History and Film Maarten Pereboom,2016-09-13 The ability to view recorded moving pictures has had a major impact on human culture since the development of the necessary technologies over a century ago For most of this time people have gone to the movies to be entertained and perhaps edified but in the meantime television the videocassette recorder VCR the digital versatile disk DVD player the personal computer desktop and laptop the internet and other technologies have made watching moving pictures possible at home in the classroom and just about anywhere else Today moving images are everywhere in our culture Every day moving picture cameras record millions of hours of activity human and otherwise all over the world your cell phone makes a little video of your friends at a party the surveillance camera at the bank keeps on eye on customers journalists shoulder carried cameras record the latest from the war zone and across the world film artists work on all kinds of movies from low budget independent projects to the next big budget Hollywood blockbuster Moving pictures have had a great influence on human culture and this book focuses on using moving images as historical evidence Studying history means examining evidence from the past to understand interpret and present what has happened in different times and places We talk and write about what we have learned hoping to establish credibility both for what we have determined to be the facts and for whatever meaning or significance we may attach to our reconstruction of the past

Studying history is a scientific process involving a fairly set methodology We tend to favor written sources and we have tended to favor writing as a means of presenting our views of the past But historians also use all kinds of other documents and artifacts in their work of interpreting the past including moving pictures
