Legal Issues In Education Of The Handicapped:

Legal Issues in Special Education Kevin Brady, Charles Russo, Cynthia Dieterich, Allan Osborne, Jr, 2019-10-28 Legal Issues in Special Education provides teachers and school administrators with a clearly written well organized and understandable guide from the perspective of the practitioner without formal legal training Even though over 50 percent of students with disabilities are now educated in general education classes most teachers are not required to complete coursework in special education law and can unwittingly expose themselves and their schools to liability for violating the rights of students with disabilities This practitioner s guide explicitly addresses the major issues and legal complexities educators inevitably face when dealing with special education legal and policy issues Using case based learning to synthesize important legal concepts and principles from leading special education legal cases this text guides educators administrators and parents alike toward a thorough understanding of and the ability to navigate many of the current and pressing legal concerns in special education

Legal Issues in Education of the Handicapped Donald G. Turner, 1983 This booklet looks at selected recent court cases dealing with a number of questions regarding P L 94 142 and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 1 What is meant by free appropriate education 2 Which services are considered related services and thus obligatory upon schools 3 What procedural protections must be available when parents disagree with school district employees concerning classification initial placement or changes in placement of handicapped children 4 What happens to the children while disputes are being heard 5 If the school district can t provide an appropriate educational program must it or may it contract with an outside agency or institution 6 When must the school district rather than the parents pay for such outside programs 7 What special provisions if any must be made for disciplinary measures used with handicapped children From the cases the author extracts guidelines educators may find helpful in attempting to meet the educational needs of handicapped children within the parameters established by law The author concludes that the ultimate question educators must ask themselves is whether it is too expensive to provide the handicapped their due rights JM

Special Education Law Laura Rothstein, Scott F. Johnson, 2009-04-02 Special Education Law 4 E provides a comprehensive and current overview of the major laws that apply to the education of children with disabilities

Current Trends and Legal Issues in Special Education

David Bateman, Mitchell L. Yell, 2019. Many special education leaders have worked for years in special education as either teachers or related services providers, and most states have standards for certification for the role of the special education administrator/leader. With their broad formal education and years of experience, they should be able to meet the challenges of building and program leadership. Special education leaders need to be prepared to tackle any problem related to teaching and learning, personnel selection and evaluation, basic financial management, parent and community relations, and legal matters related to special education. However, just like other school leaders, many in special education are overwhelmed with the demands of the job while at the same time having to provide services with an increasingly diverse population in an underfunded system and growing negative public perception of the education system. Special education leaders will experience the burden of many responsibilities in their position, such as fulfilling the spirit and letter of the law regarding students with disabilities, helping staff keep abreast of best practices, and meeting the ever-increasing demands from communities and families. They can suddenly be thrust into situations in which they must become the final arbiter on matters related to a plethora of processes and procedures, such as IEP team meetings, manifestation determinations, requests for mediation or due process hearings, and IDEA compliance. It is likely that many of these will be new leaders who will need guidance and direction as they move the teams ahead. Special education leaders are expected to be experts on all levels and types of special education services available within and outside of the district, every disability, and all aspects of special education programming from early intervention to post-secondary transition. Recognizing that few administrators feel adequately prepared for these roles, Special Education Leadership will be developed to enable practicing leaders to build and support effective special education programs, to include supervising and supporting teachers, review programs, and implement special education law.
