Leffet Pivot:

Turning On the Mind Tamara Chaplin, 2007-12 In 1951 the eight o'clock nightly news reported on Jean Paul Sartre for the first time. By the end of the twentieth century more than 3 500 programs dealing with philosophy and its practitioners including Bachelard, Badiou, Foucault, Lyotard and Levinas had aired on French television. According to Tamara Chaplin, this enduring commitment to bringing the most abstract and least visual of disciplines to the French public challenges our very assumptions about the incompatibility of elite culture and mass media. Indeed, it belies the conviction that television is inevitably anti-intellectual and the quintessential arch-enemy of the book. Chaplin argues that the history of the televising of philosophy is crucial to understanding the struggle over French national identity in the postwar period. Linking this history to decolonization, modernization and globalization, Turning On the Mind claims that we can understand neither the markedly public role that philosophy came to play in French society during the late twentieth century nor the renewed interest in ethics and political philosophy in the early twenty-first unless we acknowledge the work of television. Throughout, Chaplin insists that we jettison presumptions about the anti-intellectual nature of the visual field, engages critical questions about the survival of national cultures in a globalizing world and encourages us to rethink philosophy itself, ultimately asserting that the content of the discipline is indivisible from the new media forms in which it has found expression. Branding the 'Beur'

Author Kathryn A. Kleppinger, 2015-12-30 This book reconsiders authorship by the descendants of North African immigrants to France by consulting how these authors' novels have been discussed and promoted in the national audio-visual media.

Durand François Chaubet, 2018-01-26 Avec Bernard Grasset, René Julliard ou Jérôme Lindon, Claude Durand 1938-2015 fait partie de ces auteurs colossaux qui ont renouvelé le paysage littéraire du XX^e siècle. Que ce soit au Seuil, chez Grasset ou chez Fayard, dont il fut le PDG durant presque trente ans, cet acharnement de travail toujours entouré de mille manuscrits avait toutes les audaces. Il fut le premier traducteur de Gabriel García Márquez. Il publia contre l'avis de tous La face cachée du monde. Il lança Kadar. Et puis, il y eut la tempête Soljenitsyne. Dans ces pages très documentées, nourries d'entretiens et de chiffres, se dessine le portrait captivant d'un homme amoureux des livres. C'est aussi le tableau d'une époque fiévreuse et sans remords d'un milieu où tous les coups sont permis, où les amis sont des ennemis, où l'on se bagarre, coups de valoir et de d'ners en ville. Pourquoi ? Pour publier le nouveau livre de Michel Houellebecq ? Pour choisir son camp lors de l'affaire Renaud Camus ? Pour intriguer et obtenir un prix littéraire ? Une enquête inédite et surprenante qui rend hommage à un auteur hors du commun mais qui le révèle galement sous toutes ses facettes. French Intellectuals Against the Left Michael Scott Christofferson, 2004 Christofferson argues that French anti-totalitarianism was the culmination of direct democratic critiques of communism revisions of the revolutionary project after 1956 He offers an alternative interpretation for the denunciation of communism Marxism by the French intellectual left in the late 1970s

Rural Inventions Sarah Farmer, 2020-02-19 At the close of the twentieth century even as globalization spurred the growth of megacities worldwide inhabiting the French countryside had become an internationally shared fantasy and practice Accounts of moving into old farmhouses were bestsellers and houses and barns built by peasants had been renovated as second homes throughout the rural hinterland Such developments Sarah Farmer argues did not simply stem from nostalgia for a rural past or a desire to invest in real estate Rather they defined new versions of the rural that emerge in post-agrarian societies In post-World War II France cutting-edge technological modernization and explosive economic growth uprooted rural populations and eroded the village traditions of a largely peasant nation And yet this book argues rural France did not vanish in the sweeping transformations of the 1950s and 1960s The French responded to the collapse of peasant society and threats to cherished landscapes by devising new ways of inhabiting the countryside making them the sites of change and adaptation In addition to the rise of restored peasant houses as second residences Rural Inventions explores the utopian experiments in rural communes and in going back to the land environmentalism the extraordinary success of peasant autobiographies photography and other representations through which the French revalorized rural life and landscapes The peasantry as a social class may have died out but the countryside persisted valued as a site not only for agriculture but increasingly for sport and leisure tourism social and political engagement and a natural environment worth protecting The postwar French state and the nation's rural and urban inhabitants Sarah Farmer eloquently shows remade the French countryside in relation to the city and to the world at large not only invoking traditional France but also creating a vibrant and evolving part of the France yet to come

Powerful Bodies Victoria Best, Peter Collier, 1999 In the first major overview of the latest and most challenging development in French cultural studies this volume approaches the field of performance theory in its diverse applications At the end of the twentieth century performance has become a highly significant theoretical framework that offers a new perspective on identity formation the relationship of self and other and the transformational properties of language Inspired by the ideas of French and Anglo American thinkers including J L Austin Roland Barthes Pierre Bourdieu Judith Butler H l ne Cixous Erving Goffman and Julia Kristeva the authors engage with performance studies in four major areas of current concern the body the image language and politics In a wide ranging series of new theoretical and applied readings they apply their insights to the Commedia dell Arte the cinema of Kieslowski the writings of Duras Genet Robbe Grillet and Bernard No l as well as the performative artistry of figures as diverse as Orlan and de Gaulle This book makes an invaluable contribution to the analysis of both literary and film theory

Kodama,Shintaro Sengoku,2022-10-18 This book examines the current status of mHealth development regulations and the social background in Japan South Korea and China comparing it to the situation in the United States and the European Union and consider solutions to issues surrounding mHealth The recent progress in mobile technology represented by smartphones and smart watches has been remarkable A service called mobile health mHealth which uses such mobile technology to manage health is also becoming a reality Although the accuracy of medical devices is not as accurate as those used in medicine the biometric information such as heart rate and SpO2 can already be monitored over a long period of time Although the technology is maturing to the point where it can be implemented in society it remains an unapproved service of medical care in most countries The development and social implementation of mHealth is most active in the US but social implementation is gradually progressing in other countries as well In this book we will first discuss what kind of global and harmonized regulations are desirable by comparing the regulatory reforms necessary for social implementation of mHealth In addition mHealth raises privacy concerns in the US because the usual behavior and biometric information of subjects is utilized by private companies In addition it is important to note that the behavior and biometric information of subjects collected by smart devices is automatically analyzed by AI technology mainly machine learning which makes the analysis a black box
