Fly Boy Heroes James H. Hallas,2022-04-01

On the morning of December 7 1941 Chief Aviation Ordnanceman John W Finn though suffering multiple wounds continued to man his machine gun against waves of Japanese aircraft attacking the Kaneohe Bay Naval Station during the infamous Pearl Harbor raid Just over three years later as World War II struggled into its final months a B 29 radioman named Red Erwin lingered near death after suffering horrific burns to save his air crew in the skies off Japan They were the first and last of thirty U S Navy Army and Marine Corps aviation personnel awarded the Medal of Honor for their actions against the Japanese during World War II They included pilots and crewmen manning fighters and dive bombers and flying boats and bombers One was a general Another was a sergeant Some shot down large numbers of enemy aircraft in aerial combat Others sacrificed themselves for their friends or risked everything for complete strangers Who were these now largely forgotten men Where did they come from What inspired them to rise above and beyond What if anything made them different Virtually all had one thing in common they always wanted to fly They came from a generation that revered the aces of World War I like Eddie

Rickenbacker the civilian flyer Charles Lindbergh and the lost aviator Amelia Earhart and then they blazed their own trail during World War II

Central Asia in World War Two Vicky Davis,2023-12-14

Central Asia has long been situated at the geographical crossroads of East and West once strategically located on the ancient Silk Road The envy of the expanding Russian empire it was colonized in the 19th century by Cossacks and traders from the north This book examines how Central Asia by then part of the Soviet Union experienced population displacements on an even greater scale during the Second World War Vicky Davis analyses how troops were sent westwards into action only for waves of civilians to travel eastwards into the region evacuees refugees and even internal deportees sent into exile from their homelands in other parts of the vast

Soviet Union Central Asia in World War Two is the first book to tackle the subject of minorities fighting for the Soviet Union under Stalin in the Second World War Based on meticulous archival research it considers the interactions of the individual citizen and the Soviet state weaving together the experiences of over three hundred ordinary men and women in Central Asia as they coped with their new roles on the front line or in the rear Suffering incredible economic and physical hardship racism and religious oppression these mainly Muslim citizens were subjected to a forced process of Sovietization under the influence of Stalin s ubiquitous propaganda machine Davis reveals how while conscripts were all too often slaughtered or scapegoated in their regiments the women and children left at home slaved in factories and communal farms to fuel the machinery of a war taking place thousands of kilometres away She convincingly argues that the impact of forced assimilation cultural indoctrination anti Semitism and re education on the region were as great as the daily fight for survival in wartime The legacy of the period is almost as complex with struggles over the ownership and revision of history continuing even today
