Marjorie Shelley, 2019-06-25 The Metropolitan Museum of Art houses one of the world's largest and most comprehensive collections of works of art from antiquities to modern and contemporary material. Their preservation is a responsibility shared by the many individuals employed at the Museum who oversee and have direct contact with the collection on a daily basis. The Care and Handling of Art Objects, first published in the 1940s and continually updated, offers a guide to the best practices in handling and preserving works of art while on display, in storage, and in transit. It explains many of the fundamental principles of conservation that underlie these methods. One of its goals is to make the complexities of caring for a collection readily accessible. The first part offers basic guidelines for the preservation of the diverse types of materials and art objects found in the Met. Each chapter addresses the physical characteristics specific to the particular category and the environmental handling and housing factors to which one should be alert to prevent damage and ensure their preservation. Written by experts in the respective specialty, it addresses the Museum's vast holdings, summarizing the most critical preservation issues, many of which are amplified by photographs. As the table of contents makes evident, these range from paintings on canvas and works on paper and photographs to furniture and objects made of stone, wood, and metals to arms and armor, upholstery, ethnographic materials, and many others. Part II succinctly describes factors that affect the collection as a whole; among them, current environmental standards for temperature, relative humidity, light exposure, storage, and art in transit. Based on Museum protocols, it addresses emergency preparedness and response and integrated pest management. For easy reference, it includes charts on storage and display conditions, on factors contributing to deterioration, and a glossary of conservation terms, principles, and housing materials referenced in the individual chapters. Drawing upon the knowledge of conservators, scientists, and curators from many different departments, as well as technicians and engineers whose expertise crosses boundaries of culture, chronology, medium, and condition, The Care and Handling of Art Objects is primarily directed to staff at the Met. It is no less an invaluable resource for students, collectors, small museums, museum study programs, art dealers, and members of the public who want to enhance their understanding of how works of art are safeguarded and the role environment, handling, and materials play in making this possible. Format Friction Gavin Williams, 2024-06-05 The first book to consider the shellac disc as a global format. With the rise of the gramophone around 1900, the shellac disc traveled the world and eventually became the dominant sound format in the first half of the twentieth century. Format Friction brings together a set of local encounters with the shellac disc, beginning with its preconditions in South Asian knowledge and labor, to offer a global portrait of this format. Spun at seventy-eight revolutions per minute, the shellac disc rapidly became an industrial standard, even while the gramophone itself remained a novelty. The very basis of this early sound reproduction technology was friction, an elemental materiality of sound shaped through cultural practice. Using friction as a lens, Gavin Williams illuminates the environments plundered, the materials seized, and the ears entangled in the making of a sound format Bringing together material political and music history Format Friction decenters the story of a beloved medium and so explores new ways of understanding listening in technological culture more broadly Technology & Conservation, 1985 Restoration of Motion Picture Film Paul Read, Mark-Paul Meyer, 2000-08-14 This is the first book to bring together the work of a modern motion picture film laboratory together with the specialist techniques for preservation and restoration of archival film The book's data has its origins in a training programme called FILM which was written by members of the Gamma Group with funding from the EU fund Force The committee comprised senior film archivists and technicians in charge of film conservation departments or working film laboratories within national film archives together with technicians from commercial laboratories which specialise in archival film conservation and who do not work for national and local archives The final group consisted of many of the most experienced individuals in their fields Restoration of Motion Picture Film is an extremely informative well researched book which is an unmissable addition to the bookshelves of conservators archivists and curators worldwide Film history and film conservation students will also find it of great interest and use Only book in English on this subject Prepared by leading specialists in their field Includes coverage of digital technology
