Land Pacts:

Land Claims and the Treaty Process Dolly McRae, 2014-07-15 Whose land is it Yours or mine Ever since European contact in Canada the question of Native land ownership has been a hot issue This paper will recall early European contact in Canada their move westward the resistance to the encroachment and land appropriation by the Europeans Dolly discusses the recent settlements of the Native land claims in Canada and United States She talks of how the government would like 95% of the territory that is rich in natural resources Dolly tells other Natives not to sign treaties that will extinguish right to the land and that each band member should benefit from royalties from the extraction of their natural resources

Petitioning for Land Karen O'Brien, 2018-11-15 Petitioning for Land is the first book to examine the extent of First Peoples political participation through the use of petitions Interpreting petitions as a continuous form of political articulation Karen O'Brien considers petitioning for recognition of prior land ownership as a means by which to locate First Peoples petitioning for change within the broader narrative of historical and contemporary notions of justice The book follows the story of First Peoples activism and shows how they actively reform discourse to disseminate a self determined reality through the act of petitioning It discloses how through the petition First Peoples reject colonialism even whilst working within its confines In a reconfiguration of discourse they actively convey a political or moral meaning to re emerge in a self determined world Taking a socio legal and historical approach to petitioning the book questions the state domination of First Peoples and charts their political action against such control in the quest for self determination By uniquely focusing on the act of petitioning which places First Peoples aspirants centre stage O'Brien presents fresh and innovative perspectives concerning their political enterprise From early modern colonial occupation to contemporary society the hundreds of petitions that called for change are uncovered in Petitioning for Land shedding new light on the social and political dynamics that drove the petitions

The INF Treaty United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Foreign Relations, 1988 Empire by Treaty Saliha Belmessous, 2015 Empire by Treaty Negotiating European Expansion 1600 1900 includes indigenous voices in the debate over European appropriation of overseas territories It is concerned with European efforts to negotiate with indigenous peoples the cession of their sovereignty through treaties Expansionism Frank R. Villafana, 2011-12-31 Starting in the early part of the nineteenth century American administrations expressed a desire to own Cuba A rationale for adding Cuba to the territory of the United States could be built on Cuba's sugar and tobacco industries as well as Cuba's mineral deposits But economics was not the primary motivation American presidents knew that in the event of war any nation occupying Cuba would have an advantage over the US military strategies this fear coupled with the economic benefit explains a century of policy decisions As Frank R Villafana shows Cubans were not sitting idle waiting for outsiders to liberate them from Spanish oppression A major part of this research is devoted to studying Cuban efforts to liberate their island from prolonged Spanish domination Cuba had been struggling for independence from Spain since the 1830s followed by the Ten Year War During the 1895 1898 War of Independence Cuba came close to defeating Spain but a merciless Spanish military effort converted Cuba into a series of concentration camps Spain surrendered after its naval defeats by the US at Manila Bay and Santiago de Cuba following a failed ground campaign in eastern Cuba After the US occupied Cuba militarily American political leaders realized only a small minority of Cubans supported annexation and the Platt Amendment was developed as a substitute Today most Cubans agree that independence even constrained by the United States was better than enslavement by the Castro brothers However as Villafa a emphasizes Cubans living in Cuba as well as abroad still seek a land free and independent of foreign threat and domestic tyrants

Policy in the United States and Canada, 1867-1877 Jill St. Germain, 2001-01-01 Indian Treaty Making Policy in the United States and Canada 1867 1877 is a comparison of United States and Canadian Indian policies with emphasis on the reasons these governments embarked on treaty making ventures in the 1860s and 1870s how they conducted those negotiations and their results Jill St Germain challenges assertions made by the Canadian government in 1877 of the superiority and distinctiveness of Canada s Indian policy compared to that of the United States Indian treaties were the primary instruments of Indian relations in both British North America and the United States starting in the eighteenth century At Medicine Lodge Creek in 1867 and at Fort Laramie in 1868 the United States concluded a series of important treaties with the Sioux Cheyennes Kiowas and Comanches while Canada negotiated the seven Numbered Treaties between 1871 and 1877 with the Crees Ojibwas and Blackfoot St Germain explores the common roots of Indian policy in the two nations and charts the divergences in the application of the reserve and civilization policies that both governments embedded in treaties as a way to address the Indian problem in the West Though Canadian Indian policies are often cited as a model that the United States should have followed St Germain shows that these policies have sometimes been as dismal and fraught with misunderstanding as those enacted by the United States

Competition Law Richard Whish, David Bailey, 2012-01-12 The authors describes the potential scope and application of the various legal provisions which regulate competition in the UK This book also examines the results of the convergence of UK and EC law with regard to competition in business

The UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples Andrew Erueti, 2022-02-08 This book offers a distinctive approach to the key international instrument on indigenous rights the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples Declaration based on a new account of the political history of the international indigenous movement as it intersected with the Declaration s negotiation The current orthodoxy is to read the Declaration as containing human rights adapted to the indigenous situation However this reading does not do full justice to the complexity and diversity of indigenous peoples participation in the Declaration negotiations Instead the book argues that the Declaration should be subject to a novel mixed model reading that views the Declaration as embodying two distinct normative strands that serve different types of indigenous peoples Not only is this model supported by the Declaration s political history and legal argument it provides a new and compelling theory of the bases of international indigenous rights while clarifying the vexed question of who qualifies as indigenous for the purposes of international law Treaties and Executive Agreements United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on Constitutional Amendments, 1953 Considers proposed constitutional amendments to require all treaties and executive agreements to adhere to constitutional law and to prohibit treaties abdicating U S sovereignty over its citizens or territories The Right Relationship John Borrows, Michael Coyle, 2017-01-01 In The Right Relationship John Borrows and Michael Coyle bring together a group of renowned scholars both indigenous and non indigenous to cast light on the magnitude of the challenges Canadians face in seeking a consensus on the nature of treaty partnership in the twenty first century
