A Case for Necessitarianism Amy Karofsky, 2021-12-29 This book is the first detailed and focused defense of necessitarianism The author's original account of necessitarianism encourages a reexamination of commonly held metaphysical positions as well as important issues in other related areas of philosophy Necessitarianism is the view that absolutely nothing about the world could have been otherwise in any way whatsoever Most philosophers believe that necessitarianism is just plain false and presume that some things could have been otherwise than what they are In this book the author argues that necessitarianism is true and the view that some things in the world are contingent what the author terms contingentarianism is false The author assesses various theories of contingency including the possible worlds theory combinatorialism and dispositionalism and argues that no theory can successfully explain why an entity is such as it is rather than not She then lays out a case for necessitarianism and provides responses to various objections The book concludes with an explanation of the ways in which necessitarianism is relevant to issues in ethics philosophy of mind and social philosophy A Case for Necessitarianism will be of interest to scholars and advanced students working in metaphysics logic and philosophy of science

Redrawing the Lines Reed Way Dasenbrock, 1989 Redrawing the Lines was first published in 1989 Minnesota Archive Editions uses digital technology to make long unavailable books once again accessible and are published unaltered from the original University of Minnesota Press editions Since 1970 literary theory has experienced a period of rich interaction with both Anglo American analytic and Continental philosophy particularly deconstruction Yet these two philosophical schools have regarded each other with hostility if at all as in the 1977 exchange between John Searle and Jacques Derrida over the work of J L Austin Since then the two philosophical traditions have begun to interact as each has influenced literary theory and some suggest that they are not diametrically opposed Redrawing the Lines the first book to focus on that interaction brings together ten essays by key figures who have worked to connect literary theory and philosophy and to reassess the relationship between analytic and Continental philosophy The editor s introduction establishes the debate s historical context and his annotated bibliography directs the interested reader to virtually everything written on this issue The contributors Reed Way Dasenbrock Henry Staten Michael Fischer Charles Altieri Richard Shusterman Samuel C Wheeler III Jules David Law Steven Winspur Christopher Norris Richard Rorty and Anthony J Cascardi Reed Way Dasenbrock is associate professor of English at New Mexico State University He is the author of The Literary Vorticism of Ezra Pound and Wyndham Lewis Toward the Condition of Painting
