thinking about women's friendship in contemporary debates Christopher Isherwood David Garrett Izzo, 2001 The first thorough examination of Isherwood's work and life in twenty years Izzo's analysis brings into play the Mortmere stories by Isherwood and Edward Upward dating from the 1920s but published only in 1994 and the Diaries 1939-1960 published in 1996 to reposition Isherwood within a circle of British writers that included besides Upward W. H. Auden, Stephen Spender and Cecil Day Lewis To Show and to Tell Phillip Lopate, 2013-02-12 A long awaited and illuminating book on personal writing from Phillip Lopate, celebrated essayist, professor of writing at Columbia University and editor of The Art of the Personal Essay. Distinguished author Phillip Lopate, editor of the celebrated anthology The Art of the Personal Essay, is universally acclaimed as one of our best personal essayists. Dallas Morning News Here combining more than forty years of lessons from his storied career as a writer and professor, he brings us this highly anticipated nuts and bolts guide to writing literary nonfiction. A phenomenal master class shaped by Lopate's informative, accessible tone and immense gift for storytelling, To Show and to Tell reads like a long walk with a favorite professor, refreshing, insightful, and encouraging in often unexpected ways The Morbid Age Richard Overly, 2009-05-07 British intellectual life between the wars stood at the heart of modernity. The combination of a liberal, uncensored society and a large, educated audience for new ideas made Britain a laboratory for novel ways to understand the world. The Morbid Age opens a window onto this creative but anxious era, the golden age of the public intellectual and scientist. Arnold Toynbee, Aldous Huxley, H. G. Wells, Marie Stopes, and a host of others. Yet as Richard Overly argues, a striking characteristic of so many of the ideas that emerged from this new age, from eugenics to Freud's unconscious to modern ideas of pacifism and world government, was the fear that the West was facing a possibly terminal crisis of civilization. The modern era promised progress of a kind, but it was overshadowed by a growing fear of decay and death, an end to the civilized world and the arrival of a new Dark Age, even though the country had suffered no occupation, no civil war, and none of the bitter ideological rivalries of interwar Europe, and had an economy that survived better than most. The Morbid Age explores how this strange paradox came about. Ultimately, Overly shows the coming of war was almost welcomed as a way to resolve the contradictions and anxieties of this period, a war in which it was believed civilization would be either saved or utterly destroyed The Twilight Years Richard Overly, 2010-11-30 From a leading British historian, the story of how fear of war shaped modern England. By the end of World War I, Britain had become a laboratory for modernity. Intellectuals, politicians, scientists, and artists, among them Arnold Toynbee, Aldous Huxley, and H. G. Wells, sought a vision for a rapidly changing world. Coloring their innovative ideas and concepts from eugenics to Freud's unconscious was a creeping fear that the West was staring down the end of civilization. In their home country of Britain, many of these fears were unfounded. The country had not suffered from economic collapse, occupation, civil war, or any of the ideological conflicts of interwar Europe. Nevertheless, the modern era's promise of progress was overshadowed by a looming sense of decay and death that would deeply influence creative production and public argument between the wars. In The

Twilight Years award winning historian Richard Overy examines the paradox of this period and argues that the coming of World War II was almost welcomed by Britain's leading thinkers who saw it as an extraordinary test for the survival of civilization and a way of resolving their contradictory fears and hopes about the future Visionary Women and Visible Children, England 1900-1920 Berry Mayall, 2017-10-26 This book addresses the inter linked lives and fortunes of children and women in the first two decades of the twentieth century in England This was a time of shifts in thinking and practice about children's and women's status lived lives and experiences The book provides a detailed explanation of how children experienced home neighbourhood and elementary school as well as discussing the impact of the women's movement namely its suffrage and socialist work These two concerns are linked by the work women did about and for children Essentially the book explores childhood and womanhood generation and gender and socialism and feminism Using existing studies on women's work and autobiographies and interviews about childhood Mayall argues that women played a large part in re thinking childhood as a special period in life and children as participants in learning and in politics This book will appeal to students and researchers in the fields of history education and sociology particularly those interested in the women's movement and the history of childhood 1939 Richard Overy, 2010-09-23 Overy's book is easily the best account of Europe's descent into death and destruction Evening Standard London A brilliantly concise narrative of the days leading to the outbreak of history's greatest conflagration 1939 takes readers hour by hour through the nail biting decisions that determined the fate of millions Richard Overy a leading historian of the period masterfully recreates the jockeying for advantage that set Europe's greatest powers on a collision course Would Stalin join Hitler in a bid to divide Poland and flout the West Would Britain and France succeed in forcing Germany to reason And how far would a defiant Poland push its claim to exist In the summer of 1939 the course of events was anything but assured as this exceptionally absorbing book drives home Eros and Androgyny Jeanette N. Passty, 1988 An analysis of the work of Emilie Rose Macaulay 1881-1958 who strove in virtually all of her twenty three novels to articulate the needs of women for autonomy and achievement This biocritical study designated by Choice as an Outstanding Academic Book finds that Macaulay's writings constitute a deliberate act of rebellion against the cultural myths that trap both men and women in gender stereotypes The Oxford Critical and Cultural History of Modernist Magazines Peter Brooker, Andrew Thacker, 2009-03-26 The first full study of the role of little magazines and their contribution to the making of artistic modernism A major scholarly achievement of immense value to teachers researchers and students interested in the material culture of the first half of the 20th century and the relation of the arts to social modernity The Cambridge History of Twentieth-Century English Literature Laura Marcus, Peter Nicholls, 2004 Publisher Description Men and Women Writers of the 1930s Janet Montefiore, 2003-09-02 This book examines in detail the contribution of women writers through their memoirs fiction and poetry to the literature of the 1930s The author challenges the traditional literary analyses of this dynamic and politically charged decade Maternal

Modernism Elizabeth Podnieks, 2022-12-01 Drawing on the figure and discourses of the Victorian fin de siècle New Woman this book examines women writers who struggled with conservative patriarchal ideologies of motherhood in novels periodicals and life writings of the long modernist period It shows how these writers challenged resisted adapted and negotiated traditional ideas with their own versions of new motherhood with needs for identities and experiences beyond maternity Tracing the period from the end of the nineteenth century through the twentieth this study explores how some of the numerous elements and forces we identify with modernism are manifested in equally diverse and often competing representations of mothers mothering and motherhood It investigates how historical personages and fictional protagonists used and were constructed within textual spaces where they engaged critically with the maternal as institution identity and practice from perspectives informed by gender sexuality nationhood race and class The matrifocal literatures examined in this book exemplify how feminist motherhoods feature as a prominent thematic of the long modernist era and how rebellious New Woman mothers provocatively wrote maternity into text and history

The History of British Women's Writing, 1945-1975 Clare Hanson, Susan Watkins, 2017-09-14 This volume reshapes our understanding of British literary culture from 1945 1975 by exploring the richness and diversity of women's writing of this period Essays by leading scholars reveal the range and intensity of women writers' engagement with post war transformations including the founding of the Welfare State the gradual liberalization of attitudes to gender and sexuality and the reconfiguration of Britain and the empire in the context of the Cold War Attending closely to the politics of form the sixteen essays range across literary middlebrow and popular genres including espionage thrillers and historical fiction children's literature and science fiction as well as poetry drama and journalism They examine issues including realism and experimentalism education class and politics the emergence of second wave feminism responses to the Holocaust and mass migration and diaspora The volume offers an exciting reassessment of women's writing at a time of radical social change and rapid cultural expansion

Orwell Jeffrey Meyers, 2000 This the first biography to draw on a close study of the new Complete Works sheds a new light on this extraordinary literary figure through interviews with family and friends and research into material in the Orwell archive It also includes previously unpublished photographs
