Focus On Kenya:

Kenya Norman Miller, Rodger Yeager, 2018-03-09 First Published in 2018 This book captures the self confident spirit that characterizes Kenya and provides unique insights into how this nation of contemporary Africa is faring in its continuing quest for prosperity focusing on the contemporary period beginning with the rise to power of President Daniel arap Moi in 1978

Kenya International Monetary Fund. African Dept., 2024-11 Kenya is confronted with the need to chart a course that attends directly to the recent public outcry The widespread protests that started in June and resulted in tragic loss of lives and injuries were triggered by the authorities efforts to correct a large tax revenue shortfall in FY2023 24 through revenue raising proposals in the 2024 Finance Bill some of which were unpopular or seen as regressive The protests forced the President to withdraw the Bill introduce significant spending cuts through a Supplementary Budget in July and reconstitute the Cabinet in August Persistent difficulties in mobilizing revenue coupled with spending rigidities have led to a further accumulation of pending bills and necessitated deep cuts in development spending with potential for knock on effects on growth and debt sustainability Against this backdrop preceded by large exogenous shocks COVID 19 global developments impacting import price and affordable access to market finance and severe multi season droughts the authorities face a complex and difficult balancing act meeting critical spending needs for priority areas social programs health and education servicing large upcoming debt obligations and boosting domestic revenues Earlier in the year Kenya addressed the exceptional balance of payments BoP needs associated with repayment of the June 2024 US 2 billion Eurobond boosting market confidence that helped strengthen the shilling and build reserves Meanwhile fiscal pressures continue including from uncertainty surrounding the constitutionality of the 2023 Finance Act on which the Supreme Court s decision is awaited

The Report: Kenya 2014 Oxford Business Group, 2014-11-13 The country has a strong private sector and received encouraging forecasts of new oil gas and water reserves which if harnessed appropriately bode well for future growth While a pending international court case resulting from prior elections provoked a measure of uncertainty the country s medium to long term economic outlook is robust With over 40% of the population under the age of 15 Kenya stands to benefit from a significant demographic dividend provided that sufficient jobs can be found when this population bulge enters the workforce The country has a reasonably sized industrial base competitive infrastructure and a large agricultural sector all of which offer opportunities for capital intensive investment

Kenya International Monetary Fund. Fiscal Affairs Dept., 2020-01-15 This Fiscal Transparency Evaluation FTE assesses the quality of fiscal reporting in Kenya against the principles set out in the Fiscal Transparency Code Kenya has experienced a lot of structural and economic changes since 2014 One of the key objectives of this FTE is to estimate Kenya s balance sheet and to cover as many as possible of the entities in the public sector The coverage of Kenya's reporting of fiscal statistics has improved considerably. The report discusses that Kenya continues to perform well in the overall transparency of its fiscal forecasting and budgeting practices. Pillar II of the Code which is based on a strong legal framework. It does so against a backdrop of significant ongoing reforms including far-reaching fiscal devolution to counties and the introduction of performance-based budgeting. A recent important change in the law is expected to synchronize the submission and approval of the government's spending proposals and the tax measures in the Finance Bill. The recommendations set out under each of the pillars of this report aim to address several challenges. The report also encourages the authorities to continue with the implementation of the recommendations set out in the 2014 report on which good or satisfactory progress has been made in about half the cases. Focus on Kenya - Economic

This book addresses itself to mobilisation and involvement of rural people in development projects. It describes an imperfect but nonetheless exciting and thought-provoking exercise that drew social science researchers and students from four public universities in Kenya into an experiment in participatory research, community education, and development in two locations. The experiment was grounded on the assumptions that the people of Kenya are a primary resource and that given proper roles and contribution of planners, researchers, and programme implementers, self-sustainable development can become a reality. The contributors of this book have focused on the potential of the university to facilitate participation of the people in development. They have given specific suggestions on how this might be accomplished.

Challenges at the Intersection of Gender and Ethnic Identity in Kenya Laura A. Young, 2012-12-04. Minority and indigenous women in Kenya are discriminated against on multiple levels; they are targeted because of their identification with a minority or indigenous group and as women both by cultural practices within their own community and because of gender discrimination more widely. This report examines the challenges and the new opportunities that have emerged with the passing of the new Constitution in 2010. The goal of the report is to reflect the voices and experiences of women from diverse minority and indigenous communities in Kenya. For hunter-gatherer women, many of whom have been displaced and forced to become squatters, community land rights are a primary concern. They view their lack of opportunities, basic services, and education for girls as a direct result of their displacement For pastoralist women insecurity and conflict in areas where they live has a disproportionate impact on them Cultural practices that are harmful to girls such as female genital mutilation and early marriage reduce girls access to education and entrench women s poverty For fisher peoples environmental degradation and collapsing fish stocks are major fears Women from these communities expressed their frustration at traditional gender roles that place much of the responsibility for meeting the family s basic needs on women While there is strong leadership from individual women in many of the minority and indigenous communities described in this report the majority of women face ongoing violations of their human rights Trapped in a cycle of poverty that they attribute directly to decades of marginalization they fear that they and their children will not be able to take advantage of gains in the new Constitution This report highlights actions identified by minority and indigenous women that should be taken by the government and other actors to support women s empowerment and participation in the decision making processes that directly affect them

Violence against Children in Kenya Alphonce C. L. Omolo, 2014 Children in Kenya continue to suffer diverse types of violence against them despite the fact that Kenyan laws are prohibiting violence and various prevention measures exist In order to achieve effective prevention of violence adequate knowledge of risk factors is imperative In Kenya such knowledge is lacking and there is limited attention given to the multifaceted nature of the social environment in which children grow up and how such environments aggravate violence against children as well as hinder prevention measures This qualitative research applied the ecological model of socialisation of Urie Bronfenbrenner as its theoretical and analytical framework in examining risk factors and consequences responses and projects In assessing what is being done to prevent violence against children in Kenya the author reviews existing projects and policies that shape prevention measures including the possible influence of international conventions He also analyses diverse sets of ideas attitudes philosophies and practices that explain the similar and the different notions of childhood in African and in Western settings Exploring the social construction of violence the author examines ideas and discourses that explain the heterogeneous characteristics of violence and how their understanding occurrence and severity vary from culture to culture Alphonce C L Omolo born 1966 in Kisumu Kenya studied Childhood Sociology of Childhood and Children s Rights at the Institute of Education University of London He completed his doctoral degree Dr phil at the Faculty for Philosophy and Educational Research in the Field of Comparative Education at the Ruhr University Bochum Germany in 2014 He has extended experience and worked in different capacities in street children and other children s programmes in Kenya and Tanzania between 1987 and 2010

Labor in Colonial Kenya after the Forced Labor Convention, 1930–1963 Opolot Okia, 2019-08-23 This book advances research into the government forced labor used widely in colonial Kenya from 1930 to 1963 after the passage of the International Labor Organization s Forced Labour Convention While the 1930 Convention intended to mark the suppression of forced labor practices various exemptions meant that many coercive labor practices continued in colonial territories Focusing on East Africa and the Kenya Colony this book shows how the colonial administration was able to exploit the exemption clause for communal labor thus ensuring the mobilization of African labor for infrastructure development As an exemption communal labor was not defined as forced labor but instead justified as a continuation of traditional African and community labor practices Despite this ideological justification the book shows that communal labor was indeed an intensification of coercive labor practices and one that penalized Africans for non compliance with fines or imprisonment The use of forced labor before and after the passage of the Convention is examined with a focus on its use during World War II as well as in efforts to combat soil erosion in the rural African reserve areas in Kenya The exploitation of female labor the Mau Mau war of the 1950s civilian protests and the regeneration of communal labor as harambee after independence are also discussed Kenya Rural Planning Project ,1983
