Conflict is a phenomenon as old as human history Although the actors and reasons have changed conflicts have occurred in every period of history In the pre Cold War era conflicts in the international system were experienced between states The conflicts during the Cold War mainly were interstate conflicts arising from the rivalry between the two blocs In this period it was expected that the threat to the security of a state would come from outside the borders of the state and from other states For this reason all the regulations made by the League of Nations which was established at the end of the First World War and the United Nations which was established after the Second World War to protect international peace and security included the measures to be taken against the attack or threat of attack by one state against another state However the developments that took place right after the end of the Cold War confirmed that the risk of interstate conflict decreased and new security threats emerged in this period The conflicts that emerged in the post Cold War period were separatist conflicts due to ethnic and religious reasons such as the former Yugoslavia and Georgia or intra border conflicts that occurred for other reasons such as in Syria Upon the inadequacy of international organizations and international law to intervene in intra border conflicts the concept of security was redefined and a transformation from the security of the state to the security of the individual took place New security threats such as environmental security human security food security terrorism weapons of mass destruction and pandemics have been identified One of the reasons for the decrease in conflicts between states in the post Cold War period is that states mostly use soft power instead of military force in achieving their foreign policy goals The structure of the international system is also a dynamic that affects conflicts After the end of the bipolar system the transformation of the international system is not yet complete One of the most critical problems in today's world is the competition and struggle between states to become the future superpower While the US wants the current status quo to continue China is trying to change the status quo in its favour The European Union is to become the dominant power in the international system after its transformation in the post Cold War period Schools of Thought in International Relations: Interpreters, Issues, and Morality Thompson, Kenneth W., 1996

History Education and International Relations Hirano Mutsumi, 2009-02-12 This is the first in depth study to examine the implications of history education in the context of international relations interstate and transnational focusing on Japanese textbooks as the principal case study The author argues that despite a widespread recognition that our grasp of history has some relevance to our views and attitudes towards foreign countries and peoples ergo ultimately its impact on national policy there appears to be little coherent discussion of such a significant topic and its practical applications in the field of International Relations This study therefore develops a conceptual framework and directs attention to the factors which predetermine the perceptions and attitudes of the public and policy makers and in doing so searches for the roots of their world view The book addresses the following issues Government Influence on the Domestic Educational Environment The Domestic Environment and its Interaction with the External Environment History Education in Practice A case of Japan The Japanese History Textbook Disputes in the Asian Context Parts I and II Twenty five Years On The Task of Coming to Terms with the Past History of International Relations Theory Torbjorn L. Knutsen, Torbjørn L. Knutsen, 1997-06-15 Introduces ideas on international relations expressed by thinkers from High Middle Ages to the present day International Relations and the Problem of Time Andrew R. Hom, 2020-05-26 What is time and how does it influence our knowledge of international politics For decades International Relations IR paid little explicit attention to time Recently this began to change as a range of scholars took an interest in the temporal dimensions of politics Yet IR still has not fully addressed the issue of why time matters in international politics nor has it reflected on its own use of time how temporal ideas affect the way we work to understand political phenomena Moreover IR remains beholden to two seemingly contradictory visions of time the time of the clock and a longstanding tradition treating time as a problem to be solved International Relations and the Problem of Time develops a unique response to these interconnected puzzles It reconstructs IR s temporal imagination by developing an argument that all times from natural rhythms to individual temporal experience spring from social and practical timing activities or efforts to establish meaningful and useful relationships in complex and dynamic settings In IR s case across a surprisingly wide range of approaches scholars employ narrative timing techniques to make sense of confounding processes and events This innovative account of time provides a more systematic and rigorous explanation for time in international politics It also develops provocative insights about IR s own history its key methodological commitments supposedly timeless statistical methods historical institutions and the critical vanguard of time studies This book invites us to reimagine time and in so doing to significantly rethink the way we approach the analysis of international politics International Relations Dr. Raghwendra Kishore, 2021-09-11 The history of international relations is often traced back to the Peace of Westphalia of 1648 where the modern state system was developed Prior to this the European medieval organization of political authority was based on a vaguely hierarchical religious order Westphalia instituted the legal concept of sovereignty which essentially meant that rulers or the legitimate sovereigns had no internal equals within a defined territory and no external superiors as the ultimate authority within the territory s sovereign borders A simple way to view this is that sovereignty says I m not allowed to tell you what to do and you are not allowed to tell me what to do Classical Greek and Roman authority at times resembled the Westphalian system but both lacked the notion of sovereignty Westphalia encouraged the rise of the independent nation state the institutionalization of diplomacy and armies This particular European system was exported to the Americas Africa and Asia via colonialism and the standards of civilization The contemporary international system was finally established through decolonization during the Cold War However this is somewhat oversimplified While the nation state system is considered modern many states have not incorporated the system and are termed pre modern This book is an attempt in this direction and hope that will be useful to students academicians and researchers Contents Origin and Contemporary Relevance of the Cold War Nature of the Post Cold War Global Order Vietnam War and International Politics Discussion of Petroleum Supply s Relation to World Markets Afghan Civil War Gulf War Collapse of the Soviet Union Yugoslav Crisis The Routledge Handbook of Russian International Relations Studies Maria Lagutina,Natalia Tsvetkova,Alexander Sergunin,2023-02-27 This handbook examines the study of international relations IR in Russia giving a comprehensive analysis of historical theoretic conceptual geographical and institutional aspects It identifies the place and role of Russia in global IR and discusses the factors that facilitate or impede the development of Russian IR studies The contributors represent diverse Russian regions and IR schools and offer an overview of different intellectual traditions and key IR paradigms in the post Soviet era Filling the vacuum in international understanding of the Russian perspective on pivotal international issues they demonstrate the continuity and change in Russia s international policy course over the past three decades and explain how different foreign policy schools and concepts have affected Russian foreign policy making and the decision making process Providing a unique contribution to the discussion on non Western IR theory this handbook will appeal to scholars and students of international relations Russian studies world politics and international studies Historical Outlook ,1919 Making the World Global Isaac A. Kamola,2019-06-07 Following World War II the American government and philanthropic foundations fundamentally remade American universities into sites for producing knowledge about the world as a collection of distinct nation states As neoliberal reforms took hold in the 1980s visions of the world made popular within area studies and international studies found themselves challenged by ideas and educational policies that originated in business schools and international financial institutions Academics within these institutions reimagined the world instead as a single global market and higher education as a commodity to be bought and sold By the 1990s American universities embraced this language of globalization and globalization eventually became the organizing logic of higher education In Making the World Global Isaac A Kamola examines how the relationships among universities the American state philanthropic organizations and international financial institutions created the conditions that made it possible to imagine the world as global Examining the Center for International Studies Harvard Business School the World Bank the Social Science Research Council and NYU Kamola demonstrates that how we imagine the world is always symptomatic of the material relations within which knowledge is produced Catalogue University of Alabama,1922 University of California Chronicle ,1920 University of California Chronicle University of California, Berkeley,1920 The 2000 High School Transcript Study User's Guide and Technical Report ,2005 Thinking Historically Francis J. Gavin, Securing Empire Beatrice de Graaf,Ozan Ozavci,Erik de Lange,2024-10-17 This volume explores how the quest for security reshaped the world over the course of the 19th century altering the structures hierarchies and dynamics of international relations during a pivotal moment in world history Taking a unique approach to imperial and international history the essays in this volume show how security propelled imperial expansion supported institutions of cooperation maintained networks of imperial actors and shaped experiences of imperial rule Contending that security should be studied as a force in its own right one that drove processes of colonization civilization and commerce Securing Empire shows how cooperation between and across empires hinged on shared notions of threats and common ways of countering them In showing that security did not solely inform support and complicate unilateral imperial endeavours but also brought different imperial entities together and forged global modes of government this book shows how integral security was to the global transformation of the 19th century and the new world order that emerged

The Institutions and Dynamics of the European Community, 1973-83 Johnny Laursen, 2015-03-26 Based on fresh archival research and interviews this book offers a new look at the history of this distinct era of European integration Chapters from leading scholars include subjects ranging from European law to EC expansion and from the European Currency System to the application of Greece to join the Community Overall the book provides a fresh interpretation of the period as one not simply of crisis and stagnation
