The Golden Dream Ronald Stagg,2010-04-05 In the early twentieth century a movement flourished in the Midwestern states bordering the Great Lakes to champion the St Lawrence route as the answer to easily transporting goods in and out of the centre of the continent Internal rivalries in the United States and Canada held back the project for fifty years until Canada suddenly decided to build a seaway alone pressuring the American Congress to co operate The building of the Seaway and its completion in 1959

involved engineering on an unprecedented scale and significant human dislocation During construction communities along the Great Lakes planned for increased prosperity but changes in transportation aging infrastructure and environmental problems have mean that the Golden Dream has not been fully realized even today This popular history chronicles the rise of one of the great engineering projects in Canadian history and its controversial impact on the people living along the St Lawrence River

Mathematical Theologies David Albertson, 2014 The writings of theologians Thierry of Chartres d 1157 and Nicholas of Cusa d 1464 represent a lost history of momentous encounters between Christianity and Pythagorean ideas before the Renaissance Their robust Christian Neopythagoreanism reconceived the Trinity and the Incarnation within the framework of Greek number theory challenging our contemporary assumptions about the relation of religion and modern science David Albertson surveys the slow formation of theologies of the divine One from the Old Academy through ancient Neoplatonism into the Middle Ages Against this backdrop Thierry of Chartres s writings stand out as the first authentic retrieval of Neopythagoreanism within western Christianity By reading Boethius and Augustine against the grain Thierry reactivated a suppressed potential in ancient Christian traditions that harmonized the divine Word with notions of divine Number Despite achieving fame during his lifetime Thierry s ideas remained well outside the medieval mainstream Three centuries later Nicholas of Cusa rediscovered anonymous fragments of Thierry and his medieval readers and drew on them liberally in his early works Yet tensions among this collection of sources forced Cusanus to reconcile their competing understandings of Word and Number Over several decades Nicholas eventually learned how to articulate traditional Christian doctrines within a fully mathematized cosmology anticipating the situation of modern Christian thought after the seventeenth century Mathematical Theologies skillfully guides readers through the newest scholarship on Pythagoreanism the school of Chartres and Cusanus while revising some of the categories that have separated those fields in the past

Clarke, 2000 Serve the Community of the Church the second volume in the First Century Christians in the Graeco Roman World series explores the nature of organization and leadership roles in the first century Christian community especially as they were variously taught by Paul and practiced in the earliest congregations Drawing from ancient source material as well as from the New Testament Andrew Clarke describes the theories and practices of organization and leadership in key areas of first century Graeco Roman society the city the colony voluntary associations Jewish synagogues the family and discusses the extent to which these models influenced the first Christians in defining their own communities Clarke then turns to the Christian community itself discussing how Paul through correspondence with a number of congregations laid out important parameters for leadership that he considered appropriate to the new Christian context Some of these parameters Clarke shows were defined in express contrast to the patterns of leadership widely practiced in Graeco Roman society and occasionally also in the early Christian communities Providing a fascinating look at the social and historical background of the New Testament this volume is also important for its discussion of a subject that has implications for the organization of church life in our own time

Architecture, Media,

Populism... and Violence Graham Cairns, 2022-10-07 The Storming of the Capitol was for many the culminating media performance of the four year presidency of Donald Trump His presidency and its final act bore all the hallmarks of a 21st century form of populism and media politico spectacle that may yet come to dominate the political scene in the US and worldwide for years to come The questions that such events raise are complex varied and operative across a multitude of disciplines This book engages with these vexed questions in the broad fields of politics and media but does so uniquely through the prism of architecture This book does not however limit its view to the recent events in Washington DC or the United States Rather it seeks to use those events as the starting point for a critique of architecture in the tapestry of mediated forms of protest and political action more generally Each chapter draws on case studies from across timeframes and across nations The book sharpens our critique of the relationship between direct political action its media representation and the role it assigns to architecture as played out globally in the age of mass media In doing so it opens up broader debates about the past present and future roles of architecture as a political tool in the context of international political systems now dominated by changing and unpredictable uses of media and characterised by an increasingly volatile and at times violent form of political activism It is essential reading for any student or researcher engaging with these questions Native American Voices Susan Lobo, Steve Talbot, Traci Morris Carlston, 2016-02-19 This unique reader presents a broad approach to the study of American Indians through the voices and viewpoints of the Native Peoples themselves Multi disciplinary and hemispheric in approach it draws on ethnography biography journalism art and poetry to familiarize students with the historical and present day experiences of native peoples and nations throughout North and South America all with a focus on themes and issues that are crucial within Indian Country today For courses in Introduction to American Indians in departments of Native American Studies American Indian Studies Anthropology American Studies Sociology History Women s Studies Waterways and the Cultural Landscape Francesco Vallerani, Francesco Visentin, 2017-09-11 Water control and management have been fundamental to the building of human civilisation In Europe the regulation of major rivers the digging of canals and the wetland reclamation schemes from the sixteenth to nineteenth centuries generated new typologies of waterscapes with significant implications for the people who resided within them This book explores the role of waterways as a form of heritage culture and sense of place and the potential of this to underpin the development of cultural tourism With a multidisciplinary approach across the social sciences and humanities chapters explore how the control and management of water flows are among some of the most significant human activities to transform the natural environment Based upon a wealth and breadth of European case studies the book uncovers the complex relationships we have with waterways the ways that they have been represented over recent centuries and the ways in which they continue to be redefined in different cultural contexts Contributions recognise not only valuable assets of hydrology that are at the core of landscape management but also more intangible aspects that matter to people such as their familiarity affecting what is understood as the fluvial sense of place This highly original collection will be of interest to those working in cultural tourism cultural geography heritage studies cultural history landscape studies and leisure studies Movie Censorship and American Culture Francis G. Couvares, 2006 From the earliest days of public outrage over indecent nickelodeon shows Americans have worried about the power of the movies The eleven essays in this book examine nearly a century of struggle over cinematic representations of sex crime violence religion race and ethnicity revealing that the effort to regulate the screen has reflected deep social and cultural schisms In addition to the editor contributors include Daniel Czitrom Marybeth Hamilton Garth Jowett Charles Lyons Richard Maltby Charles Musser Alison M Parker Charlene Regester Ruth Vasey and Stephen Vaughn Together they make it clear that censoring the movies is more than just a reflex against indecency however defined Whether censorship protects the vulnerable or suppresses the creative it is part of a broader culture war that breaks out recurrently as Americans try to come to terms with the market the state and the plural society in which they live
