

For the first time, the Journal of the American Medical Association has published a study that shows that the use of a computer program to help doctors make decisions about whether to prescribe a drug can reduce the number of prescriptions for drugs that are not recommended by the American Medical Association. The study, which was conducted by researchers at the University of California, San Francisco, found that the use of the program resulted in a 10 percent reduction in the number of prescriptions for drugs that are not recommended by the American Medical Association. The researchers also found that the use of the program resulted in a 10 percent increase in the number of prescriptions for drugs that are recommended by the American Medical Association. The researchers concluded that the use of the program could help doctors make better decisions about whether to prescribe a drug.

From Critical Theory of Society to Theology of Communicative Praxis Rudolf J. Siebert, 1998-12-30     Manifesto of the Critical Theory of Society and Religion (3 Vols.) Rudolf Siebert, 2010-08-16 The Manifesto develops further the Critical Theory of Religion intrinsic to the Critical Theory of Society of the Frankfurt School into a new paradigm of the Psychology Sociology Philosophy and Theology of Religion Its central theme is the theodicy problem in the context of late capitalist society and its globalization     The Critical Theory of Religion. The Frankfurt School Rudolf J. Siebert, 2016-04-11 No detailed description available for The Critical Theory of Religion The Frankfurt School     From Critical Theory to Communicative Political Theology Rudolf J. Siebert, 1989 At present in European and American civil society a new paradigm of doing not only philosophy psychology and sociology but also religiology and theology is emerging communicative action A new communicative political theology including a critical religiology is arising Its central theme is the theodicy problem The present study approaches this theme in the framework of a critical religiology and communicative political theology narratively as well as discursively In search for a solution to the theodicy problem we explore with the help of critical theorists from M Horkheimer over W Benjamin and Th W Adorno to J Habermas and of political theologians from J B Metz over H Peukert to E Arens the philosophical and theological constellation of justice love freedom and reconciliation This study follows the dialectical method determinate negation affirmation through negation of negation

Marx, Critical Theory, and Religion , 2006-08-01 The Sociology of Religion has had several frameworks guiding its analysis including functionalism interpretive sociology phenomenology symbolic interactionism and now rational choice theory Marxism has tended to ignore religion assuming it is something that would eventually disappear even though it retained theological elements This collection of essays brings together a group of scholars who use frameworks provided by Marx and Critical Theory in analyzing religion It s goal is to establish a critical theory of religion within the sociology of religion as an alternative to rational choice In doing so it engages in a critique of the positivism uncritical praise of the market neoconservatism and one dimensional conception of rationality of the rational choice theory of religion     The Future of Religion Michael R. Ott, 2007 This book contains the work of international scholars who address the contemporary globalizing antagonism between religion and secularity in the theoretical and practical pursuit for this antagonism s reconciliation in a more just humane and peaceful future society and world     Traditional Religion and Culture in a New Era Reimon Bachika, 2017-12-04 Where will postmodern culture lead us in the twenty first century Will it destroy traditional cultures together with the old established religions that were its foundation These questions and the new concerns they evoke are explored in this important collection of original essays Contributors challenge entrenched assumptions about what many social scientists consider irreversible cultural trends These include cultural differentiation emphasis on individual identity movement toward religion as a private act rather than a community commitment and above all emphasis on the relativity of all knowledge and values The volume asserts three lines of argument in opposition to these trends The first is the teleological significance of traditional religions and archaic knowledge History can be said to have no goal but the same must not follow for human culture One can conceive individually of a hundred goals to live for However the quality of life cannot be that diverse Taken to the extreme cultural particularity and philosophical nihilism are insults to the life that emerged on our planet eons ago Second this volume emphasizes moral concern and the importance of universal values Ideas of human well being have been formulated from ancient times Religious beliefs invariably contain statements of value in the form of commandments and exhortations that express fundamental goals for a quality of life Third the nature of religion and spirituality is discussed Religion today has become controversial socially and marginal sociologically The role of religion in society is sometimes problematic or abused but it is also underestimated and misunderstood The authors suggest that contemporary religion might best be viewed as non ideological spiritual culture This in turn looks to a future in which religion and culture coalesce This volume includes an international cast of scholars from Japan the United States Canada the United Kingdom Germany Greece Italy New Zealand and Belgium All have engaged in research outside their own countries Taken as a whole this volume addresses issues of interest to those in the fields of futures studies religion and philosophy and in particular those concerned with human agency personal responsibility and public choice

The Churches and the Development Debate Ignatius Swart, 2006-05-01 This book newly addresses the question about the Christian churches participation in development The innovative element of this reflection is the way in which the author finds meaning and significance particularly in the concept of a fourth generation approach to strategic development engagement The book's essential argument is that a fourth generation strategy an approach that makes the contemporary social or people's movements the primary subjects of its development action and theory holds the greatest prospect for authentic participation by the Christian churches in development

The Frankfurt School on Religion Eduardo Mendieta, 2005-07-22 In The Frankfurt School on Religion Eduardo Mendieta has brought together a collection of readings and essays revealing both the deep connections that the Frankfurt School has always maintained with religion as well as the significant contribution that its work has to offer Rather than being unanimously antagonistic towards religion as has been the received wisdom this collection shows the great diversity of responses that individual thinkers of the school developed and the seriousness and sophistication with which they engaged the core religious issues and major religious traditions Through a careful selection of writings from eleven prominent theorists including several new and previously untranslated pieces from Leo Lowenthal Max Horkheimer Herbert Marcuse and Jurgen Habermas this volume provides much needed sources for religious leaders philosophers and social theorists as they grapple with the nature and functions of religion in the contemporary social political and economic landscape The Frankfurt School on Religion recovers the religious dimensions of the Frankfurt School for too long sidelined or ignored and offers new perspectives and insights necessary to the development of a fuller and more nuanced critical theory of society Selections and essays from Ernst Bloch Erich Fromm Leo Lowenthal Herbert Marcuse Theodor W Adorno Max Horkheimer Walter Benjamin Johann Baptist Metz Jurgen Habermas Helmut Peukert Edmund Arens

The Influence of the Frankfurt School on Contemporary Theology Rudolf J. Christian Justice and Public Policy Duncan B. Forrester, 1997-08-28 Disagreements about justice are not simply academic matters They create problems for practice and for policy making In a morally fragmented society in which nobody knows what justice is issues such as wages policy punishment and poverty become particularly difficult to handle People striving to act justly are often uncertain how this might be done Secular theories such as those of Rowls Hayek Habermas and modern feminist theorists examined here give some guidance for problems of justice that arise on the ground but have serious limitations This book argues that Christian theology although it can no longer claim to provide a comprehensive theory of justice can provide insights into justice theological fragments which give illumination challenge some aspects of the conventional wisdom and contribute to the building of just communities in which people may flourish in mutuality and hope Readings in Contemporary Rhetoric Karen A. Foss, 2002 Homo Florens? Nadia Marais, 2023-10-09

What does it mean to flourish Human flourishing lies at the heart of the good news of the gospel and yet contemporary theologies know not only one way of speaking about what it means to flourish If we embed our theological grammars of flourishing in the doctrine of salvation as the doctrine in which theological flourishing talk is arguably rooted and from which rich fruit may be borne there is not one but various ways in which to speak about what it means to flourish Yet what governs our speaking Why do we speak of flourishing as we do The various conceptions of human flourishing that are outlined in this book piety joy and comfort being fully alive healing and dignity grace happiness and blessing represent a collection of attempts not only to imagine human flourishing but also to imagine ways of speaking about human flourishing Perhaps what theology could offer to the vibrant and robust conversations on human flourishing lies exactly in the reminder to take care about how we speak about that which is truly and deeply human our longing to flourish Thought Wilfrid Parsons, Francis

Xavier Talbot, Gerald Groveland Walsh, 1987 Jürgen Habermas Luca Corchia, 2010 Communication and Capitalism Christian Fuchs, 2020-05-19 An authoritative analysis of the role of communication in contemporary capitalism and an important contribution to debates about the forms of domination and potentials for liberation in today s capitalist society Professor Michael Hardt Duke University co author of the tetralogy Empire Commonwealth Multitude and Assembly A comprehensive approach to understanding and transcending the deepening crisis of communicative capitalism It is a major

The Promise of Critical Theology Marc P. Lalonde, 2006-01-01 Written in tribute to one of the foremost Catholic theologians in the English speaking world the essays in The Promise of Critical Theology address the question Can critical theology secure its critical operation without undermining its foundation in religious tradition and experience Is critical theology simply an oxymoron when viewed from both sides of the equation From Marc Lalonde s introductory essay which delimits Davis fundamental position that the primary task of critical theology is the critique of religious orthodoxy the essays examine Davis distinction between faith and belief and build upon the promise of critical theology as inextricably bound to the promise of faith They ask What is its promise What particular religious ideas themes stories are appropriate for its concrete expression How can the community of faith receive its transformative message What might be the contribution of other religious traditions and philosophies Essays by Paul Lakeland Dennis McCann Kenneth Melchin Michael Oppenheim and Marsha Hewitt respond to these and other questions and critically relate Davis work to ongoing developments in modern theology critical theory philosophy and the social sciences Their diversity attests to the comprehensive scope of Davis thought and exemplifies the progressive character of contemporary religious discourse They honour Davis and illuminate the promise of critical religious thinking in itself

Critical Theory in Political Practice Stephen T. Leonard, 1987 Religion as a Human Capacity Timothy Light, Brian C. Wilson, 2018-08-14 Prepared in honor of E Thomas Lawson the essays in Religion as a Human Capacity represent diverse points of view in the study of religion today Part I Theoretical Studies offers a broad range of cognitivist theoretical explorations while Part II Studies in Religious Behavior presents cutting edge applications of cognitive and other contemporary theories to religious data This volume celebrates Lawson s critical contributions to cognitive studies of religion and the degree to which his ultimate goal of scholarship as a search for truth is matched by those who have been his colleagues and been influenced by him Religion as a Human Capacity will be of interest to all those concerned with theory and method in the academic study of religion
