

Two Mindsets: Scarcity & Abundance

Scarcity Mindset

Worldview: Everything that's needed for future survival and progress is getting scarce or running out. Nothing positive is getting bigger or better.

1) Zero-Sum

There's only so much of everything available in the world for everybody. If someone does well, it must be at the expense of everyone else who's doing poorly.

2) Depletion

All of the natural resources that support life on the planet are being depleted, and there is no way they can be replaced. Shortages are increasing everywhere.

3) Unfairness

Resources, capabilities, and opportunities are unfairly distributed among the global population—radical change is needed to redistribute everything on a fairer basis.

VS.

VS.

VS.

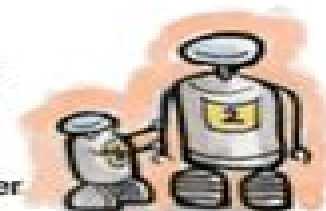

Abundance Mindset

Worldview: Everything important is getting bigger and better as a result of capabilities that make things faster, easier, and cheaper.

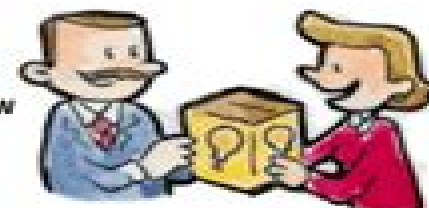

1) Exponentials

Tools, systems, and networks create new areas of personal and general expansion in which the factors of growth continually multiply each other.

2) Ingenuity

There are increasing opportunities for more individuals to create new practical solutions and breakthroughs that become immediately useful for many others.

3) Opportunity

More and more individuals have the ability to combine their capabilities with others in ways that continually make their futures bigger than their pasts.
