From A Chinese City:

From a Chinese City Gontran de Poncins, 1957 A French traveller recounts his experiences living in Cholon a city near Saigon with a predominantly Chinese population that in the 1950s was more typical of traditional Chinese culture than anyplace in China

The Chinese City Weiping Wu, Piper Gaubatz, 2013-05-07 China's cities are home to 10 percent of the world's population today They display unprecedented dynamism under the country's surging economic power Their remarkable transformation builds on immense traditions having lived through feudal dynasties semicolonialism and socialist commands Studying them offers a lens into both the complex character of the changing city and the Chinese economy society and environment This text is anchored in the spatial sciences to offer a comprehensive survey of the evolving urban landscape in China It is divided into four parts with 13 chapters that can be read together or as stand alone material Part I sets the context describing the geographical setting China's historical urban system and traditional urban forms Part II covers the urban system since 1949 the rural urban divide and migration and interactions with the global economy Part III outlines the specific sectors of urban development including economic restructuring social spatial transformation urban infrastructure and urban land and housing Finally part IV showcases urbanism through the lens of the urban environment lifestyle and social change and urban governance The Chinese City offers a critical understanding of China's urbanization exploring how the complexity of the Chinese city both conforms to and defies conventional urban theories and experience of cities elsewhere around the world This comprehensive book contains a wealth of up to date statistical information case studies and suggested further reading to demonstrate the diversity of urban life in China

The New Chinese City John Logan, 2011-07-18 Urbanisation and urban development issues are the focus of this comprehensive account which introduces readers to the far reaching changes now taking place in Chinese cities

The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City Paul Wheatley, 2017-07-12 These two volumes elucidate the manner in which there emerged on the North China plain hierarchically structured functionally specialized social institutions organized on a political and territorial basis during the second millennium b c They describe the way in which during subsequent centuries these institutes were diffused through much of the rest of North and Central China Author Paul Wheatley equates the emergence of the ceremonial center as evidenced in Shang China with a functional and developmental stage in urban genesis and substantiates his argument with comparative evidence from the Americas Mesopotamia Egypt Southeast Asia the Mediterranean and the Yoruba territories The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City seeks in small measure to help redress the current imbalance between our knowledge of the contemporary Western style city on the one hand and of the urbanism characteristic of the traditional world on the other Those aspects of urban theory which have been derived predominantly from the investigation of Western urbanism are tested against rather than applied to ancient China The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City examines the cosmological symbolism of the Chinese city constructed as a world unto itself It suggests with a wealth of argument and evidence that this cosmo magical role underpinned the functional unity of the city everywhere until new bases for urban life began to develop in the Hellenistic world Whereas the majority of previous investigations into the nature of the Chinese city have been undertaken from the standpoint of elites The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City has adopted a point of view closer to that of the social scientist than the geographer The Making of a Chinese City Soren Clausen, Stig Thogersen, 2016-09-16 The history of Harbin ruled by the Russians by an international coalition of allied powers by Chinese warlords by the Soviet Union and finally by the Chinese Communists all in the course of 100 years is presented here as an example of Chinese local history writing The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City, Volume 2 Paul Wheatley, These two volumes elucidate the manner in which there emerged on the North China plain hierarchically structured functionally specialized social institutions organized on a political and territorial basis during the second millennium b c They describe the way in which during subsequent centuries these institutes were diffused through much of the rest of North and Central China Author Paul Wheatley equates the emergence of the ceremonial center as evidenced in Shang China with a functional and developmental stage in urban genesis and substantiates his argument with comparative evidence from the Americas Mesopotamia Egypt Southeast Asia the Mediterranean and the Yoruba territories The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City seeks in small measure to help redress the current imbalance between our knowledge of the contemporary Western style city on the one hand and of the urbanism characteristic of the traditional world on the other Those aspects of urban theory which have been derived predominantly from the investigation of Western urbanism are tested against rather than applied to ancient China The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City examines the cosmological symbolism of the Chinese city constructed as a world unto itself It suggests with a wealth of argument and evidence that this cosmo magical role underpinned the functional unity of the city everywhere until new bases for urban life began to develop in the Hellenistic world Whereas the majority of previous investigations into the nature of the Chinese city have been undertaken from the standpoint of elites The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City has adopted a point of view closer to that of the social scientist than the geographer Paul Wheatley was professor and chairman of the Committee on Social Thought at the University of Chicago He was most famous for his work dealing with comparative urban civilization Some of his books include The Places Where Men Pray Together Cities in Islamic Lands 7th to 10th Centuries Nagara and Commandery Origins of the Southeast Asian Urban Traditions and The Management of Success The Moulding of Modern Singapore with K S Sandhu Understanding the Chinese City Li Shiqiao, 2014-04-29 This book teaches us to read the contemporary Chinese city Li Shiqiao deftly crafts a new theory of the Chinese city and the dynamics of urbanization by exploring the rise of stories of labour finance and their hierarchies examining how the Chinese city has been shaped by the figuration of the writing system analyzing the continuing importance of the family and its barriers of protection against real and imagined dangers demonstrating how actual structures bring into visual being the networks of safety in personal and family networks Understanding the Chinese City elegantly traces a thread between ancient Chinese city formations and current urban organizations revealing hidden continuities that show how instrumental the past has been in forming the present Rather than becoming obstacles to change ancient practices have become effective strategies of adaptation under radically new terms Remaking the Chinese City Joseph W. Esherick, 2001-10-31 In China today skyscrapers tower over ancient temples freeways deliver lines of cars and tour buses to imperial palaces cinema houses compete with old theaters featuring Peking Opera The disparity evidenced in the contemporary Chinese cityscape can be traced to the early decades of the twentieth century when government elites sought to transform cities into a new world that would be at once modern and distinctly Chinese Remaking the Chinese City aims to capture the full diversity of recent Chinese urbanism by examining the modernist transformations of China's cities in the first half of the twentieth century Collecting in one place some of the most interesting and exciting new work on Chinese urban history this volume presents thirteen essays discussing ten Chinese cities the commercial and industrial center of Shanghai the old capital Beijing the southern coastal city of Canton the interior's Chengdu the tourist city of Hangzhou the utopian New Capital built in Manchuria during the Japanese occupation the treaty port of Tianjin the Nationalists capital in Nanjing and temporary wartime capitals of Wuhan and Chongqing Unlike past treatments of early twentieth century China which characterize the period as one of failure and decay the contributors to this volume describe an exciting world in constant and fundamental change During this time the Chinese city was remade to accommodate parks and police paved roads and public spaces Rickshaws trolleys and buses allowed the growth of new downtowns Department stores theaters newspapers and modern advertising nourished a new urban identity Sanitary regulations and traffic laws were enforced and modern media and transport permitted unprecedented freedoms Yet despite their fondness for things Western and modern early urban planners envisioned cities that would lead the Chinese nation and preserve Chinese tradition The very desire for modernity led to the construction of a visible and accessible national past and the imagining of a distinctive national future In their investigation of the national capitals of the period the essays show how cities were reshaped to represent and serve the nation To promote tourism traditions were invented and recycled for the pleasure and edification of new middle class and foreign consumers of culture Abundantly illustrated with maps and photographs Remaking the Chinese City presents the best and most current scholarship on modern Chinese cities Its thoroughness and detailed scholarship will appeal to the specialist while its clarity and scope will engage the general reader Contributors Michael Tsin on Canton Ruth Rogaski and Brett Sheehan on Tianjin David Buck on Changchun Kristin Stapleton on Chengdu Liping Wang on Hangzhou Madeleine Dong on Beijing Charles Musgrove on Nanjing Stephen MacKinnon on Wuhan Lee MacIsaac on Chongqing and Jeffrey Wasserstrom and David Strand with concluding essays The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City Paul Wheatley, 2017-07-12 These two volumes elucidate the manner in which there emerged on the North China plain hierarchically structured functionally specialized social institutions organized on a political and territorial basis during the second millennium b c They describe the way in which during subsequent centuries these institutes were diffused through much of the rest of North and Central China Author Paul Wheatley equates the emergence of the ceremonial center as evidenced in Shang China with a functional and developmental stage in urban genesis and substantiates his argument with comparative evidence from the Americas Mesopotamia Egypt Southeast Asia the Mediterranean and the Yoruba territories The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City seeks in small measure to help redress the current imbalance between our knowledge of the contemporary Western style city on the one hand and of the urbanism characteristic of the traditional world on the other Those aspects of urban theory which have been derived predominantly from the investigation of Western urbanism are tested against rather than applied to ancient China The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City examines the cosmological symbolism of the Chinese city constructed as a world unto itself It suggests with a wealth of argument and evidence that this cosmological role underpinned the functional unity of the city everywhere until new bases for urban life began to develop in the Hellenistic world Whereas the majority of previous investigations into the nature of the Chinese city have been undertaken from the standpoint of elites The Origins and Character of the Ancient Chinese City has adopted a point of view closer to that of the social scientist than the geographer
