Women's Albums and Photography in Victorian England Patrizia Di Bello, 2017-07-05 This beautifully illustrated study recaptures the rich history of women photographers and image collectors in nineteenth century England Situating the practice of collecting exchanging and displaying photographs and other images in the context of feminine sociability Patrizia Di Bello shows that albums express Victorian women's experience of modernity The albums of individual women and the broader feminine culture of collecting and displaying images are examined uncovering the cross references and fertilizations between women's albums and illustrated periodicals and demonstrating the way albums and photography itself were represented in women's magazines fashion plates and popular novels Bringing a sophisticated eye to overlooked images such as the family photograph Di Bello not only illustrates their significance as historical documents but elucidates the visual rhetorics at play In doing so she identifies the connections between Victorian album making and the work of modern day amateurs and artists who use digital techniques to compile and decorate albums with Victorian style borders and patterns At a time when photographic album making is being re vitalised by digital technologies this book rewrites the history of photographic albums placing the female collector at its centre and offering an alternative history of photography focused on its uses rather than on its aesthetic or artistic considerations It is remarkable in elegantly connecting the history of photography with the fields of material culture and women's studies

Women and Photography in Apartheid South Africa Marie Meyerding, 2025-04-29 Tracing the lives and works of five women in four case studies author Marie Meyerding examines the representation of women in the field of photography in South Africa in the second half of the twentieth century All of them are critically understudied with no existing scholarship dedicated exclusively to their photographic contributions Focusing on the representation of women on two different levels as agents behind the camera and as subjects in photographs it showcases women photographers portraying their female contemporaries and analyses to what extent they adhered to or subverted common forms of gender representation In recuperating their forgotten archives the book argues that none of these women are marginal figures but rather that each of them played a leading role in the field of photography in their own time The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history history of photography gender studies intersectionality and African studies

Scheiwiller,2016-12-01 Nineteenth century Iran was an ocularcentered society predicated on visibility and what was seen and unseen and photographs became liminal sites of desire that maneuvered betwixt and between various social spaces public private seen unseen accessible and forbidden thus mapping graphing and even transgressing those spaces especially in light of increasing modernization and global contact during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries Of primary interest is how photographs negotiated and coded gender sexuality and desire becoming strategies of empowerment of domination of expression and of being seen Hence the photograph became a vehicle to traverse multiple locations that various gendered physical bodies could not and it was also the social and political relations that had preceded the photograph that determined those ideological spaces of im mobility In identifying these notions in photographs one may glean information about how modern Iran metamorphosed throughout its own long dur e or resisted those societal transformations as a result of modernization
