A Village of Poetry People Maureen Higson,2015-06-20 When I attempt to describe the poetry of Maureen Higson the first thing that comes to my mind is that she epitomizes the difference between a poet and someone who writes poetry What is the difference you may ask It is the difference between someone who draws buildings and an architect the difference between a man holding a knife and a surgeon it is the difference between someone with a fiddle and a virtuoso In short it is the difference between someone with inspiration and someone with inspiration and a polished understanding of their craft earned over years of toil Her words sing of wisdom of common sense of compassion but most of all they just sing And that is the difference between a craftsman and an artist Come see for yourself become engrossed in another world for a while I promise the old one will be anxiously waiting when you re done

Grandad's Wheelies Jack Lasenby, 2016-08-29 When Jack visits his grandparents they tell him stories each outdoing the other with a tale taller and wilder than the last When Jack visits his grandparents there's no television to entertain him No internet no mobile phone no tablets In fact there's no technology or modern distractions at all But he still likes to visit because Grandad and Granny tell him stories each trying to outdo the other with a tale taller and wilder than the last Did you ever hear about the dragon of Waitemata harbour Or the bridge between the North and South islands Or why the Beehive is round in shape and who REALLY made the Marlborough Sounds And then there's the pumpkin larger than a garden shed and a wheelbarrow that converts into a boat for a seasick kangaroo There are lost false teeth eels and the ingenious invention of the world's first rotary clothesline helicopter and a flying train that touches down at the station in Nelson With equally wild watercolour illustrations throughout by Bob Kerr Grandad's Wheelies is a hilarious rollicking yarn stitching together a picture of life in New Zealand a couple of generations back that is just about true Jack can't get enough of his Grandad and Granny's stories and readers young and old will love them too
