bibliothecae Harleianae ,1743 The Feminist Encyclopedia of French Literature Eva M. Sartori, 1999-07-30 The earliest known literary productions by women living in Europe were probably written by French writers As early as the 12th century women troubadours in the south of France were writing poems French women continued writing through the ages their number increasing as education became more available to women of all classes And yet of the great number of works by women writers who preceded the current feminist movement very few have survived A few writers such as Marie de France George Sand and Simone de Beauvoir became part of the canon But critics mostly male had judged the works of only a few women writers worthy of recognition As part of the feminist move to reclaim women writers and to rethink literary history scholars in French literature began to take a new look at women writers who had been popular during their lifetimes but who had not been admitted into the canon This reference book provides extensive information about French women writers and the world in which they lived Included are several hundred alphabetically arranged entries for authors literary genres such as the novel poetry and the short story literary movements such as classicism realism and surrealism life cycle events particular to women such as menstruation and menopause events and institutions which affected women differently than men such as revolutions wars and laws on marriage divorce and education The volume spans French literature from the Middle Ages to the present and covers those writers who lived and worked mainly in France The entries are written by expert contributors and each includes bibliographical information The entries focus on each writer s awareness of how her gender shaped her outlook and opportunities on how categorizations structures and terms used to describe literary works have been defined for women and the ways in which women writers have responded to these definitions The volume begins with a feminist history of French literature and concludes with a selected general bibliography and a chronology of women writers

The Aesthetics of Matter Sarah Posman, Anne Reverseau, David Ayers, Sascha Bru, Benedikt Hjartarson, 2013-10-29 It has often been argued that the arrival of the early 20th century avant gardes and modernisms coincided with an in depth exploration of the materiality of art and writing The European historical avant gardes and modernisms excelled in their attempts to establish the specificity of media and art forms as well as in experimenting with the hybridity of the materials of their multiple disciplines This third volume of the series European Avant Garde and Modernism Studies sheds light on the full range and import of this aspect in avant garde and modernist aesthetics across all art forms and throughout the 19th and 20th centuries The book's contributions written by experts from some 20 countries seek to answer the following questions What sort of objects and material works and media help us to properly grasp the avant garde and modernist aesthetics of matter How were affects emotions and sensory and bodily experiences transferred and transformed in the experiment with matter How were immaterial things such as concepts of time changed in this aesthetic moment What material meanings were disseminated in the cultural transfer and translation of objects How did subsequent avant gardes deal with the aesthetics of matter in their response to historical predecessors The Montgolfier Brothers and the Invention of Aviation
