The Identity of Christian Morality Ann Marie Mealey, 2016-03-03 This book argues that moral theology has yet to embrace the recommendations of the Second Vatican Council concerning the ways in which it is to be renewed One of the reasons for this is the lack of consensus between theologians regarding the nature content and uniqueness of Christian morality After highlighting the strengths and weaknesses of the so called autonomy and faith ethic schools of thought Mealey argues that there is little dividing them and that in some instances both schools are simply defending one aspect of a hermeneutical dialectic In an attempt to move away from the divisions between proponents of the faith ethic and autonomy positions Mealey enlists the help of the hermeneutical theory of Paul Ricoeur She argues that many of the disagreements arising from the Christian proprium debate can be overcome if scholars look to the possibilities opened up by Ricoeur's hermeneutics of interpretation Mealey also argues that the uniqueness of Christian morality is more adequately explained in terms of a specific identity self that is constantly subject to change and revision in light of many often conflicting moral sources She advocates a move away from attempts to explain the uniqueness of Christian morality in terms of one specific unchanging context motivation norm divine command or value By embracing the possibilities opened up by Ricoeurian hermeneutics Mealey explains how concepts such as revelation tradition orthodoxy and moral conscience may be understood in a hermeneutical way without being deemed sectarian or unorthodox The

Origins of Christian Morality Wayne A. Meeks, 1993-01-01 By the time Christianity became a political and cultural force in the Roman Empire it had come to embody a new moral vision This wise and eloquent book describes the formative years from the crucifixion of Jesus to the end of the second century of the common era when Christian beliefs and practices shaped their unique moral order Wayne A Meeks examines the surviving documents from Christianity's beginnings some of which became the New Testament and shows that they are largely concerned with the way converts to the movement should behave Meeks finds that for these Christians the formation of morals means the formation of community the documents are addressed not to individuals but to groups and they have among their primary aims the maintenance and growth of these groups Meeks paints a picture of the process of socialization that produced the early forms of Christian morality discussing many factors that made the Christians feel that they were a single and chosen people He describes for example the impact of conversion the rapid spread of Christian household cult associations in the cities of the Roman Empire the language of Christian moral discourse as revealed in letters testaments and moral stories the rituals meetings and institutionalization of charity the Christians feelings about celibacy sex and gender roles and their sense of the end time and final judgment In each of these areas Meeks seeks to determine what is distinctive about the Christian viewpoint and what is similar to the moral components of Greco Roman or Jewish thought Christian Ethics, Second Edition J. Philip Wogaman, 2010-12-24 This twenty four essays reappraise the whole character of Christian ethics and criticize the traditional underpinning of morality by religion Edited by Ian T Ramsey professor of philosophy at Oxford University the volume is a valuable sequel to the well known New Essays in Philosophical Theology The contributors include atheists agnostics and Christians Among them are Ninian Smart R B Braithwaite Ronald Hepburn and Iris Murdoch The essays do not attempt to examine specific Christian questions in any sort of theological detail rather their primary concern is with problems that arise principally in a philosophical context But they are concerned with issues that lie behind the present bewilderment in Christian morality Stressing the diversity of moral situations the papers show that these are far from being homogeneous and rule determined Moral decision demands personal involvement activating the possibility of good and bad reasons for making such a decision The essays point out the character of moral disagreements and also remind us that morality is not only of individual but also of social significance The last section of the book examines the present concept of natural law its possible erosion by developments in anthropology psychology and philosophy and whether the possibility exists for a theory of morality that unites both natural law theory and Christian ethics
