Grammar Of Manam:

A Grammar of Manam Frantisek Lichtenberk, 1983 A Teaching Grammar of the Manam Language Blaine Turner, 1986 A Grammar of Manam Frantisek Lichtenberk, 1980 Universals in Comparative Morphology Jonathan David Bobaljik, 2012-09-28 An argument for and account of linguistic universals in the morphology of comparison combining empirical breadth and theoretical rigor This groundbreaking study of the morphology of comparison yields a surprising result that even in suppletion the wholesale replacement of one stem by a phonologically unrelated stem as in good better best there emerge strikingly robust patterns virtually exceptionless generalizations across languages Jonathan David Bobaljik describes the systematicity in suppletion and argues that at least five generalizations are solid contenders for the status of linguistic universals The major topics discussed include suppletion comparative and superlative formation deadjectival verbs and lexical decomposition Bobaljik's primary focus is on morphological theory but his argument also aims to integrate evidence from a variety of subfields into a coherent whole In the course of his analysis Bobaljik argues that the assumptions needed bear on choices among theoretical frameworks and that the framework of Distributed Morphology has the right architecture to support the account In addition to the theoretical implications of the generalizations Bobaljik suggests that the striking patterns of regularity in what otherwise appears to be the most irregular of linguistic domains provide compelling evidence for Universal Grammar The book strikes a unique balance between empirical breadth and theoretical detail The phenomenon that is the main focus of the argument suppletion in adjectival gradation is rare enough that Bobaljik is able to present an essentially comprehensive description of the facts at the same time it is common enough to offer sufficient variation to explore the question of universals over a significant dataset of more than three hundred languages

Proper Names versus Common Nouns Javier Caro Reina, Johannes Helmbrecht, 2022-11-07 Recent research has shown that proper names morphosyntactically differ from common nouns in many ways However little is known about the morphological and syntactic distributional differences between proper names and common nouns in less known Non Indo European languages This volume brings together contributions which explore morphosyntactic phenomena such as case marking gender assignment rules definiteness marking and possessive constructions from a synchronic diachronic and typological perspective The languages surveyed include Austronesian languages Basque English German Hebrew and Romance languages The volume contributes to a better understanding not only of the contrasts between proper names and common nouns but also of formal contrasts between different proper name classes such as personal names place names and others Studies in Ditransitive Constructions Andreĭ L'vovich Mal'chukov, Martin Haspelmath, Bernard Comrie, 2010 Explores the cross linguistic variation in ditransitive constructions syntactic patterns of give like verbs taking Agent Theme and Recipient arguments This volume includes a typological overview of ditransitive constructions the editors questionnaire as well as studies of ditransitive constructions in languages from all over the world Morphosyntax William

Croft, 2022-08-04 Taking a functional approach this book provides a thorough overview of Morphosyntax and sets out a framework for syntactic constructions

A Guide to Gender and Classifiers Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald, 2025-02-12 This book explores the range of noun categorization devices found in the languages of the world from the extensive systems of numeral classifiers in Southeast Asia to the highly grammaticalized gender agreement classes in Indo European languages Almost all languages use some type of noun categorization device in their grammar with the most widespread being linguistic gender whereby nouns are classified based on core semantic properties such as sex animacy humanness or shape and size Numeral classifiers are also common and classify a noun in terms of its inherent nature animacy shape and form accompanied by a numeral or a quantifier Other types of noun categorization devices include noun classifiers possessive classifiers verbal classifiers and a number of rarer types such as locative and deictic classifiers In this volume Alexandra Aikhenvald investigates all facets of these nominal categorization systems from their form and distribution to their origins development and loss Noun categorization devices provide unique insights into how people categorize the world through the language in one language a human might be classified in terms of orientation hence as vertical in another as male or female and in another as simply animate or even rational They also change as society changes reflecting the ways in which language and social environment are integrated into a single whole

Auxiliary Verb Constructions Gregory D.S. Anderson, 2006-06-08 This is the most comprehensive survey ever published of auxiliary verb constructions as in he could have been going to drink it and she does eat cheese Drawing on a database of over 800 languages Dr Anderson examines their morphosyntactic forms and semantic roles He investigates and explains the historical changes leading to the cross linguistic diversity of inflectional patterns and he presents his results within a new typological framework The book's impressive range includes data on variation within and across languages and language families In addition to examining languages in Africa Europe and Asia the author presents analyses of languages in Australasia and the Pacific and in North South and Meso America In doing so he reveals much that is new about the language families of the world and makes an important contribution to the understanding of their nature and evolution His book will interest scholars and researchers in language typology historical and comparative linguistics syntax and morphology

The Semantics of Clause Linking R. M. W. Dixon, Alexandra Y. Aikhenvald, 2009-08-06 This book is a cross linguistic examination of the different grammatical means languages employ to represent a general set of semantic relations between clauses The investigations focus on ways of combining clauses other than through relative and complement clause constructions These span a number of types of semantic linking Three for example describe varieties of consequence cause result and purpose which may be illustrated in English by respectively Because John has been studying German for years he speaks it well John has been studying German for years thus he speaks it well and John has been studying German for years in order that he should speak it well Syntactic descriptions of languages provide a grammatical analysis of clause types The chapters in this book add the further dimension of semantics generally in the form of focal and supporting clauses the former referring to the central activity or state of the biclausal linking and the latter to the clause attached to it The supporting clause may set out the temporal milieu for the focal clause or specify a condition or presupposition for it or a preliminary statement of it as in Although John has been studying German for years the supporting clause he does not speak it well the focal clause Professor Dixon s extensive opening discussion is followed by fourteen case studies of languages ranging from Korean and Kham to Iquito and Ojibwe The book s concluding synthesis is provided by Professor Aikhenvald

Animacy in Cognition: Effects, Mechanisms, and Theories Michael J. Serra, Josefa N. S. Pandeirada, Joshua VanArsdall, 2024-11-19 People and animals broadly animates are important dynamic forces in the natural world They represent social targets such as friends and enemies economic and romantic partners predators and prey and companions Most importantly unlike inanimate objects animate agents have internal goals and drives that cause them to act on the world rather than simply be acted on In short animates fill our world with novel causes and have been a consistent selection pressure over the course of evolution human and nonhuman Cognitive scientists have long acknowledged the importance of animacy investigating it as a perceptual phenomenon as a component of language a natural category a demand on attention a dimension of neurological organization and more recently as an important factor in memory Although animacy has been a dimension of interest in cognitive science for quite some time cognitive scientists from different subdisciplines interested in animacy e g perception attention language and memory rarely talk with one another to synthesize findings across subfields A major goal of this research topic is to solicit articles from across cognitive science in a broad sense that investigate the role that animacy plays in cognition in the hopes that authors and readers may begin to see the bigger picture regarding how animacy influences the mind We hope that by bringing together researchers from across cognitive science we will hear from a diverse set of perspectives regarding animacy representing a variety of research questions and methodologies within this larger topic Likewise we hope that the finished research topic will lead to an increased and more varied exploration of the role of animacy in our thoughts and actions and will appeal to readers across fields William J. Gedney's Comparative Tai Source Book

Thomas John Hudak, 2007-12-03 This volume provides accurate and reliable data from 1 159 common cognates found in 19 dialects from the Tai language family Originally collected by noted Tai linguist the late William J Gedney the data are organized into the three branches of the Tai language family the Southwestern the Central and the Northern to facilitate comparisons among the various sound systems within the individual branches and within the Tai language family as a whole Supplementing the cognates are phonological descriptions of each of the dialects Included among the nineteen dialects are Siamese White Tai Black Tai Shan Lue Yay Saek and dialects found at Leiping Lungming Pingsiang and Ningming in China The meticulous attention paid to consonants vowels and tones found in each cognate will allow for further dialect studies for the investigation of questions concerning the tripartite division of the Tai language family and for the continuing investigation into the reconstruction of the Proto Tai language family and its wider genetic relationships Impossible

Persons Daniel Harbour, 2016-11-11 A groundbreaking comprehensive formal theory of grammatical person that recasts its empirical foundations and re envisions its theoretical core Impossible Persons Daniel Harbour s comprehensive and groundbreaking formal theory of grammatical person upends understanding of a universal and ubiquitous grammatical category Breaking with much past work Harbour establishes three core theses one empirical one theoretical and one metatheoretical Together these redefine the data subsumed under the rubric of person simplify the feature inventory that a theory of person must posit and restructure the metatheory in which feature theory as a whole resides At its heart Impossible Persons poses a simple question of the possible versus the actual in how many ways could languages configure their person systems in how many do they configure them and what explains the size and shape of the shortfall Harbour s empirical thesis that the primary object of study for persons are partitions not syncretisms transforms a sea of data into a categorical problem of the attested and the absent Positing innovatively that features denote actions not predicates he shows that two features alone generate all and only the attested systems This apparently poor inventory yields rich explanatory dividends covering the morphological composition of person its interaction with number its connection to space and properties of its semantics and linearization Moreover the core properties of this approach are shared with Harbour's earlier work on number features Jointly these results establish an important metatheoretical corollary concerning the balance between richness of feature semantics and restrictiveness of feature inventories This corollary holds deep implications for how linguists should approach feature theory in future

Demonstratives Holger Diessel, 1999 All languages have demonstratives but their form meaning and use vary tremendously across the languages of the world This book presents the first large scale analysis of demonstratives from a cross linguistic and diachronic perspective It is based on a representative sample of 85 languages The first part of the book analyzes demonstratives from a synchronic point of view examining their morphological structures semantic features syntactic functions and pragmatic uses in spoken and written discourse The second part concentrates on diachronic issues in particular on the development of demonstratives into grammatical markers Across languages demonstratives provide a frequent historical source for definite articles relative and third person pronouns nonverbal copulas sentence connectives directional preverbs focus markers expletives and many other grammatical markers The book describes the different mechanisms by which demonstratives grammaticalize and argues that the evolution of grammatical markers from demonstratives is crucially distinct from other cases of grammaticalization

Studies in Linguistic Motivation Günter Radden, Klaus-Uwe Panther, 2004 How much of language is motivated Recently cognitive and functional linguists have proposed new solutions to this intriguing question The thirteen articles collected in this volume cover various aspects of motivation in grammar and in the lexicon The phenomena discussed in the contributions can be grouped into four types of motivation which along with other types are explicated in the introductory chapter ecological motivation i e motivation of a linguistic unit due to its place or ecological niche within a system genetic motivation i e motivation of present day linguistic behavior or structure due to historical factors experiential motivation i e motivation that is based on embodied experience and cognitive motivation i e motivation that is based on human knowledge and cognitive operations such as metonymy and metaphor The languages studied in some detail include Afrikaans Croatian Dutch English French German Hausa and Hungarian This volume makes a strong case for the pervasiveness of motivation in natural language It will be of interest to teachers researchers and students of linguistics especially of functional and cognitive linguistics

Clause Linking and Clause Hierarchy Isabelle Bril, 2010 This collective volume explores clause linkage strategies in a cross linguistic perspective with greater emphasis on subordination Part I presents some theoretical reassessment of syntactic terminologies and distinctive criteria for subordination as well as typological methods based on sets of variables and statistics allowing cross linguistic comparability Part II deals with strategies relating to clause chaining conjunctive conjugations converbial constructions masdars Part III centers on the interaction between the syntax pragmatics and semantics of clause linking and subordination in relation to informational structure to referential hierarchy and correlative constructions Part IV presents insights in the clause linking and subordinating functions of some T A M markers verbal inflectional morphology and conjugation systems which may also interact with informational hierarchy via the backgrounding effects and lack of illocutionary force of some aspect and mood forms The volume is of particular interest to linguists and typologists working on clause linkage systems and on the interface between syntax pragmatics and semantics Things and Stuff Tibor

Kiss, Francis Jeffry Pelletier, Halima Husić, 2021-06-10 A classical viewpoint claims that reality consists of both things and stuff and that we need a way to discuss these aspects of reality This is achieved by using count terms to talk about things while using mass terms to talk about stuff Bringing together contributions from internationally renowned experts across interrelated disciplines this book explores the relationship between mass and count nouns in a number of syntactic environments and across a range of languages It both explains how languages differ in their methods for describing these two fundamental categories of reality and shows the many ways that modern linguistics looks to describe them It also explores how the notions of count and mass apply to abstract nouns adding a new dimension to the countability discussion With its pioneering approach to the fundamental questions surrounding mass count distinction this book will be essential reading for researchers in formal semantics and linguistic typology Impersonal Constructions Andrej Malchukov, Anna

Siewierska, 2011-07-20 This volume offers a much needed typological perspective on impersonal constructions which are here viewed broadly as constructions lacking a referential subject The contributions to this volume deal with all types of impersonality namely constructions featuring nonagentive subjects including those with experiential predicates A impersonals presentational constructions with a notional subject deficient in topicality T impersonals and constructions with a notional subject lacking in referential properties R impersonals i e both meteo constructions and man constructions The typological discussion benefits from a good coverage of impersonality in European languages but also includes considerations of several African American South East Asian Australian and Oceanic languages The variation in the cross linguistic realization of impersonality and the diachronic pathways leading to and from impersonality documented in this volume point to a novel perspective on impersonals as transitional structures or an intermediate stage of a more basic diachronic change be it from transitive to intransitive or from active to passive or participant to event centered construction Causatives and

Causation Jae Jung Song, 2014-06-11 Causatives and Causation is the first comprehensive study of causative constructions found in the world's languages This important new research based on a data base of more than 600 languages not only investigates fully the richness and variety of causative types but also presents an alternative perspective to the traditional typological approach The new typology enables a better understanding of how the human mind cognizes causation and how this is reflected in language Causatives and Causation is also an important attempt to integrate language typology with diachrony by constructing a diachronic model of causative affixes on the basis of this new typology Drawing on the theoretical insight of Role and Reference Grammar this book provides a case study of the causative constructions in Korean providing additional support for both the proposed new typology and the diachronic model It also examines the pragmatic foundations of causatives an important but previously unexplored area of study
