Bowker's Guide to Characters in Fiction 2007, 2008-02 Archipelagic English John Kerrigan, 2010-09-09 Seventeenth century English Literature has long been thought about in narrowly English terms Archipelagic English corrects this by devolving anglophone writing showing how much remarkable work was produced in Wales Scotland and Ireland and how preoccupied such English authors as Shakespeare Milton and Marvell were with the often fraught interactions between ethnic religious and national groups around the British Irish archipelago This book transforms our understanding of canonical texts from Macbeth to Defoe's Colonel Jack but it also shows the significance of a whole series of authors from William Drummond in Scotland to the Earl of Orrery in County Cork who were prominent during their lifetimes but who have since become neglected because they do not fit the Anglocentric paradigm With its European and imperial dimensions and its close attention to the cultural make up of early modern Britain and Ireland Archipelagic English authoritatively engages with questions and develops the claim now made by historians that the crises of the seventeenth century stem from the instabilities of a state system which between 1603 and 1707 was multiple mixed and inclined to let local quarrels spiral into all consuming conflict This is a major interdisciplinary contribution to literary and historical scholarship which is also set to influence present day arguments about devolution unionism and nationalism in Britain and Ireland Bones and Bodies Alan G Morris, 2022-01-15 Alan G Morris critically examines the history of evolutionary anthropology in South Africa uncovering the often racist philosophical motivations of these physical anthropology researchers and the discipline itself South Africa is famed for its contribution to the study of human evolution In Bones and Bodies Alan G Morris takes us back over the past century of anthropological discovery in South Africa and uncovers the stories of the individual scientists and how they contributed to our knowledge of the peoples of southern Africa both ancient and modern Not all of this history is one which we should feel comfortable with as much of the earlier anthropological studies have been tainted with the tarred brush of race science Morris critically examines the work of Raymond Dart Thomas Dreyer Matthew Drennan and Robert Broom who all described their fossil discoveries with the mirror of racist interpretation as well as the life and times in which they worked Morris also considers how modern anthropology tried to rid itself of the stigma of these early racist accounts In the 1960s and 1970s Ronald Singer and Phillip Tobias introduced modern methods into the discipline that jettisoned much of what the public wished to believe about race and human evolution Modern methods in physical anthropology rely on sophisticated mathematics and molecular genetics but are difficult to translate and sometimes fail to challenge preconceived assumptions In an age where the authority of the expert and empirical science is questioned this book shows the battle facing modern anthropology in how to explain science in a context that seems to be at odds with life experience In this highly accessible insider account Morris examines the philosophical motivations of these researchers and the discipline itself Much of the material draws on old correspondence and interviews as well as from published resources

A Permeability of Boundaries? Robert J. Wallis, 2001 Art religion and folklore have always been at the fringes of archaeological research The assumption is often made that they have little to do with social processes and their reciprocation at the very least they might passively reflect the social The papers in this volume challenge this view and firmly locate art religion and folklore in active social relations Thus many of the papers challenge the orthodox the conventional and the mainstream they reinstate the themes of art religion and folklore at the centre of archaeological enquiry Each chapter has the central theme of permeability from the transgression of disciplinary or theoretical boundaries and examination of liminal archaeological contexts to the fluidity of altered states of consciousness and permeation of what is conventionally deemed acceptable research In so doing the volume demonstrates that by challenging the orthodox and deconstructing rigidity new and thought provoking approaches to art religion and folklore emerge Harness Horse ,1991 Road Atlas Rand McNally and Company, 2006 Rand McNally Road Atlas of the United States, Canada and Mexico Rand McNally and Company, 2007
