Leggott,Donald E. Palumbo,2014-01-10 Written by international experts from a range of disciplines these essays examine the uniquely British contribution to science fiction film and television Viewing British SF as a cultural phenomenon that challenges straightforward definitions of genre nationhood authorship and media the editors provide a conceptual introduction placing the essays within their critical context Essay topics include Hammer science fiction films the various incarnations of Doctor Who Stanley Kubrick s A Clockwork Orange and such 21st century productions as 28 Days Later and Torchwood

Racial Science and British Society, 1930-62 G. Schaffer,2008-09-02 From 1930 62 the idea of race was studied across a range of academic disciplines This book explores expert thinkings on race in the period and explains the relationship between scientific racial research social policy and attitudes regarding immigration ultimately offering new insight into the evolving understanding of the idea of race The Year's Best Dark Fantasy & Horror Paula

Guran,2020-10-20 Join twenty five masterful authors and talented newcomers with more than 400 pages of the disturbing unnerving haunting and strange This outstanding annual exploration of the year s best dark fiction delivers tales of deathly possession the weirdly surreal mysterious melancholy and frighteningly plausible futures Confront your own humanity and the fears that stir you from the darkly supernatural and painfully familiar to the disquieting terror of the unknown

Animals and Medicine Jack Botting,2015-05-04 Animals and Medicine The Contribution of Animal Experiments to the Control of Disease offers a detailed scholarly historical review of the critical role animal experiments have played in advancing medical knowledge Laboratory animals have been essential to this progress and the knowledge gained has saved countless lives both human and animal Unfortunately those opposed to using animals in research have often employed doctored evidence to suggest that the practice has impeded medical progress This volume presents the articles Jack Botting wrote for the Research Defence Society News from 1991 to 1996 papers which provided scientists with the information needed to rebut such claims Collected they can now reach a wider readership interested in understanding the part of animal experiments in the history of medicine from the discovery of key vaccines to the advancement of research on a range of diseases among them hypertension kidney failure and cancer This book is essential reading for anyone curious about the role of animal experimentation in the history of science from the nineteenth century to the present

The Therapeutic Cloning Debate Eric A. Jensen, 2016-03-03 Exploring the controversy surrounding therapeutic human cloning this book draws upon data collected from news articles and interviews with journalists to examine the role of mass media in shaping biomedical controversies With specific reference to the US and the UK as two leading scientific nations grappling with the global issue of therapeutic cloning together with attention to the important role played by nations in Southeast Asia this book sheds light on media representations of scientific developments the unrealistic hype that can surround them the influence of religion and the potentially harmful imposition of journalistic and nationalist values on the scientific field Empirically grounded and theoretically innovative The Therapeutic Cloning Debate will appeal to social scientists across a range of disciplines with interests in science communication public engagement cultural and media studies science politics science journalism the sociology of expert knowledge and risk It will also appeal to scientists journalists policymakers and others interested in how news media frame science for the public

Proceedings of the Royal Society of London Royal Society (Great Britain), 1982 Publishes research papers in the mathematical and physical sciences Continued by Proceedings Mathematical and physical sciences and Proceedings Mathematical physical and engineering sciences Science, Empire and the European Exploration of the Pacific Tony Ballantyne, 2018-10-24 This collection of essays assesses the interrelationship between exploration empire building and science in the opening up of the Pacific Ocean by Europeans between the early 16th and mid 19th century It explores both the role of various sciences in enabling European imperial projects in the region and how the exploration of the Pacific in turn shaped emergent scientific disciplines and their claims to authority within Europe Drawing on a range of disciplines from the history of science to geography imperial history to literary criticism this volume examines the place of science in cross cultural encounters the history of cartography in Oceania shifting understandings of race and cultural difference in the Pacific and the place of ships books and instruments in the culture of science It reveals the exchanges and networks that connected British French Spanish and Russian scientific traditions even in the midst of imperial competition and the ways in which findings in diverse fields from cartography to zoology botany to anthropology were disseminated and crafted into an increasingly coherent image of the Pacific its resources peoples and histories This is a significant body of scholarship that offers many important insights for anthropologists and geographers as well as for historians of science and European imperialism

Behind the Scenes at the Science Museum Sharon Macdonald, 2020-05-21 What goes on behind closed doors at museums How are decisions about exhibitions made and who or what really makes them Why are certain objects and styles of display chosen whilst others are rejected and what factors influence how museum exhibitions are produced and experienced This book answers these searching questions by giving a privileged look behind the scenes at the Science Museum in London By tracking the history of a particular exhibition Macdonald takes the reader into the world of the museum curator and shows in vivid detail how exhibitions are created and how public culture is produced She reveals why exhibitions do not always reflect their makers original intentions and why visitors take home particular interpretations Beyond this local context however the book also provides broad and far reaching insights into how national and global political shifts influence the creation of public knowledge through exhibitions Australian Science in the Making R. W. Home, Roderick Weir Home, 1990-09-28 In this 1989 volume the Australian Academy of Science celebrates and assesses two centuries of Australian science Science Communication Laura Bowater, Kay Yeoman, 2012-12-26 Science communication is a rapidly expanding area and meaningful engagement between scientists and the public requires effective communication Designed to help the novice scientist get started with science communication this unique guide begins with a short history of science communication before discussing the design and delivery of an effective engagement event Along with numerous case studies written by highly regarded international contributors the book discusses how to approach face to face science communication and engagement activities with the public while providing tips to avoid potential pitfalls This book has been written for scientists at all stages of their career including undergraduates and postgraduates wishing to engage with effective science communication for the first time or looking to develop their science communication portfolio Scientific Institutions and Practice in France and Britain, c.1700-c.1870 Maurice Crosland, 2023-05-31 This second collection of studies by Maurice Crosland has as a first theme the differences in the style and organisation of scientific activity in Britain and France in the 18th and early 19th centuries Science was more closely controlled in France notably by the Paris Academy of Sciences and the work of provincial amateurs much less prominent than in Britain The most dramatic change in any branch of science during this period was in chemistry largely through the work of Lavoisier and his colleagues the focus of several articles here and the dominance of this group caused considerable resentment outside France not least by Joseph Priestley The issue of authority in science emerges again within France under the rule of Napoleon in a study of the exceptional power exercised by the great mathematician Laplace both in theoretical science and in academic politics This exploration of organisation and power is complemented by a comparative study of the practice of early physics and chemistry and their different reliance on laboratories This raises the question of whether chemistry provided a model for later experimental work in other sciences both through the construction of pioneering laboratories and in establishing early schools of research Ultra-Processed People Chris van Tulleken, 2024-05-07 THE 1 INTERNATIONAL BESTSELLER Finalist for the Baillie Gifford Prize for Non fiction An eye opening investigation into the science economics history and production of ultra processed food Now with a new Afterword by the author Named a Best Book of the Year by NPR The Economist The Times The New Yorker Smithsonian Daily Mail The Guardian Financial Times and more It s not you it s the food How much of our daily caloric intake comes from ingesting substances that technically speaking do not meet traditional definitions of food Chances are if you re eating something that came wrapped in plastic and contains a funky ingredient you don t have in your kitchen it s most likely almost definitely ultra processed food or UPF More than the principal obstacle to eating right UPF has been linked to metabolic disease depression inflammation anxiety and cancer while the production distribution and disposal of UPF and related products globally is known to cause devastating environmental damage At the same time UPF represents the dominant nigh unavoidable food culture for millions upon millions of eaters Medical doctor and broadcaster Chris van Tulleken has spent his career trying to reframe the conversation around eating right balancing the hard and sometimes shocking facts about what we re putting into our bodies with empathy for the natural desire to keep eating what we like have time for and can afford As he argues in this book we are all participants in an experiment we didn t consent to one to determine how to get us to buy as much ultra processed food as possible It s not as simple as stumbling across the right diet trend finding time to meal plan or avoiding over indulging in sugar fat or carbs or any other culprit Nor is it a matter of individual will It s about learning to live in the third age of eating defined by the overwhelming abundance of ultra processed eating options and arming yourself with the simple and not so simple facts that will help you make the choices that are right for you

Climate change and sustainable development Thomas Potthast, Simon Meisch, 2012-08-13 Climate change is a major framing condition for sustainable development of agriculture and food Global food production is a major contributor to global greenhouse gas emissions and at the same time it is among the sectors worst affected by climate change This book brings together a multidisciplinary group of authors exploring the ethical dimensions of climate change and food Conceptual clarifications provide a necessary basis for putting sustainable development into practice Adaptation and mitigation demand altering both agricultural and consumption practices Intensive vs extensive production is reassessed with regard to animal welfare efficiency and environmental implications Property rights pay an ever increasing role as do shifting land use practices agro energy biotechnology food policy to green consumerism And last but not least tools are suggested for teaching agricultural and food ethics Notwithstanding the plurality of ethical analyses and their outcome it becomes apparent that governance of agri food is faced by new needs and new approaches of bringing in the value dimension much more explicitly This book is intended to serve as a stimulating collection that will contribute to debate and reflection on the sustainable future of agriculture and food production in the face of global change

Women in the History of Science Hannah Wills, Sadie Harrison, Erika Lynn Jones, Farrah Lawrence-Mackey, Rebecca Martin, 2023-03-06 Women in the History of Science brings together primary sources that highlight women s involvement in scientific knowledge production around the world Drawing on texts images and objects each primary source is accompanied by an explanatory text questions to prompt discussion and a bibliography to aid further research Arranged by time period covering 1200 BCE to the twenty first century and across 12 inclusive and far reaching themes this book is an invaluable companion to students and lecturers alike in exploring women s history in the fields of science technology mathematics medicine and culture While women are too often excluded from traditional narratives of the history of science this book centres on the voices and experiences of women across a range of domains of knowledge By questioning our understanding of what science is where it happens and who produces scientific knowledge this book is an aid to liberating the curriculum within schools and universities Science Teaching in Schools Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Science and Technology Committee,2006-11-05 The Committee's report examines science and mathematics teaching in secondary schools in England focusing on the following issues the take up of science and mathematics at GCSE and A level the provision of careers advice to students problems in the recruitment and retention of teachers the quality of teaching methods and the role of continuing professional development The Committee finds that effective science teaching in schools is essential both in order to ensure a satisfactory general level of scientific literacy in society and to enable the next generation of scientists and engineers to progress into higher education and beyond It argues that the current examination system forces students to study an excessively narrow range of subjects at too early an age and it recommends that the Government should reconsider the Tomlinson proposals for a broader diploma based system for 14-19 year old students based on the International Baccalaureate This would ensure that students receive a more rounded education and are not made to over specialise before they are able to see the merits of studying science and mathematics Concerns are also raised about the shortage of science teachers particularly specialist physics and chemistry teachers the quality of careers advice in schools and the importance of practical science in schools Evangelicals and the Philosophy of Science Stuart Mathieson,2020-11-29 This book investigates the debates around religion and science at the influential Victoria Institute Founded in London in 1865 and largely drawn from the evangelical wing of the Church of England it had as its prime objective the defence of the great truths revealed in Holy Scripture from the opposition of science falsely so called The conflict for them was not between science and religion directly but what exactly constituted true science Chapters cover the Victoria Institute's formation its heyday in the late nineteenth century and its decline in the years following the First World War They show that at stake was more than any particular theory rather it was an entire worldview combining theology epistemology and philosophy of science Therefore instead of simply offering a survey of religious responses to evolutionary theory this study demonstrates the complex relationship between science evangelical religion and society in the years after Darwin's Origin of Species It also offers some insight as to why conservative evangelicals did not display the militancy of some American fundamentalists with whom they shared so many of their intellectual commitments Filling in a significant gap in the literature around modern attitudes to religion and science this book will be of keen interest to scholars of Religious Studies the History of Religion and Science and Religion Spaces of Global Knowledge Diarmid A. Finnegan,Jonathan Jeffrey Wright,2016-03-09 Global knowledge was constructed communicated and contested during the long nineteenth century in numerous ways and places This book focuses on the life geographies material practices and varied contributions to knowledge be they medical or botanical cartographic or cultural of actors whose lives crisscrossed an increasingly connected world Integrating detailed archival research with broader thematic and conceptual reflection the individual case studies use local specificity to shed light on global structures and processes revealing the latter to be lived and experienced phenomena rather than abstract historiographical categories This volume makes an original and compelling contribution to a growing body of scholarship on the global history of knowledge Given its wide geographic disciplinary and thematic range this book will appeal to a broad readership including historical geographers and specialists in history of science and medicine imperial history museum studies and book history Biological Sciences Royal Society (Great Britain),1981 Publishes refereed research papers in all aspects of the biological sciences As a fast track journal it specialises in the rapid delivery of the latest research to the scientific community
