

CHRISTIANITY

- For Christians, the New Testament is key to understanding the teachings and parables that Jesus relates to his disciples.
- Christianity sees a "pope", who is the head of the Catholic Church and holding the office of sovereign in the Vatican State.
- Christianity has always been very attached to the Virgin Mary giving a very important and unique place to the Virgin. Christianity does believe that Mary was born without original sin.

JUDAISM

- Judaism does not accept the New Testament, because according to their beliefs for Jews the Old Testament is the Hebrew bible and is considered an essential scripture.
- The religion of Judaism is guided by a "rabbi" who is practically a teacher who guides and teaches the people about their beliefs and the importance of different aspects of life.
- Judaism is based on the idea that they recognize Mary as the mother of Jesus, but they do not agree that she was not born with the original sin, since as mentioned in the Old Testament everyone should be born with the original stain.

Islams Relationship To Christianity And Judaism:

Islam's Relationship to Christianity and Judaism As'ad Namir Buşul,1994 Islam Within Judaism and Christianity, a Voice from the Past Ahmed Shendy Yousef,2014-01-27 Islam within Judaism and Christianity is a truth that is clear and bright in the midst of a dark world that has lost its way through understanding that are guided by Satan This book will remove the veil off of Gods concealed messages and it will impact the twisted long life of preaching that was used for indecent political power and financial gains causing billions of innocent lives lost throughout history Through Islam within Judaism and Christianity I would like to introduce you to the messages of God from the holy Bible and The Quran so that you can discover that we are all followers of Moses Jesus and Mohammed We are one nation that belongs to the same one God so we may consider changing our attention from striking one another to striking our one enemy Satan This is a book that assists you in better understanding one another in pursuit of making our world a better place and doing it together Ahmed S Yousef PT Ph D Reconciling Islam, Christianity and Judaism Terence Lovat,Robert Crotty,2015-02-23 At the present time when so called Islamic radicalism terrorism and Jihadism occupy major media space with Islam often depicted as the main culprit the book attempts a tour de force It proposes that Islam is as much victim as culprit in the history that has led to the current hostility This is because the common claims of both mainstream and radical Islam that Islam represents the high point of the Abrahamic tradition and therefore a purification of Judaism and Christianity have been largely ignored misunderstood or blatantly rejected by these faiths and therefore by the West in general This rejection has effectively rendered Islam as the poor cousin if not the illegitimate sibling of the tradition In turn this has created long term resentment and hostility within Islam as well as robbed the Judaeo Christian West of a rich inter faith understanding of the wider Abrahamic tradition The book explores these claims through textual historical and theological analyses proposing that many of them stand up better to critical scrutiny than has been commonly acknowledged It further proposes that seeing Islam in this way has potential to re awaken its self understanding as a leader of accord among the Abrahamic faiths of the kind that characterized the era of Convivencia when in medieval Spain Islam constructed and contributed to advanced civilizations characterized by relatively harmonious co existence between Muslims Christians and Jews The book focuses on the role that a more respected and self confident Islam could play in forging enhanced inter faith relations in a world that desperately needs them as it struggles to understand and deal with modern and particularly vicious forms of radical Islamism Islam F. E. Peters,2005-03-14 The Quran is a sacred book with profound and familiar Old and New Testament resonances And the message it promulgated Islam came of age during an extraordinarily rich era of interaction among monotheists Jews Christians and Muslims not only worshipped the same God but shared aspirations operated in the same social and economic environment and sometimes lived side by side indistinguishable by language costume or manners Today of course little of this commonality is apparent and Islam is poorly understood by most non Muslims Entering Islam through the same biblical door Muhammad did this book introduces readers with Christian or Jewish backgrounds to one of the world's largest most active and in the West least understood religions. Frank Peters, one of the world's leading authorities on the monotheistic religions, starts with the central feature of Muslim faith and life: the Quran. Across its pages move Adam, Noah, Abraham, David, Solomon, John the Baptist, Jesus, and the Virgin Mary. The Quran contains remarkably familiar accounts of Genesis, the Flood, Exodus, the Virgin Birth, and other biblical events. But Peters also highlights Muhammad's very different use of Scripture and explains those elements of the Quran most alien to Western readers, from its didactic passages to its remarkable poetry. Peters goes on to cogently explain Islam's defining features, including the significance of Mecca, the manner of Muhammad's revelations, and the creation of the unique community of Muslims, all in relation to the Judeo-Christian tradition. He compares Jesus and Muhammad, describes Islamic commandments and rituals, details the structures of Sunni and Shi'ite communities, and lays out central Islamic beliefs on war, women, mysticism, and martyrdom. The result is a crucial and extremely accomplished book that offers Western readers a professional yet highly accessible understanding of Islam, and at a time when we need it most.

Judaism, Christianity, and Islam: The Classical Texts and Their Interpretation, Volume II

F. E. Peters, 2021-04-13. Invoking a concept as simple as it is brilliant, F. E. Peters has taken the basic texts of the three related and competitive religious systems we call Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, and has juxtaposed them in a topical and parallel arrangement according to the issues that most concerned all these children of Abraham. Through these extensive passages and the author's skillful connective commentary, the three traditions are shown with their similarities, sometimes startlingly underlined, and their well-known differences now more profoundly exposed. What emerges from this unique and ambitious work is a panorama of belief, practice, and sensibility that will broaden our understanding of our religious and political roots in a past that is, by these communities' definition, still the present. The hardcover edition of the work is bound in one volume, and in the paperback version the identical material is broken down into three smaller but self-contained books. The second, The Word and the Law and the People of God, discusses the scriptures of the three faiths in various contexts: exegetical and legal. Throughout the work, we hear an amazing variety of voices: some familiar, some not all of them central to the primary and secondary canons of their own tradition. Alongside the Scriptural voice of God are the words of theologians, priests, visionaries, lawyers, rulers, and the ruled. The work ends as does the same author's now classic Children of Abraham: in what Peters calls the classical period, that is, before the great movements of modernism and reform that were to transform Judaism, Christianity, and Islam.

Dhimmi and Others Uri Rubin, David Wasserstein, 1997. Islam has always had ambivalent relations with Judaism and Christianity, as also with Jews and Christians. The awkwardness of their character has been accentuated by the creation and perpetuation on all sides of partial and ill intentioned images during the middle ages and by political developments in the modern period Since the beginning of serious modern study of Islam in the west these relations have found an important place in scholars interest partly because many of those in the west who have studied Islam have been Jews with a natural attraction to an interest in those topics which affected Jews and other minorities in the Islamic environment In this volume we have tried to assemble a collection of papers which reflect something of the diversity of the problems offered by this range of relations We have also attempted to reflect in the variety of the papers and the topics discussed in them the rich variety of approach adopted by scholars over the last century and a half of such study Israel

The Concept of Peace in Judaism, Christianity and Islam Georges Tamer, 2020-10-26 The eighth volume of the series Key Concepts of Interreligious Discourses investigates the roots of the concept of peace in Judaism Christianity and Islam and its relevance for the present time Facing present violent conflicts waged and justified by religious ideas or reasons peace building prevails in current debates about religion and peace Here the central question is How may traditional sources in religions help to put down the weapons and create a society in which everyone can live safely without hostilities and the threat of violence When we take the Sacred Scriptures of Judaism Christianity and Islam into consideration it becomes obvious that the term peace and its equivalents in Hebrew Greek and Arabic describe at first an ideal state based on the love mercy of God to his creation It is a divine gift that brings inward peace to the individuum and outer peace resting upon justice and equality One main task of Jews Christian and Muslims in the history is to find out how to bring down this transcendent ideal upon earth The volume presents the concept of peace in its different aspects as anchored in the traditions of Judaism Christianity and Islam It unfolds commonalities and differences between the three monotheistic religions as well as the manifold discourses about peace within these three traditions The book offers fundamental knowledge about the specific understanding of peace in each one of these traditions their interdependencies and their relationship to secular world views

Jewish-Christianity and the History of Judaism Annette Yoshiko Reed, 2018-07-12 Jewish Christianity is a contested category in current research But for precisely this reason it may offer a powerful lens through which to rethink the history of Jewish Christian relations Traditionally Jewish Christianity has been studied as part of the origins and early diversity of Christianity Collecting revised versions of previously published articles together with new materials Annette Yoshiko Reed reconsiders Jewish Christianity in the context of Late Antiquity and in conversation with Jewish studies She brings further attention to understudied texts and traditions from Late Antiquity that do not fit neatly into present day notions of Christianity as distinct from Judaism In the process she uses these materials to probe the power and limits of our modern assumptions about religion and identity and Muslims as for all human beings military conflicts and war remain part of the reality of the world. The authoritative writings of Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, namely the Hebrew Bible, the New Testament, and the Koran, as well as the theological and philosophical traditions based on them, bear witness to this fact. Showing the influence of different historical political situations, various views, sometimes quite similar, sometimes more divergent, have developed in the three religions to justify the waging of war under certain circumstances. Such views have also been integrated in different ways into legal systems while in certain cases theologies have provided legitimation for military expansion and atrocities. The aim of the volume The Concept of Just War in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam is to explore the respective understanding of just war in each one of these three religions and to make their commonalities and differences discursively visible. In addition, it highlights and explains the significance of the topic to the present time. Can the concepts developed in the Jewish, Christian, and Islamic traditions in order to justify war serve as a foundation for contemporary peace ethics? Or do religious arguments always add fuel to the fire in armed conflict? The contributions in this volume will help provide answers to these and other socially and politically relevant questions.

Poverty and Wealth in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam Nathan R. Kollar, Muhammad Shafiq, 2016-07-27. This book gathers scholars from the three major monotheistic religions to discuss the issue of poverty and wealth from the varied perspectives of each tradition. It provides a cadre of values inherent to the sacred texts of Jews, Christians, and Muslims and illustrates how these values may be used to deal with current economic inequalities. Contributors use the methodologies of religious studies to provide descriptions and comparisons of perspectives from Judaism, Christianity, and Islam on poverty and wealth. The book presents citations from the sacred texts of all three religions. The contributors discuss the interpretations of these texts and the necessary contexts, both past and present, for deciphering the stances found there. Poverty and Wealth in Judaism, Christianity, and Islam identifies and details a foundation of common values upon which individual and institutional decisions may be made.

Holy Scriptures in Judaism, Christianity and Islam H. M. Vroom, Jerald D. Gort, 1997. One of the prime issues that needs to be addressed in dialogical encounter between the three monotheistic faiths of the world is that concerning the authority and interpretation of Holy Writ, since Jews, Christians, and Muslims alike consider their Scriptures to be divine revelation. It is incumbent upon each of these religions to apprise itself of the hermeneutical approach employed by the others in ascribing current meaning to ancient scriptural texts. This is not only important as a means for the enhancement of inter-religious understanding but is also of great interest to society at large. What role does the Jewish Bible, the Christian Bible, and the Qur'an play in the thinking and the lives of contemporary Jews, Christians, and Muslims? How are these Holy Scriptures interpreted in terms of present-day circumstances? How much room do the three religions allow for bringing their basic messages and biblical theological traditions into rapport with constantly changing social, political, and economic conditions? Is the concept of hermeneutical space acceptable to these religions? If so, in what sense and at what level? Is it possible to identify the scopus of a text and then reconstitute it textually as it were in light of the social and ethical questions thrown up by new contextual developments Can interpretive adjustments be made without jeopardizing the core message of the text involved And do the three monotheistic religions stand open to one another for influence in this regard Has one or another of them taken hermeneutical cues from the others Is there room for mutual learning within the hermeneutical space mentioned above or is this a sacred space closed to all influence from other traditions These are among the central questions raised and dealt with in this interreligious collection of essays perhaps the only dialogical symposium to date to deal exclusively with the doctrine and hermeneutics of Holy Scripture in Judaism Christianity and Islam
