Farming The Frontier:

Farming the Frontier James R. Gibson, 2011-11-01 In its rich detail this book provides the first comprehensive history of the agricultural development of the Oregon Country Based on extensive research in Hudson's Bay Company documents missionary records and military and private papers this book traces the crucial transition of the Pacific Northwest from a fur trading outpost to an agricultural settlement a process which also saw the shift from British to American jurisdiction in the area

The Farmer's Frontier, 1959 The farmers' frontier, 1865-1900 Gilbert Courtland Fite, 1966 The Farmer's Last Frontier, Agriculture, 1860-1897 Fred Albert Shannon, 1945 The literature of the subject p 379 414 The Farmers' Frontier, 1865-1900 Gilbert Courtland Fite, 1987

Beekmantown, New York Philip L. White, 2011-03-15 This volume reports in detail how a particular portion of the American wilderness developed into a settled farming community To fully comprehend the history of the American people in the early national period an understanding of this transformation from forest to community and the pattern of life within such communities where the vast majority of the people live is essential Three major conclusions emerge from Philip L. White's study of Beekmantown New York First the economic advantages of the frontier attracted a first generation of settlers relatively high in social and economic status but the disappearance of frontier conditions brought a second generation of settlers appreciably lower in status Second White rejects the romantic notion that the frontier fostered equality and argues instead that the frontier's economic opportunities fostered inequality Finally in contrast to revisionist arguments he affirms that in Beekmantown the Jacksonian period does indeed warrant characterization as the era of the common man This book represents a model in community history the narrative is full of human interest the scholarship is prodigious the applications are universal

Farming Inside Invisible Worlds Hugh Campbell, 2020-09-03 This book is available as open access through the Bloomsbury Open Access programme and is available on www.bloomsburycollections.com It is funded by the University of Otago New Zealand Farming Inside Invisible Worlds argues that the farm is a key player in the creation and stabilisation of political economic and ecological power particularly in colonised landscapes like New Zealand America and Australia This open access book reviews and rejects the way that farms are characterised in orthodox economics and agricultural science and then shows how re-centring the farm using the theoretical idea of political ontology can transform the way we understand the power of farming Starting with the colonial history of farms in New Zealand Hugh Campbell goes on to describe the rise of modernist farming and its often hidden political racial and ecological effects He concludes with an examination of alternative ways to farm in New Zealand showing how the prior histories of colonisation and modernisation reveal important ways to farm differently in post colonial worlds Hugh Campbell's book has wide ranging implications for understanding the role farms play in both our food systems and landscapes and is an exciting new addition to food studies

Insect and Hydroponic Farming in Africa Dorte Verner, Nanna Roos, Afton Halloran, Glenn Surabian, Maximillian Ashwill, Saleema Vellani, Yasuo Konishi, 2021-12-16 Interestingly some relief from today's woes may come from ancient human practices. While current agri-food production models rely on abundant supplies of water, energy and arable land and generate significant greenhouse gas emissions in addition to forest and biodiversity loss, past practices point toward more affordable and sustainable paths. Different forms of insect farming and soilless crop farming or hydroponics have existed for centuries. In this report the authors make a persuasive case that frontier agriculture, particularly insect and hydroponic farming, can complement conventional agriculture. Both technologies reuse society's agricultural and organic industrial waste to produce nutritious food and animal feed without continuing to deplete the planet's land and water resources, thereby converting the world's wasteful linear food economy into a sustainable circular food economy. As the report shows, insect and hydroponic farming can create jobs, diversify livelihoods, improve nutrition and provide many other benefits in African and fragile conflict-affected countries. Together with other investments in climate-smart agriculture such as trees on farms, alternate wetting and drying, rice systems conservation, agriculture and sustainable livestock, these technologies are part of a promising menu of solutions that can help countries move their land, food, water and agriculture systems toward greater sustainability and reduced emissions. This is a key consideration as the World Bank renews its commitment to support countries' climate action plans. This book is the Bank's first attempt to look at insect and hydroponic farming as possible solutions to the world's climate and food and nutrition security crisis and may represent a new chapter in the Bank's evolving efforts to help feed and sustain the planet.

The American Civilizing Process Stephen Mennell, 2013-04-24 Since 9/11 the American government has presumed to speak and act in the name of civilization. But is that how the rest of the world sees it? And if not, why not? Stephen Mennell leads up to such contemporary questions through a careful study of the whole span of American development from the first settlers to the American Empire. He takes a novel approach, analysing the USA's experience in the light of Norbert Elias's theory of civilizing and decivilizing processes. Drawing comparisons between the USA and other countries of the world, the topics discussed include American manners and lifestyles, violence in American society, the impact of markets on American social character, American expansion from the frontier to empire, the curse of the American Dream and increasing inequality, the religiosity of American life. Mennell shows how the long-term experience of Americans has been of growing more and more powerful in relation to their neighbours. This has had all pervasive effects on the way they see themselves, their perception of the rest of the world and how the rest of the world sees them. Mennell's compelling and provocative account will appeal to anyone concerned about America's role in the world today, including students and scholars of American politics and society.

Frontier Farming in an Urban Shadow Michael P. Conzen, 1971      Distant Horizon Gary Noy, 1999-01-01 The West has figured in the American imagination under many guises as the last best place on earth, a refuge, an escape, a land of opportunity but also as a place of conquest and failure. Where Lewis and Clark saw great possibilities

Native cultures found disappointment and loss This collection presents the diverse and often contradictory accounts that make up the mosaic of the nineteenth century American West From Thomas Hart Benton s famous speech in the Senate when he argued that non white civilizations must fall before the western expansion of white Americans to Black Elk s story of a way of life lost on the frozen ground at Wounded Knee Gary Noy offers a representative sampling of the many Wests that historians have struggled to define for over a century Distant Horizon chronicles the dusty world of the cowboy the hard scrabble existence of the farmer and the settler and the miner s vision of golden glory It examines the independent nature of the explorer and mountain man and the sometimes heroic sometimes cruel existence of the soldier We hear the voices of those outside the mainstream of power women and Westerners of color and explore the most tragic element of Western history the confinement subjugation and extermination of Native Americans No other single volume provides as many readings on as many topics in the history of the American West

The Anthropological Study of Class and Consciousness E. Paul Durrenberger, 2011-12-01 Presenting prehistoric historic and ethnographic data from Mongolia China Iceland Mexico Brazil and the United States The Anthropological Study of Class and Consciousness offers a first step toward examining class as a central issue within anthropology Contributors to this volume use the methods of historical materialism cultural ecology and political ecology to understand the realities of class and how they evolve Five central ideas unify the collection the objective basis for class in different social orders people s understanding of class in relation to race and gender the relation of ideologies of class to realities of class the U S managerial middle class denial of class and emphasis on meritocracy in relation to increasing economic insecurity and personal responses to economic insecurity and their political implications Anthropologists who want to understand the nature and dynamics of culture must also understand the nature and dynamics of class The Anthropological Study of Class and Consciousness addresses the role of the concept of class as an analytical construct in anthropology and how it relates to culture Although issues of social hierarchy have been studied in anthropology class has not often been considered as a central element Yet a better understanding of its role in shaping culture consciousness and people s awareness of their social and natural world would in turn lead to better understanding of major trends in social evolution as well as contemporary society This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of anthropology labor studies ethnohistory and sociology

Gateways to Empire Daniel J. Weeks, 2019-07-15 In Gateways to Empire Quebec and New Amsterdam to 1664 historian Daniel Weeks has provided the first comprehensive comparative study of the North American fur trading colonies New France and New Netherland While neither colony profited very much if at all from the fur trade though many individuals fortunes were undoubtedly made Weeks finds that New France which far outpaced New Netherland in this trade grew more slowly and had greater difficulty sustaining itself As he demonstrates in Gateways to Empire other factors including New Netherland s openness to religious and ethnic diversity and wider connections to the Atlantic World allowed it to become more economically secure than its rival north of the St Lawrence And yet in both cases the principal towns of these European colonies Quebec and New Amsterdam moved beyond their initial purposes as hubs for trade with the indigenous peoples to become gateways to European settlement In this New Amsterdam by the late 1640s was singularly successful so that it rapidly fostered the production of new European towns in its hinterlands organizing the landscape for settlement and also for trade within the European dominated Atlantic World system
