Traditions and Transitions John L. Plews, Barbara Schmenk, 2013-11-21 Traditions and Transitions Curricula for German Studies is a collection of essays by Canadian and international scholars on the topic of why and how the curriculum for post secondary German studies should evolve Its twenty chapters written by international experts in the field of German as a foreign or second language explore new perspectives on and orientations in the curriculum In light of shifts in the linguistic and intercultural needs of today's global citizens these scholars in German studies question the foundations and motivations of common curriculum goals traditional program content standard syllabus design and long standing classroom practice Several chapters draw on a range of contemporary theories from critical applied linguistics second language acquisition curriculum theory and cultural studies to propose and encourage new curriculum thinking and reflective practice related to the translingual and cross cultural subjectivities of speakers learners and teachers of German Other chapters describe and analyze specific examples of emerging trends in curriculum practice for learners as users of German This volume will be invaluable to university and college faculty working in the discipline of German studies as well as in other modern languages and second language education in general Its combination of theoretical and descriptive explorations will help readers develop a critical awareness and understanding of curriculum for teaching German and to implement new approaches in the interests of their students Books Out Loud, 2007 Words on Cassette, 2002 R R Bowker Publishing, 2002 Literacy and second language learning for the linguistic integration of adult migrants Fernanda Minuz, Jeanne Kurvers, Karen Schramm, Lorenzo Rocca, Rola Naeb, 2022-06-15 Language skills foster among other things social inclusion access to education and employment Within this context non literate or low literate migrants have specific educational needs This reference guide is meant for language educators curriculum designers and language policy makers in their endeavour to design implement evaluate and improve curricula tailored toward the specific needs of non and low literate adult migrants This group of migrants faces the complex and demanding task of learning a language while either learning to read and write for the first time or developing their literacy skills They rarely receive adequate instruction in terms of hours of tuition and targeted teaching approaches whereas they are very often requested to take a compulsory written test The reference guide contains a definition of target users and learners the rationale related to the development of the descriptors principles for teaching literacy and second languages scales and tables of descriptors aspects of curriculum design at the macro meso and micro levels and recommendations on assessment procedures and tools within the learning environment The guide also contains descriptors that build on the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages CEFR and the CEFR Companion volume up to the A1 level for adult migrants with special attention given to literacy learners Focus Particles in German Stefan Sudhoff, 2010 This study explores the grammar of focus particles in German It gives a thorough description and analysis of focus particle constructions and links their syntactic semantic and information structural properties to their prosodic characteristics The study also shows that focus particles present a particularly well suited subject for the investigation of the modularity of grammar in general The first part of the book deals with the syntax semantics and pragmatics of focus particle constructions and results in a modular account of the relation between their word order information structure and meaning The second part presents a corpus study and several speech production and perception experiments investigating the prosodic realization of the constructions The integration of these two lines of research results in a comprehensive theory of focus particles and of the interaction of grammar and information structure in German
