Martin,2006 It is commonly held that medieval Christians viewed medieval Jews in exclusively negative terms This is certainly the dominant opinion in much twentieth century scholarship and it is not wholly without justification It is however an opinion that does not accurately reflect the breadth of medieval German Christian thinking about medieval German Jews Drawing on Passion plays hagiographical narratives and didactic literature

this monograph reveals a hitherto largely unacknowledged diversity in medieval German representations of Jews In many of the best attested texts from the late medieval and early modern periods Jews appear in German literature as sympathetic even morally exemplary figures

The Dynamics of Paratextuality in Late Antique Literature Christian Guerra,Markus Kersten,Ann-Kathrin Stähle,2024-11-14 Through an examination of paratextuality in late antique literature this collection of essays reconsiders the importance of the written material that appears in the margins of ancient poetic texts Paratexts such as headings prefaces letters et al have largely been skimmed over or completely disregarded in favour of the main ancient work However there is now a new wave of scholarship that takes into consideration the reading of books in line with the different margins or frames and the structures de constructed by them A salient feature of late antique poetry is the presence of the paratextual For example the prefaces of Ausonius Claudian Avianus Sidonius Apollinaris and Venantius Fortunatus are studied in their own right by the contributors who present new understandings and interpretations of the aims of these late antique writers In keeping with its subject matter this volume presents a multitude of approaches intended not only to look at but rather to read and take seriously the paratextual material The result is a reframing of our appreciation of the marginal matter which has up until this point been overlooked

The Aesop's Fable Paradigm K. Brandon Barker,Daniel J. Povinelli,2021-12-07 The Aesop s Fable Paradigm is a collection of essays that explore the cutting edge intersection of Folklore and Science From moralizing fables to fantastic folktales humans have been telling stories about animals animals who can talk feel think and make moral judgments just as we do for a very long time In contrast scientific studies of the mental lives of animals have professed to be investigating the nature of animal minds slowly cautiously objectively with no room for fanciful tales fables or myths But recently these folkloric and scientific traditions have merged in an unexpected and shocking way scientists have attempted to prove that at least some animal fables are actually true These interdisciplinary chapters examine how science has targeted the well known Aesop s fable The Crow and the Pitcher as their starting point They explore the ever growing set of experimental studies which purport to prove that crows possess an understanding of higher order concepts like weight mass and even Archimedes insight about the physics of water displacement The Aesop s Fable Paradigm explores how these scientific studies are doomed to accomplish little more than to mirror anthropomorphic representations of animals in human folklore and reveal that the problem of folkloric projection extends far beyond the Aesop s Fable Paradigm into every nook and cranny of research on animal cognition Fables de La Fontaine - Scholar's Choice Edition Jean de La Fontaine,2015-02-18 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant MLN. ,1907
