

Example

Differentiate $f(x) = x^2$ from first principles

$$f'(x) = \lim_{h \rightarrow 0} \frac{f(x+h) - f(x)}{h}$$

$$= \lim_{h \rightarrow 0} \frac{((x+h)^2) - (x^2)}{h}$$

Substitute for $f(x)$
and $f(x+h)$

$$= \lim_{h \rightarrow 0} \frac{(x^2 + 2xh + h^2) - (x^2)}{h}$$

Multiply the brackets

$$= \lim_{h \rightarrow 0} \frac{2xh + h^2}{h}$$

Simplify

$$= \lim_{h \rightarrow 0} 2x + h$$

Divide by h

$$= 2x$$

Apply the limit,
i.e. make $h = 0$

First Principles Herbert Spencer, 1895 First Principles of Philosophy John Bruce, 1780 The Intellectual repository for the New Church. (July/Sept. 1817). [Continued as] The Intellectual repository and New Jerusalem magazine. Enlarged ser., vol.1-28 New Church gen. confer, 1842 Problems from Reid James Van Cleve, 2015-08-25

James Van Cleve here shows why Thomas Reid 1710-96 deserves a place alongside the other canonical figures of modern philosophy. He expounds Reid's positions and arguments on a wide range of topics taking interpretive stands on points where his meaning is disputed and assessing the value of his contributions to issues philosophers are discussing today. Among the topics Van Cleve explores are Reid's account of perception and its relation to sensation, conception and belief; his nativist account of the origin of the concepts of space and power; his attempt to clear the way for the belief that the things we directly perceive are external things, not ideas in our minds; his stand on the distinction between primary and secondary qualities; his account of acquired perception whereby we come to stand in a quasi-perceptual relation to qualities not originally perceived; his claim that visual space is non-Euclidean; his answers to the questions why we see the world right side up with inverted retinal images and whether a newly sighted person would recognize by sight the shapes he previously knew by touch; whether memory-like perception is a form of direct awareness and how we manage to conceive of things that are utterly nonexistent. Also examined are Reid's account of human knowledge by means of first principles; his externalist reply to philosophical skepticism; his volitional theory of action; his use of the distinction between event causation and agent causation to understand freedom of the will; and his criticism of Hume and anticipation of Moore on the analysis of moral judgment. The most comprehensive work on Reid in a quarter century, this book will be welcomed by students of early modern philosophy, epistemology, the philosophy of perception, and the philosophy of action.

Parsons' Hand-book of Forms William Franklin Parsons,James Edson White,1884 Thomas Hobbes and the Debate over Natural Law and Religion Stephen A. State,2013-07-18 The argument laid out in this book discusses and interprets the work of Hobbes in relation to religion It compares a traditional interpretation of Hobbes where Hobbes use of conventional terminology when talking about natural law is seen as ironic or merely convenient despite an atheist viewpoint with the view that Hobbes morality is truly traditional and Christian The book considers other thinkers of the age in tandem with Hobbes and discusses in detail his theology inspired by corporeal mechanics The position is that there are significant senses in which Hobbes can be said to be a traditional natural law theorist

Law's Judgement William Lucy,2017-07-27 Law s Judgement elucidates and defends a feature of contemporary law that is currently either overlooked or too glibly dismissed as morally troublesome or historically anachronistic That feature is the abstract nature of law s judgement and its three components show that when law judges us it often does so in ignorance of our particular characters and abilities on the one hand and in ignorance of our context and circumstances on the other Law's judgement is thus insensitive to all or much that makes us the particular people we are The book explores various connections between this mode of judgement and some of our most important legal and political values It shows that law's abstract judgement is closely related to important juristic conceptions of personhood responsibility and impartiality and that these notions are not without moral significance The book also examines the connections between modern law's judgement and three of our most important political values namely dignity equality and community It argues that if we value particular conceptions of dignity equality and community then we must also value law's judgement Illuminating these connections therefore serves a double purpose first it makes a case against those who counsel liberation from law's abstract judgement and second it redirects attention to the task of morally evaluating law's abstract judgement in its own terms
