Higher Education And Economic Development Toward A More Effective Union

Paul L. Gaston

Higher Education And Economic Development Toward A More Effective Union:

Higher Education and Economic Development Sherman M. Wyman, Wyman Michelle, University of Texas at Arlington. Institute of Urban Studies, 1998

Towards more effective collaboration by higher education institutions for greater regional development in the Gauteng City-Region Robert Bergman, 2014-11-19 Higher education institutions HEIs in the Gauteng City Region GCR and elsewhere are increasingly being called upon to do more than their traditional roles of teaching and research They are now expected to collaborate and engage with other stakeholders with a view to contributing directly and indirectly to social and economic development in their localities Such an orientation includes having HEIs actively fostering public private partnerships and other initiatives that enhance equitable regional development The adoption of such a focus has implications for all aspects of these institutions activities as well as for the policy and regulatory framework in which they operate This Occasional Paper reflects critically on the role of HEIs in regional development It surveys current debates on the matter and draws out some of the implications on how we ought to think further about the current state of government industry academia interaction and collaboration for development in the GCR It is motivated by an awareness of the increasing importance of higher education in the regional development discourse alongside a body of international theory and practice on the contribution of HEIs to regional development A cornerstone of this body of literature is the so called triple helix framework within which government industry and academia work intimately intensely and collaboratively towards a common vision of regional development Within this framework HEIs are considered to be a public good that must play a large meaningful and relevant role in the development and improvement of the cities and regions where they are located 1 2 They do not and cannot stand completely outside the realities of their geographic social cultural and political environment The intended audience for this report extends beyond academics and HEI administrators to include government officials business and labour leaders civil society and citizens because a discussion on stimulating and improving the GCR must be much more than an academic exercise The collaboration that is essential to regional development requires stakeholders to be familiar with a wide spectrum of issues of importance to individual constituencies Each constituency must add value and insight to the discussion by drawing on their specific knowledge experience and self interests Establishing this common ground is fundamental to initiating meaningful debate about what the GCR can and should be and how regional HEIs can work more collaboratively creatively and effectively to improve and advance the region

Resources in Education, 1998 Strategic Digest, 1972 The Civic University John Goddard, Ellen Hazelkorn, Paul

Vallance, 2016-12-30 This innovative book addresses the leadership and management challenges of maximising the contribution of universities to civil society both locally and globally It does this by developing a model of the civic university as an academic concept drawing out practical lessons for university management on how to embed civic engagement in the heartland of the university To this end the contributors compare experiences and reports on a developmental process in eight institutions University College London and Newcastle University in the UK Amsterdam and Groningen Universities in the Netherlands Aalto and Tampere Universities in Finland and Trinity College Dublin and Dublin Institute of Technology in Ireland It will be of interest to academics of politics public policy and management studies as well as having relevance to policymakers in the field

The Challenge of Bologna Paul L. Gaston, 2023-08-11 In 1999 a declaration formalizing the European process was signed at and informally named for Europe's oldest university Bologna The Bologna Process has transformed higher education in Europe This book is essential reading for anyone concerned about the ability of America's higher education system to position the country for competitiveness in a global economy about its failure to broaden access and participation or to respond to calls for accountability and specifically about whether it is ready to address the redoubtable challenge that Bologna Process represents on all these issues In this book Paul Gaston assesses the Process accomplishments weighing its strengths and weaknesses and evaluates which features pose a threat which we can learn from and which may be inappropriate for our system of higher education Bologna's achievements in making higher education more accessible in rationalizing and making consistent the evaluation of credits and the definition and measurement of learning outcomes for all disciplines all constitute a major wake up call for American higher education If we consider Europeans increased participation in higher education their increased graduation rates and the fact that Europe is retaining more of its students and attracting more international students American higher education may be losing its competitive advantage For all these reasons it is vital that educators and policy makers understand Bologna and its implications for American higher education It represents a formidable challenge on a matter of national priority This book provides that understanding by offering a realistic and balanced account of Bologna's achievements and suggesting how US higher education can constructively and effectively respond

The Great Brain Race Ben Wildavsky, 2012-08-26 How global competition for the brightest minds is changing higher education In The Great Brain Race former U S News World Report education editor Ben Wildavsky presents the first popular account of how international competition for the brightest minds is transforming the world of higher education and why this revolution should be welcomed not feared Every year nearly three million international students study outside of their home countries a 40 percent increase since 1999 Newly created or expanded universities in China India and Saudi Arabia are competing with the likes of Harvard and Oxford for faculty students and research preeminence Satellite campuses of Western universities are springing up from Abu Dhabi and Singapore to South Africa Wildavsky shows that as international universities strive to become world class the new global education marketplace is providing more opportunities to more people than ever before Drawing on extensive reporting in China India the United States Europe and the Middle East Wildavsky chronicles the unprecedented international mobility of students and faculty the rapid spread of branch campuses the growth of for profit universities and the remarkable international expansion of college rankings Some university and government officials see the rise of worldwide academic competition as a threat going so far as to limit student mobility or thwart cross border university expansion But Wildavsky argues that this scholarly marketplace is creating a new global meritocracy one in which the spread of knowledge benefits everyone both educationally and economically In a new preface Wildavsky discusses some of the notable developments in global higher education since the book was first published

The Bologna Process - Harmonizing Europe's Higher Education Bob Reinalda, Ewa Kulesza, 2006-07-25 The book analyses the Bologna Process as an effort to harmonise Europe's higher education in the context of global competition It includes original documents from intergovernmental and non governmental organizations up to the Bergen ministerial meeting of the Bologna Process in May 2005 American Book Publishing Record, 2006

Social Economics John Eatwell, Murray Milgate, Peter Newman, 1989-03-01 This is an excerpt from the 4 volume dictionary of economics a reference book which aims to define the subject of economics today 1300 subject entries in the complete work cover the broad themes of economic theory This extract concentrates on social economics American Book Publishing Record Cumulative, 1950-1977: Title index R.R. One World, Many Knowledges Halvorsen, Tar, Vale, Peter, 2016-05-12 Various forms of academic co operation criss cross the modern university system in a bewildering number of ways from the open exchange of ideas and knowledge to the sharing of research results and frank discussions about research challenges Embedded in these scholarly networks is the question of whether a global template for the management of both higher education and national research organisations is necessary and if so must institutions slavishly follow the high flown language of the global knowledge society or risk falling behind in the ubiquitous university ranking system Or are there alternatives that can achieve a better more ethically inclined world Basing their observations on their own experiences an interesting mix of seasoned scholars and new voices from southern Africa and the Nordic region offer critical perspectives on issues of inter and cross regional academic co operation Several of the chapters also touch on the evolution of the higher education sector in the two regions An absorbing and intelligent study this book will be invaluable for anyone interested in the strategies scholars are using to adapt to the interconnectedness of the modern world It offers fresh insights into how academics are attempting to protect the spaces in which they can freely and openly debate the challenges they face while aiming to transform higher education and foster scholarly collaboration The Southern African Nordic Centre SANORD is a partnership of higher education institutions from Denmark Finland Iceland Norway Sweden Botswana Namibia Malawi South Africa Zambia and Zimbabwe SANORD's primary aim is to promote multilateral research co operation on matters of importance to the development of both regions Our activities are based on the values of democracy equity and mutually beneficial academic engagement
