and drawing describing how they can be used in various locations Finally the book pulls everything together advocating the wider use of teaching visual methods in further and higher education curricula across the social science subjects The book features a plethora of examples as well as practical resources for FE and HE teachers making it an essential companion for anyone interested in utilising visual methods in their teaching

Researching the Vulnerable Pranee Liamputtong, 2007 This book takes as its starting point the particular considerations and sensitivities of being a researcher faced with a subject group at the margins of society and explores the ethical practical and methodological implications of working with such groups Author Pranee Liamputtong explores qualitative methods using examples drawn from around the world and from the wide variety of contexts that might count as researching the vulnerable Numerous salient points for the conduct of research within vulnerable groups of people including ethical and moral issues are considered and discussed in the context of sensitive and innovative research methods

Cross-Cultural Perspectives on Policy and Practice Jennifer Lavia, Michele Moore, 2009-09-10 This book provides a space in which struggles for indigenous knowledge within communities are articulated valued heard and responded to The volume takes change as its focus yet acknowledges that the origins and significance of change are frequently found to be unsettling Contributors explore different understandings of change that forge sustainable inclusive and just communities and examine issues related to citizenship resistance peacemaking critical literacies and second chance opportunities The authors seek to promote advocacy of change that recognises the importance of an informed engagement with cross cultural issues in order to foreground those missing perspectives that are often marginalised silenced ignored or denied All contributors are concerned with how the process of change can bridge the gap between social justice and exclusion and develop critical understandings of the implications of changing policy and practice for those within and working with the educational organisations and communities

Researching Children and Youth Ingrid E. Castro, Melissa Swauger, Brent Harger, 2017-03-17 This volume seeks to directly address the problems and pitfalls that often accompany researching children and youth in today's society This volume addresses participatory and feminist ethnographic approaches digital mining children's agency and navigating IRBs Themes of space location and identity run throughout this volume

Unequal Childhoods Annette Lareau, 2011-09-20 Class does make a difference in the lives and futures of American children Drawing on in depth observations of black and white middle class working class and poor families Unequal Childhoods explores this fact offering a picture of childhood today Here are the frenetic families managing their children's hectic schedules of leisure activities and here are families with plenty of time but little economic security Lareau shows how middle class parents whether black or white engage in a process of concerted cultivation designed to draw out children's talents and skills while working class and poor families rely on the accomplishment of natural growth in which a child's development unfolds spontaneously as long as basic comfort food and shelter are provided Each of these approaches to childrearing brings its own benefits and its own drawbacks In identifying and analyzing differences between the two Lareau demonstrates the power and limits of social class in shaping the lives of America's children. The first edition of Unequal Childhoods was an instant classic portraying in riveting detail the unexpected ways in which social class influences parenting in white and African American families. A decade later, Annette Lareau has revisited the same families and interviewed the original subjects to examine the impact of social class in the transition to adulthood. Bourdieu,

Language-based Ethnographies and Reflexivity Michael Grenfell, Kate Pahl, 2018-10-31. Offering a unique and original perspective on Bourdieu's language-based ethnographies and reflexivity, this volume provides a nuanced in-depth discussion of the complex relationship between these interconnected topics and their impact in real-world contexts. Part I opens the book with an overview of the historical background and development of language-based ethnographic research and Bourdieu's work in this space. Part II presents a series of case studies that highlight a Bourdieusian perspective and demonstrate how reflexivity impacts language-based ethnography. In each study, Bourdieu's conceptual framework of reflexively informed objectivity examines the ways in which the studies themselves were constructed and understood. Building on Parts I and II, the concluding set of chapters in Part III unpacks the messiness of the theory and practice of language-based ethnography and provides insights into what reflexivity means for Bourdieu and in practical contexts. Arguing for a greater reflexive understanding in research practice, this volume sets an agenda for future literacy and language research. Revisiting

Insider-Outsider Research in Comparative and International Education Michael Crossley, Lore Arthur, Elizabeth McNess, 2015-11-01. This volume recognises how many researchers across the social sciences and in comparative and international education in particular see themselves as insiders or outsiders or more pertinently shifting combinations of both in the research process. The book revisits and problematises these concepts in an era where the global mobility of researchers and ideas has increased dramatically and when advances in comparative qualitative research methodologies seek to be more inclusive, collaborative, participatory, reflexive and nuanced. Collectively, the chapters argue that in the context of such change, it has become more difficult to categorise and label groups and individuals as being inside or outside systems, professional communities or research environments. In doing so, it is recognised that individual and group identities can be multiple, flexible and changing such that the boundary between the inside and the outside is permeable, less stable and less easy to draw. The book draws upon an exciting collection of original research carried out in a diversity of educational systems from British, European, Latin American, Indian, Oceanic, South Asian, African and Chinese contexts and cultures. This develops a deep and innovative reconsideration of key issues that must be faced by all researchers involved in the planning and conduct of in-depth field research. This is a challenging and stimulating methodological contribution designed to advance critical and reflective thinking while providing practical and accessible guidance, insights and support for new and experienced researchers within and beyond the field of comparative and international education. Local Literacies in Early Childhood Helen Victoria Smith, 2021-08-20. This book contributes to current debates about the importance of early literacy.

and the different ways that literacy resources offer support to parents with young children It sheds light on the impact of policy discourse and austerity measures on community resources designed to support children s early literacy learning Based on an ethnographic study carried out in a small town in the East Midlands UK the book shows how government policy is enacted in four local resources Sure Start children s centres pre schools a public library and privately run parent and child early education classes It reveals how inequalities and contradictions exist in different forms of community literacy provision which can explain some of the educational differences evident when children start school With a particular focus on mothers the book reveals how parents are supported differently depending on where they go and how they are viewed by the professionals they encounter The book contributes to the current literature around literacy in early childhood and combines a unique case study with theoretical concepts to offer a new way of thinking about early intervention parental engagement and school readiness Local Literacies in Early Childhood will be highly relevant reading for researchers academics and post graduate students in the field of early childhood education and literacy education It will also be of interest to policymakers early childhood professionals literacy advisors and librarians from different local national and international contexts wishing to support parents and children more equitably so that learning opportunities can be maximised and educational inequalities tackled

In Our Own Words Jeffrey J. Shultz, Alison Cook-Sather, 2001 If educational reform is to succeed it must attend to the perspectives of students those most directly affected by schooling but least often consulted about its efficacy This is the premise of the first book both to feature student perspectives on school and to foreground student voices middle and high school students are the primary authors of the eight chapters collected in this volume aptly titled In Our Own Words Reflecting differences of gender racial and ethnic background and school context the student authors write passionately and eloquently about their experiences of and desires for school Through their explorations of topics as diverse as bilingual education class cutting teacher bias race relations in school what girls need from their education and innovative curricular models these student authors not only counter stereotypes of apathetic teenagers but also clearly identify what hinders and what supports their learning For both the insights offered and the freshness of the students voices this collection is a must read for anyone who has a stake in making school a place where students can and want to learn The How To of Funds of Knowledge Norma Gonzalez, Luis C. Moll, Cathy Amanti, 2006-04-21 The concept of funds of knowledge is based on a simple premise people are competent and have knowledge and their life experiences have given them that knowledge The claim in this book is that first hand research experiences with families allow one to document this competence and knowledge and that such engagement provides many possibilities for positive pedagogical actions Drawing from both Vygotskian and neo sociocultural perspectives in designing a methodology that views the everyday practices of language and action as constructing knowledge the funds of knowledge approach facilitates a systematic and powerful way to represent communities in terms of the resources they possess and how to harness them for classroom teaching This book accomplishes three objectives It gives readers the basic methodology and techniques followed in the contributors funds of knowledge research it extends the boundaries of what these researchers have done and it explores the applications to classroom practice that can result from teachers knowing the communities in which they work In a time when national educational discourses focus on system reform and wholesale replicability across school sites this book offers a counter perspective stating that instruction must be linked to students lives and that details of effective pedagogy should be linked to local histories and community contexts This approach should not be confused with parent participation programs although that is often a fortuitous consequence of the work described It is also not an attempt to teach parents how to do school although that could certainly be an outcome if the parents so desired. Instead the funds of knowledge approach attempts to accomplish something that may be even more challenging to alter the perceptions of working class or poor communities by viewing their households primarily in terms of their strengths and resources their defining pedagogical characteristics. Funds of Knowledge: Theorizing Practices in Households, Communities and Classrooms is a critically important volume for all teachers and teachers to be and for researchers and graduate students of language, culture and education.

Researching Death, Dying and Bereavement Erica Borgstrom, Julie Ellis, Kate Woodthorpe, 2018-10-22. This book examines research on death, dying and bereavement and how our approaches, perceptions and expectations shape what we can know about the end of life. The contributions include personal and professional reflections and practical suggestions for conducting research in this field. The volume stems from the resurgence of the international and interdisciplinary study of death in the last 20 years. Within this empirical research is often viewed as sensitive but little has been written about the experience of conducting research in this area. There has thus been little reflection on the opportunities and challenges faced in undertaking research as the field of death studies grows, including the accommodation and recognition of cultural differences. This volume seeks to in part address this gap. The chapters in this book were originally published in the Mortality journal and the Death Studies journal.
