La Nuit Sacree:

Encyclopedia of Literary Translation Into English: A-L O. Classe, 2000 Multilingualism, Cultural Identity, and Education in Morocco Moha Ennaji, 2005-01-20 In this book I attempt to show how colonial and postcolonial political forces have endeavoured to reconstruct the national identity of Morocco on the basis of cultural representations and ideological constructions closely related to nationalist and ethnolinguistic trends I discuss how the issue of language is at the centre of the current cultural and political debates in Morocco The present book is an investigation of the ramifications of multilingualism for language choice patterns and attitudes among Moroccans More importantly the book assesses the roles played by linguistic and cultural factors in the development and evolution of Moroccan society It also focuses on the impact of multilingualism on cultural authenticity and national identity Having been involved in research on language and culture for many years I am particularly interested in linguistic and cultural assimilation or alienation and under what conditions it takes place especially today that more and more Moroccans speak French and are influenced by Western social behaviour more than ever before In the process I provide the reader with an updated description of the different facets of language use language maintenance and shift and language attitudes focusing on the linguistic situation whose analysis is often blurred by emotional reactions ideological discourses political biases simplistic assessments and ethnolinguistic identities Cultural Encounters in Translation from Arabic Said Faiq, 2004 Translation is intercultural communication in its purest form Its power in forming and or deforming cultural identities has only recently been acknowledged given the attention it deserves The chapters in this unique volume assess translation from Arabic into other languages from different perspectives the politics economics ethics and poetics of translating from Arabic a language often neglected in western mainstream translation studies Queer Nations Jarrod Hayes, 2000-04 The Maghreb Morocco Algeria Tunisia has been inhabited for millennia by a heterogeneous populace However in the wake of World War II when independence movements began to gain momentum in these French colonies the dominant national discourses attempted to define national identities by exclusion One rallying cry from the 1930s was Islam is my religion Arabic is my language Algeria is my fatherland In this incisive postcolonial study Jarrod Hayes uses literary analysis to examine how Francophone novelists from the Maghreb engaged in a diametric nation building project Their works imagined a diverse nation peopled by those who were excluded by the dominant political discourses especially those who did not conform to traditional sexual norms By incorporating representations of marginal sexualities sexual dissidence and gender insubordination Maghrebian novelists imagined an anticolonial struggle that would result in sexual liberation and envisioned nations that could be defined and developed inclusively Arab Women's Lives Retold Nawar Al-Hassan Golley, 2007-10-18 Examining late twentieth century autobiographical writing by Arab women novelists poets and artists this essay collection explores the ways in which Arab women have portrayed and created their identities within differing social environments The collection goes well beyond dismantling standard notions of Arab female subservience exploring the many ways Arab women writers have learned to speak to each other to their readers and to the world at large Drawing from a rich body of literature the essays attest to the surprisingly lively and committed roles Arab women play in varied geographic regions at home and abroad These recent writings assess how the interplay between individual private ethnic identity and the collective public global world of politics has impacted Arab women s rights

The Rhetoric of Topics and Forms Gianna Zocco,2021-01-18 The fourth volume of the collected papers of the ICLA congress The Many Languages of Comparative Literature includes articles that study thematic and formal elements of literary texts Although the question of prioritizing either the level of content or that of form has often provoked controversies most contributions here treat them as internally connected While theoretical considerations inform many of the readings the main interest of most articles can be described as rhetorical in the widest sense given that the ancient discipline of rhetoric did not only include the study of rhetorical figures and tropes such as metaphor irony or satire but also that of topoi which were originally viewed as the places where certain arguments could be found but later came to represent the arguments or intellectual themes themselves Another feature shared by most of the articles is the tendency of undeclared thematology which not only reflects the persistence of the charge of positivism but also shows that most scholars prefer to locate themselves within more specific often interdisciplinary fields of literary study In this sense this volume does not only prove the ongoing relevance of traditional fields such as rhetoric and thematology but provides contributions to currently flourishing research areas among them literary multilingualism literature and emotions and ecocriticism

Postcolonial Narratives and the Ethics of Witnessing Donna McCormack, 2015-07-30 Queer Postcolonial Narratives and the Ethics of Witnessing is a critically engaged exploration of power and its relation to ethics and bodies By revisiting and revising Judith Butler's and Homi Bhabha's queer and postcolonial theories of literary performance McCormack expands current understandings of the performative workings of power through an embodied multisensory ethics That remembering is an embodied act which necessitates an undoing of one's sense of self captures how colonial and familial histories silenced by hegemonic structures may only emerge through opaque bodily sensations These non institutionalised forms of witnessing serve both to reconfigure theories of performativity by re-situating the act of witnessing as integral to the workings of power and to interrogate the current emphasis on speech in trauma studies by analysing the multifarious communal and public ways in which memories emerge In Queer Postcolonial Narratives and the Ethics of Witnessing the body is reinstated as central to both the workings of and the challenges to colonial discourses Operation Freak Christian Flaugh, 2012-06-01

In Operation Freak Christian Flaugh embarks upon an exploration of the intricate connection between the physical bodies and narratives that subjected to all manner of operations generate identity. The author spotlights such voluntary and involuntary acts to show how discourses of ability, disability and bodily manipulation regularly influence the production in and of various Francophone texts. Flaugh's foundation is the critical examination of mutually informing narratives: Francophone novels that hyperbolically signal normative discourses through quintessential freaks, monstres such as the Siamese twin, the bearded lady and the exotic witch, and the related sociocultural master narratives from North America, North Africa and the Caribbean. Employing disability and freak culture theories alongside studies of identification and narrative, Flaugh's close readings move beyond polarized discussions of disabled and non-disabled bodies. They expand such discussions to articulate how ability like identity and narrative is impermanent. It passes and it is passed throughout a spectrum at the same time that it intersects regularly with various narratives of identity like citizenship, gender and race. Each chapter reveals how operation is a profit-driven identification process informed by abilities and constantly reproduced by surgeons, slave masters, writers and the freak protagonists themselves. An unflinching look at such manipulation, Operation Freak illustrates the undeniably visceral relation between bodily ability, identity, narrative and normality carved onto the body of the freak of culture, monstre de la culture.

Maghrebien Mosaic Mildred P. Mortimer, 2001. When Albert Memmi published the first anthology of francophone Maghrebien literature, he expressed his unhappy belief that francophone writing would quickly be eclipsed by Arabic. To the contrary, this volume demonstrates that the francophone writing of North Africa remains vibrant and prolific.

Sacred Bridge Bleeker, 1963-06-01 Manual of Romance Languages in Africa Ursula Reutner, 2023-12-18. With more than two thousand languages spread over its territory, multilingualism is a common reality in Africa. The main official languages of most African countries are Indo-European. In many instances, Romance languages as they were primarily brought to Africa in the era of colonization. The areas discussed in this volume are thirty-five states that were once ruled by Belgium, France, Italy, Portugal or Spain, and the African regions still belonging to three of them. Twenty-six states are presented in relation to French, four to Italian, six to Portuguese and two to Spanish. They are considered in separate chapters according to their sociolinguistic situation, linguistic history, external language policy, linguistic characteristics and internal language policy. The result is a comprehensive overview of the Romance languages in modern-day Africa. It follows a coherent structure, offers linguistic and sociolinguistic information and illustrates language contact situations, power relations as well as the cross-fertilization and mutual enrichment emerging from the interplay of languages and cultures in Africa.
