Seven Going on Seventeen Jacqueline Reid-Walsh, 2005 The tween is the new girl on the block in girlhood studies Although the study of tween life may have derived from a particular marketing orientation at the end of the twentieth century it is not limited by it On the contrary this collection of essays shows that tween is not a simple or unified concept nor is it limited to a certain class of girls in a few countries This collection by an international group of authors highlights specific methodologies for working with and studying tween age girls provides challenges to the presumed innocence of girlhood and engages in an analysis of marketing in relation to girlhood In so doing this book offers a reading on these three or four years in a girl's life that suggests that this period is as fascinating as the teen years and as generative in its implications for girlhood studies as studies of both younger and adolescent girls

The Sex Goddess in American Film, 1930-1965 Jessica Hope Jordan, 2009 In the first critical study of the sex goddess in film Jessica Hope Jordan illustrates how Jean Harlow uses her sexualized body to affect and seduce viewers away from any primary identification with those characters and their plotlines that are supposed to lead the film to identifying instead with the kind of sexual empowerment and self possession her characters consistently display Linking the idea of sexual empowerment to the filmic and public celebration of hyper feminine sexuality the book additionally covers previous feminist discussions of Mae West's performances as feminist camp to argue that West sought to both celebrate and embody for women viewers what she viewed as cultural ideals of femininity and women's sexuality With Lana Turner and the cinematic code the book considers the many problems inherent in both the filmic and public celebration of hyper feminine sexuality in relation to censorship and considers the effects of the Hays Code on hyper feminine sexuality as depicted in film noir The book also importantly presents the first critical discussion of the actress Jayne Mansfield suggesting that her 1950s open acceptance celebration and public promotion of her feminine sexuality both onscreen and off makes her not only a precursor of the more sexually liberated 60s but also like the other actresses discussed here a kind of prescient performance artist even theorist of feminine sexuality in particular and cultural ideas about sexuality more generally Beyond recouping her image as feminist the book demonstrates how the kind of desire aroused by the sex goddess a desire which remains endlessly suspended works as a supreme example of the aesthetic apparatus of cinema itself Book Jacket

Connecting Sociology to Our Lives Tim Delaney, 2015-11-17 Many introductory texts claim to make sociology relevant to student interests. Perhaps no other text has done this so completely and engagingly as Connecting Sociology to Our Lives. Tim Delaney not only uses popular and contemporary culture examples, he explains sociology thoroughly within the frame of the contemporary culture of students, a culture shaped by political, economic, and environmental trends just as much as by today's pop stars. This book will help academics to engage their students in sociology through the prism of their own culture. It involves students in critical thinking and classroom discussion through the book's many 'What Do You Think' inserts and will inspire them to careers with the book's unique chapter 'Sociology's Place in Society: Completing the Connection'. Legally Blonde a Special Amanda Brown, 2003-04 Black Opera Naomi Andre, 2018-05-04 From classic films like Carmen Jones to contemporary works like The Diary of Sally Hemings and U Carmen, eKhayelitsa American and South African artists and composers have used opera to reclaim black people's place in history. Naomi Andre draws on the experiences of performers and audiences to explore this music's resonance with today's listeners. Interacting with creators and performers as well as with the works themselves, Andre reveals how black opera unearths suppressed truths. These truths provoke complex if uncomfortable reconsideration of racial, gender, sexual, and other oppressive ideologies. Opera in turn operates as a cultural and political force that employs an immense transformative power to represent or even liberate. Viewing opera as a fertile site for critical inquiry, political activism, and social change, Black Opera lays the foundation for innovative new approaches to applied scholarship. Unruly Girls, Unrepentant Mothers Kathleen Rowe Karlyn, 2011-01-15 Since the 1990s when Reviving Ophelia became a best seller and Girl Power a familiar anthem, girls have assumed new visibility in the culture. Yet in asserting their new power, young women have redefined femininity in ways that have often mystified their mothers. They have also largely disavowed feminism, even though their new influence is a likely legacy of feminism's Second Wave. At the same time, popular culture has persisted in idealizing, demonizing, or simply erasing mothers, rarely depicting them in strong and loving relationships with their daughters. Unruly Girls, Unrepentant Mothers, a companion to Kathleen Rowe Karlyn's groundbreaking work The Unruly Woman, studies the ways popular culture and current debates within and about feminism inform each other. Surveying a range of films and television shows that have defined girls in the postfeminist era, from Titanic and My So-Called Life to Scream and The Devil Wears Prada, and from Love and Basketball to Ugly Betty, Karlyn explores the ways class, race, and generational conflicts have shaped both Girl Culture and feminism's Third Wave. Tying feminism's internal conflicts to negative attitudes toward mothers in the social world, she asks whether today's seemingly materialistic and apolitical girls, inspired by such real and fictional figures as the Spice Girls and Buffy the Vampire Slayer, have turned their backs on the feminism of their mothers or are redefining unruliness for a new age. John Sandford: Lucas Davenport 11-15 John
