Hepatitis B And C:

A National Strategy for the Elimination of Hepatitis B and C National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on a National Strategy for the Elimination of Hepatitis B and C, 2017-06-30 Hepatitis B and C cause most cases of hepatitis in the United States and the world. The two diseases account for about a million deaths a year and 78 percent of world's hepatocellular carcinoma and more than half of all fatal cirrhosis. In 2013, viral hepatitis of which hepatitis B virus (HBV) and hepatitis C virus (HCV) are the most common types surpassed HIV and AIDS to become the seventh leading cause of death worldwide. The world now has the tools to prevent hepatitis B and cure hepatitis C. Perfect vaccination could eradicate HBV but it would take two generations at least. In the meantime, there is no cure for the millions of people already infected. Conversely, there is no vaccine for HCV but new direct acting antivirals can cure 95 percent of chronic infections though these drugs are unlikely to reach all chronically infected people anytime soon. This report is the second of two builds off the conclusions of the first report and outlines a strategy for hepatitis reduction over time and specific actions to achieve them.

Health Care-Associated Transmission of Hepatitis B and C Viruses, An Issue of Clinics in Liver Disease Bandar Al Knawy, 2010-02-25 This issue offers the latest information regarding the transmission of hepatitis viruses in various healthcare settings. It delves with a very timely and interesting patient safety subject that specifically targets healthcare professionals: gastroenterologists, hepatologists, oncologists, dentists, and all healthcare workers to adopt and share a variety of best practices to prevent this adverse event. Well-known faculty in liver disease infection control as well as a medical practice in a legal setting have been assembled to produce a comprehensive and concise edition that highlights the latest information regarding hepatitis B and C transmission in healthcare. It aims to provide an overview on the molecular epidemiology, the outbreak reports, the transmission in hemodialysis, endoscopy, dental, oncology, management, legal aspects, and the infection prevention measures to reduce the risk of needless exposure of patients to these blood-borne pathogens.

Hepatitis B and C Thierry Poinard, 2001-10-18 Covers Hepatitis B and C though the focus is on Hepatitis C. Hepatitis and Liver Cancer Institute of Medicine, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on the Prevention and Control of Viral Hepatitis Infections, 2010-05-23 The global epidemic of hepatitis B and C is a serious public health problem. Hepatitis B and C are the major causes of chronic liver disease and liver cancer in the world. In the next 10 years, 150,000 people in the United States will die from liver disease or liver cancer associated with chronic hepatitis B virus (HBV) or hepatitis C virus (HCV) infections. Today, between 800,000 and 1.4 million people in the United States have chronic hepatitis B and between 2.7 and 3.9 million have chronic hepatitis C. People most at risk for hepatitis B and C often are the least likely to have access to medical services. Reducing the rates of illness and death associated with these diseases will require greater awareness and knowledge among health care workers, improved identification of at-risk people, and improved access to medical care. Hepatitis B is a vaccine preventable disease Although federal public health officials recommend that all newborns children and at risk adults receive the vaccine about 46 000 new acute cases of the HBV infection emerge each year including 1 000 in infants who acquire the infection during birth from their HBV positive mothers Unfortunately there is no vaccine for hepatitis C which is transmitted by direct exposure to infectious blood Hepatitis and Liver Cancer identifies missed opportunities related to the prevention and control of HBV and HCV infections The book presents ways to reduce the numbers of new HBV and HCV infections and the morbidity and mortality related to chronic viral hepatitis It identifies priorities for research policy and action geared toward federal state and local public health officials stakeholder and advocacy groups and professional organizations

Eliminating the Public Health Problem of Hepatitis B and C in the United States National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on a National Strategy for the Elimination of Hepatitis B and C, 2016-07-01 Hepatitis B and C cause most cases of hepatitis in the United States and the world The two diseases account for about a million deaths a year and 78 percent of world s hepatocellular carcinoma and more than half of all fatal cirrhosis In 2013 viral hepatitis of which hepatitis B virus HBV and hepatitis C virus HCV are the most common types surpassed HIV and AIDS to become the seventh leading cause of death worldwide The world now has the tools to prevent hepatitis B and cure hepatitis C Perfect vaccination could eradicate HBV but it would take two generations at least In the meantime there is no cure for the millions of people already infected Conversely there is no vaccine for HCV but new direct acting antivirals can cure 95 percent of chronic infections though these drugs are unlikely to reach all chronically infected people anytime soon This report the first of two examines the feasibility of hepatitis B and C elimination in the United States and identifies critical success factors The phase two report will outline a strategy for meeting the elimination goals discussed in this report Viral Hepatitis Howard C. Thomas, Anna S. Lok, Stephen A. Locarnini, Arie J. Zuckerman, 2013-10-14 The 4th edition of Viral Hepatitis covers comprehensively the entire complex field of infections caused by all of the different hepatitis viruses which affect many millions of people throughout the world with considerable morbidity and mortality Howard Thomas and Arie Zuckerman are joined by Anna Lok from the USA and Stephen Locarnini from Australia as Editors They have recruited leading researchers and physicians from many countries who have produced an authoritative account of current knowledge and research on this important infection including new insights into immune response to HBV and HCV The result is a comprehensive account on all aspects of viral hepatitis including rapid advances in the diagnosis management treatment and prevention of a complex infection which in the case of hepatitis B C and D may lead to severe complications including chronic hepatitis cirrhosis and hepatocellular carcinoma The latest edition of Viral Hepatitis offers an essential resource of current information for hepatologists gastroenterologists infectious diseases specialists and other clinicians researchers public health physicians and National and International Health Authorities Hepatitis B and D Protocols Robert K. Hamatake, Johnson Y. N. Lau, 2008-02-01

Despite the availability of an effective vaccine there are still 400 million people worldwide who are chronically infected with hepatitis B virus HBV For them the vaccine as currently applied has no value Given the possible consequences of HBV infection the number of those chronically infected with HBV presents an enormous public health challenge For example the major etiology of hepatocellular carcinoma HCC is chronic infection with HBV Although fifth in cancer incidence worldwide HCC liver cancer is the third leading cause of cancer death The high mortality associated with HCC arises because the disease is often detected late and is unresponsive to treatment The number of deaths caused by PHCC is expected to rise over the next 20 years Those chronically infected with HBV have a life risk of death to HCC of between 10 and 25% Even the limited efficacy of drugs for the treatment of chronic HBV helps underscore the point that this disease is responsive to therapy Drugs that target the polymerase e.g. hepsara and lamivudine and interferon alpha represent two distinct strategies and show that both conventional antiviral and immunotherapeutic approaches can be used in management However the current inventory of therapeutics is inadequate Interferon alpha is of limited value only parenterally available and fraught with adverse reactions
