the business market. Prospectus on Research, 1960 Informing Science

Volume Two: Design and Research Issues T. Grandon Gill, The two volume Informing Science series is the first attempt to survey and synthesize research in the informing science transdiscipline. Part textbook, part collection of readings, the two volumes present both important research findings relating to the field and highlight fertile directions for future research. Volume Two: Design and Research Issues applies the building blocks of informing science described in Volume One: Concepts and Systems to design and research questions. It begins by looking at alternative approaches to informing system design. These include structured methodologies, agile approaches, effectuation, and emergent models. A series of chapters follows that present research findings related to a series of topics that have played an important role in the development of informing science as a research area. These include the relationship between rigor and research methods, threats to informing such as misinformation and disinformation, the nature of informing impact, information cascades, the relationship of culture to informing, and the research practice gap. The book concludes with a chapter that considers possible extensions to the current informing science research agenda and an afterword that presents the author's reflections on the development of the series and its long-term future. Integrating Research and Practice Institute of Medicine, Roundtable on Value and Science-Driven Health Care, 2015-03-04 Health care has been called one of the most complex sectors of the U.S. economy. Driven largely by robust innovation in treatments and interventions, this complexity has created an increased need for evidence about what works best for whom in order to inform decisions that lead to safe, efficient, effective, and affordable care. As health care becomes more digital, clinical datasets are becoming larger and more numerous. By realizing the potential of knowledge generation that is more closely integrated with the practice of care, it should be possible not only to produce more usable evidence to inform decisions but also to increase the efficiency and decrease the costs of doing clinical research. Patient-Centered Clinical Research Network or PCORnet is a nation-wide patient-centered clinical research network intended to form a resource of clinical administrative and patient data that can be used to carry out observational and interventional research studies and enhance the use of clinical data to advance the learning health care system. The primary goal of the first phase of PCORnet will be to establish the data infrastructure necessary to do such research. In April and June 2014 the Institute of

Medicine's Roundtable on Value and Science Driven Health Care convened two workshops aimed at accelerating progress toward real time knowledge generation through the seamless integration of clinical practice and research one of the fundamental concepts of a continuously learning health system centered on the development of the PCORnet The first workshop brought together health care system leaders both administrative and clinical and researchers to consider issues and strategic priorities for building a successful and durable clinical research network and facilitate progress toward a continuously learning health care system more broadly including issues related to science technology ethics business regulatory oversight sustainability and governance The second workshop focused on implementation approaches Health system CEOs convened to consider strategic priorities and explore approaches to implementation These workshops will inform the decisions of field leaders moving forward including PCORI the PCORnet steering committee and PCORnet grantees Integrating Research and Practice is the summary of the presentations and discussions of the workshops

Research Directions, Challenges and Achievements of Modern Geography Jerzy Bański, Michael Meadows, 2023-12-01 This book identifies and discusses research directions challenges and achievements in contemporary geography It also documents the most current theoretical and methodological considerations undertaken by scientists representing various sub disciplines of geography with particular reference to human geography It was assumed that the thematic structure of the currently active International Geographical Union IGU problem commissions corresponds to the most relevant and current research directions in geography. Reflecting this assumption, the book consists of 14 chapters contributed by geographers representing 14 problem commissions of the IGU, which allows us to examine geography from different perspectives and to provide the reader with a complete overview of contemporary research issues in human geography. The first part discusses contemporary research problems and issues related to scientific methodology and achievements of selected geographical sub-disciplines, including urban geography, agricultural geography, transport geography, and political geography, among others. The second part focuses on the interdisciplinarity of geography and the topics of global dimension undertaken by geographers, such as global change, GIS, and geospatial technology, marginalization, and environmental change. This part also discusses the internal relations between geographical specializations and their links with other related sciences, including geology, sociology, and economics. The third part discusses the holistic approaches of geography applied to particular regions, territories, or conditions: Africa, coastal systems, geomorphology, and local development.

Doing Digital Film History Sarah-Mai Dang, Tim van der Heijden, Christian Gosvig Olesen, 2024-12-30. How has the digital turn shaped the practices of film historical research and teaching? While computational approaches have been used by film historians since the 1960s and 1970s, the arrival and use of digital tools and methods in recent decades has fundamentally changed the ways we search, analyze, interpret, present, and so think and write about film history. From digital archival and curatorial practices, data-driven search and analysis of film historical collections, to the visualization and dissemination of film historical materials online, while film historians have increasingly embraced the new possibilities brought by digital technologies, their practical epistemological and methodological implications need further exploration. What opportunities does the digitization of film historical sources provide for film historians? What new questions can be raised by using digital methods? What new perspectives emerge from analyzing, interpreting, and visualizing film historical data at the levels of both close and distant or scalable reading and viewing? By focusing on the concepts, tools, and practices of digital film historiography, this edited volume aims to contribute to a better understanding and critical reflection on the changes and continuities of doing film history in the digital age.
