Islands of Angry Ghosts Hugh Edwards, 1969 Islands of Angry Ghosts Hugh Edwards, 2013 Islands of Angry Ghosts, 1966 Islands Magazine, 2002-11 Islands Magazine, 2002-11 Batavia's Graveyard Mike Dash, 2003-05-27 In 1628 the Dutch East India Company loaded the Batavia the flagship of its fleet with a king's ransom in gold silver and gems for her maiden voyage to Java the ship itself was a tangible symbol of the world's richest and most powerful monopoly The company also sent along a new employee to guard its treasure He was Jeronimus Corneliszoon a disgraced and bankrupt man with great charisma and dangerously heretical ideas With the help of a few disgruntled sailors he hatched a plot to seize the ship and her riches The mutiny might have succeeded but in the dark morning hours of June 3 1629 the Batavia smashed through a coral reef and ran aground on a small chain of islands near Australia The captain and skipper escaped the wreck and in a tiny lifeboat they set sail for Java some 1 500 miles north to summon help More than 250 frightened survivors waded ashore thankful to be alive Unfortunately Jeronimus and the mutineers had survived too and the nightmare was only beginning Islands, Identity and the Literary Imagination Elizabeth McMahon, 2016-07-09 Australia is the planet's sole island continent This book argues that the uniqueness of this geography has shaped Australian history and culture including its literature Further it shows how the fluctuating definition of the island continent throws new light on the relationship between islands and continents in the mapping of modernity The book links the historical and geographical conditions of islands with their potent role in the imaginaries of European colonisation It prises apart the tangled web of geography fantasy desire and writing that has framed the Western understanding of islands both their real and material conditions and their symbolic power from antiquity into globalised modernity The book also traces how this spatial imaginary has shaped the modern man who is imagined as being the island's mirror The inter relationship of the island fantasy colonial expansion and the literary construction of place and history created a new man the dislocated and alienated subject of post colonial modernity This book looks at the contradictory images of islands from the allure of the desert island as a paradise where the world can be made anew to their roles as prisons as these ideas are made concrete at moments of British colonialism It also considers alternatives to viewing islands as objects of possession in the archipelagic visions of island theorists and writers It compares the European understandings of the first and last of the new worlds the Caribbean archipelago and the Australian island continent to calibrate the different ways these disparate geographies unified and fractured the concept of the planetary globe In particular it examines the role of the island in this process specifically its capacity to figure a graspable globe in the mind The book draws on the colonial archive and ranges across Australian literature from the first novel written and published in Australia by a convict on the island of Tasmania to both the ancient dreaming and the burgeoning literature of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders in the twenty first century It discusses Australian literature in an international context drawing on the long traditions of literary islands across a range of cultures The book s approach is theoretical and engages with contemporary philosophy which uses the island and the archipelago as a key metaphor It is also historicist and includes considerable original historical research

The Company Arabella Edge, 2002-01-09 I Jeronimus am a man of phials a measurer of powders on bronze scales a potion brewer an opium and arsenic merchant The primed and perfumed Amsterdam burghers came to me in droves requiring cures for fevers love balms the miscarriage of a bastard child and of course poisons Ah poisons So speaks Jeronimus Cornelisz a thirty year old apothecary who transforms before our eyes into a murderous madman The Company is a novel based on the 1629 voyage of the Dutch East India Company flagship Batavia bound for the colonies with a cargo of untold riches Among the passengers is Cornelisz a man ousted from polite society by sordid rumors of necromancy Corrupt to the very marrow of his soul Cornelisz considers himself God s equal the rightful heir to gold silver even another man s wife So twisted is he by lust and greed that he incites a mutiny running the ship aground on a reef All is lost the ship is wrecked its passengers dying the treasure trashed at the bottom of the sea The apothecary will heal us the survivors pray believing themselves lucky to be alive In the name of benevolence Cornelisz seizes command of their island refuge The brave castaways stir with hope until the killing begins For forty frenzied days Cornelisz decides who shall live and who shall die leaving his victims with just one wish that they had gone down with the ship Soaked with the blood of the innocent and the wicked The Company plunges with the weight of history deep into the heart of darkness

Mammals in the Seas Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations. Working Party on Marine Mammals,1978-01-01 Ideologies of Identity in Adolescent Fiction Robyn McCallum,2012-10-02 Ideologies of Identity in Adolescent Fiction examines the representation of selfhood in adolescent and children s fiction using a Bakhtinian approach to subjectivity language and narrative The ideological frames within which identities are formed are inextricably bound up with ideas about subjectivity ideas which pervade and underpin adolescent fictions Although the humanist subject has been systematically interrogated by recent philosophy and criticism the question which lies at the heart of fiction for young people is not whether a coherent self exists but what kind of self it is and what are the conditions of its coming into being

Ideologies of Identity in Adolescent Fiction has a double focus first the images of selfhood that the fictions offer their readers especially the interactions between selfhood social and cultural forces ideologies and other selves and second the strategies used to structure narrative and to represent subjectivity and intersubjectivity Hawaiian legends of Ghosts and Ghost-Gods William Drake Westervelt, 1985-01-01 Islands of Gold Grant Hyde, 2011-01-01 In the tradition of Wilbur Smith and Patrick O'Brian comes the next sensational South Seas adventure The year is 1796 and three and a half years have passed since Captain Lightfoot and his crew helped restore justice and peace to Tonga It is time for them to return to their colony in New Holland and then on to Mother England But fate plays strange tricks in this vast ocean even on the true of heart and Lightfoot and his Polynesian crew find themselves facing an old enemy Meanwhile far off in the Torres Strait a Dutch East India merchant ship is wrecked on an uncharted reef When the captain and officers are murdered by the mutinous crew a fortune in gold and jewels locked away in the ship's belly goes up for grabs As fate brings these two crews together Lightfoot Sevesi Hurley and Hiki will encounter the ruthless Company men warring Aborigines brutal Portuguese authorities and man eating crocodiles With the odds stacked against them will the crew of the Royal make it out alive Islands of Gold is a mesmerising tale of greed betrayal gold and violence set in a world of savage beauty Swallowed by the Sea Graeme Henderson, 2016-10-01 Published in Association with the Western Australian Museum Swallowed by the Sea tells the stories of Australia's greatest and most tragic shipwrecks lost in raging storms on jagged reefs under enemy fire or through human error treachery or incompetence It includes wrecks from all corners of Australia from 1622 to as recently as 2010 from clipper ships to colonial schooners to East Indiamen Read about the oldest known wreck in Australian waters the Tryal driven into a maze of sunken rocks by the inept Captain Brookes and about the loss of emigrant barque Cataraqui which struck a reef off King Island in the middle of a stormy night drowning more than 400 people The violent wrecking of ships is only part of the story Maritime archaeologist Graeme Henderson has personally located and dived many of the shipwrecks in this book Alongside his accounts are colour underwater photographs of the dive sites with specially written recollections by members of the diving crew
