William Henry Giles Kingston, 2020-09-28 I belong to the family of the Merrys of Leicestershire Our chief characteristic was well suited to our patronymic Merry by name and merry by nature was a common saying among us Indeed a more good natured laughing happy set of people it would be difficult to find Right jovial was the rattle of tongues and the cachinnation which went forward whenever we were assembled together either at breakfast or dinner or supper our father and mother setting us the example so that we began the day with a hearty laugh and finished it with a heartier Laugh and grow fat is an apothegm which all people cannot follow but our mother did in the most satisfactory manner Her skin was fair and most thoroughly comfortably filled out her hair was light and her contented spirit beamed out from a pair of large laughing blue eyes so that it was a pleasure to look at her as she sat at the head of the table serving out the viands to her hungry progeny Our sisters were very like her and came fairly under the denomination of jolly girls and thoroughly jolly they were none of them ever had a headache or a toothache or any other ache that I know of Our father was a good specimen of a thorough English country gentleman he was thorough in everything honest faced stout and hearty not over refined perhaps but yet gentle in all his thoughts and acts a hater of a lie and every thing dishonourable hospitable and generous to the utmost of his means a protector of the poor and helpless and a friend to all his neighbours Yes and I may say more both he and my mother were humble sincere Christians and made the law of the Bible their rule of life He told a good story and laughed at it himself and delighted to see our mother and us laugh at it also Had he been bred a lawyer and lived in London he would have been looked upon as a first rate wit but I am certain that he was much happier with the lot awarded to him He had a good estate his tenants paid their rents regularly and he had few or no cares to disturb his digestion or to keep him awake at night and I am very certain that he would far rather have had us to hear his jokes and laugh at them with him than all the wits London ever produced He delighted in joining in all our sports either of the field or flood and we always looked forward to certain amusement when he was able to accompany us He was our companion and friend we had no secrets from him why should we He was always our best adviser and if we got into scrapes which one or the other of us was not unfrequently doing we were very certain that no one could extricate us as well as he could I don t mean to say that he forgot the proverb Spare the rod spoil the child or that we were such pieces of perfection that we did not deserve punishment but we had sense enough to see that he punished us for our good he did it calmly never angrily and without any unnecessarily severe remark and we certainly did not love him the less for the sharpest flogging he ever gave us Directly afterwards he would meet the culprit in his usual frank hearty way and seem to forget all about the matter

The Adventures of Imshi John Prioleau,1923 To some of the readers of the following pages I feel unlike most writers of travel books that I need offer no apology for adding yet one more to the swelling army of these They have brought it upon themselves During the six months when I drove my car from London to Genoa from Genoa to Marrakesh from Marrakesh to Kairuan from Kairuan to Gibraltar Seville Madrid the Pyrenees and home through France I was the embarrassed recipient of scores of letters from kindly folk all over the world asking me to put into a book with pictures the adventures of Imshi which I have had the honour to describe in the columns of the Daily Mail as we went along I have tried to give them what I thought they asked for To the other readers I have only one excuse to offer I believed that that very considerable body of the motoring public of Great Britain and Ireland who with me look upon a car and especially a post war car as something which should be fit to take its owner all over the world where roads exist might like to have first hand evidence of motoring conditions in the Countries of the Sun since the terror of war swept over them I have no notion of attributing to Imshi the qualities of an explorer Preface 7 8

The Wonder Garden Frances Jenkins Olcott,1919 Christopher's Adventures in Time Constance P. Scrafield,2024-09-18 Once a boy named Christopher travelled wherever he liked in MythicTime He did have a family in Modern Times but it was fun to venture out to see others he could never meet at home An unusual friend went with him and kept him safe as well This was an angel named Kazuri He was rather small with a dark face and dark wings Beside Christopher only the family dog Hercules could see Kazuri He once told Christopher I am small and dark and hard for others to see Since I am with you no harm can come to you That way your family won t mind us going Of course Christopher told his family about Kazuri They might have thought he was just imagining Kazuri except that Hercules saw him too They knew Kazuri would bring him safely home from his adventures The two of them travelled in a grey Cloud which wrapped itself around them Inside the Cloud it was dark and warm Getting to their destination was very quick but they were never exactly sure where they were going and precisely what Time it would be In a black bag that he carried with him on all their adventures Christopher had a rope a horn and a lantern Strangely it was the Cloud that decided when and where they would actually land There were sure to be plenty of surprises
