The Stakeholder Society Bruce Ackerman,Anne Alstott,2008-10-01 A quarter century of trickle down economics has failed Economic inequality in the United States has dramatically increased Many alas seem resigned to this growing chasm between rich and poor But what would happen ask Bruce Ackerman and Anne Alstott if America were to make good on its promise of equal opportunity by granting every qualifying young adult a citizen's stake of eighty thousand dollars Ackerman and Alstott argue that every American citizen has the right to share in the wealth accumulated by preceding generations The distribution of wealth is currently so skewed that the stakeholding fund could be financed by an annual tax of two percent on the property owned by the richest forty percent of Americans Ackerman and Alstott analyze their initiative from moral political economic legal and human perspectives By summoning the political will to initiate stakeholding they argue we can achieve a society that is more democratic productive and free Their simple but realistic plan would enhance each young adult's real ability to shape his or her own future. It is in short an idea that should be taken seriously by anyone concerned with citizenship, welfare, dependency, or social justice in America today. Carousel Worlds Kim Dwyer, 2021-06-21 All lives have the opportunity to go in all different directions depending on the choices we make. For Cassandra, this becomes too true as she asks questions she thought she'd never even have to consider. For instance, have you ever wondered what life would be like after your sibling is kidnapped? How much could your life change by choosing one romantic relationship over another? What if you woke up in a completely different world and what was that? A unicorn? Cassandra doesn't know where she is, but she knows she is in a very strange place. In Carousel Worlds, experience love and tragedy while surrounded by amusing animals and the imagined sound of classical piano. Let your imagination escape in this unfamiliar new world. Love's Pure Flame Thea Girard Marshall, 2010-10-21 Lady Azalais, daughter of a dead traitor whose lands are forfeit, whose mother is forced by King Henry II to wed the victorious and vicious Sir Hugo du Champ, is sent in disguise along with three falcons first to her cousin in Parthenay, then to the court of Queen Eleanor in Poitiers. The man chosen by her mother to take the falcons and Azalais is the troubadour Sir Gervais du Quercy, notorious throughout the Limousin, one of the many landless younger sons of the Occitan who must live by his skills with sword and song. Azalais is irresistibly attracted to him, and he too finds himself falling in love, but with Azalais's beautiful cousin Argentine. Wound together first at the court at Poitiers in a life of love, intrigue, and tournaments of arms and poetry, entangled by desire, then separated by a war of rebellion, can true love triumph or will all be destroyed in Love's Pure Flame. Figuring Maria Popova, 2019-02-05 Figuring explores the complexities of love and the human search for truth and meaning through the interconnected lives of several historical figures across four centuries, beginning with the astronomer Johannes Kepler who discovered the laws of planetary motion and ending with the marine biologist and author Rachel Carson who catalyzed the environmental movement. Stretching between these figures is a cast of artists, writers, and scientists, mostly women, mostly queer, whose public contributions have risen out of their unclassifiable and often heartbreaking private relationships to change the way we understand experience and appreciate the universe. Among them are the astronomer Maria Mitchell who paved the way for women in science, the sculptor Harriet Hosmer who did the same in art, the journalist and literary critic Margaret Fuller who sparked the feminist movement, and the poet Emily Dickinson. Emanating from these lives are larger questions about the measure of a good life and what it means to leave a lasting mark of betterment on an imperfect world. Are achievement and acclaim enough for happiness? Is genius? Is love? Weaving through the narrative is a set of peripheral figures: Ralph Waldo Emerson, Charles Darwin, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Herman Melville, Frederick Douglass, Nathaniel Hawthorne, and Walt Whitman, and a tapestry of themes spanning music, feminism, the history of science, the rise and decline of religion, and how the intersection of astronomy, poetry, and Transcendentalist philosophy fomented the environmental movement. Marjorie Her War Years Patricia Skidmore, 2018-08-11 Her family broken apart and her identity taken away she had to forget her past in order to face her future But forgetting isn't forever Taken from their mother's care and deported from England to the colonies ten year old Marjorie Arnison and her nine year old brother Kenny were sent to the Prince of Wales Fairbridge Farm School on Vancouver Island in September 1937 Their eight year old sister Audrey followed the next August Marjorie's new home was on an isolated farm a cottage she shared with at least ten other girls and a cottage mother at the head who had complete control over her children Survival required sticking to bare essentials Marjorie had to accept a loss which was difficult to forgive Turning inward she would find strength to pull her through but she had to lock away her memories in order to endure her new life Marjorie was well into her senior years before those memories resurfaced
