Fabulous Histories:

Fabulous histories, designed for the instruction of children, respecting their treatment of animals Sarah Trimmer, 1826

Fabulous Histories, Or, The History of the Robins Mrs. Trimmer (Sarah), 1821      Fabulous Histories Sarah

Trimmer, 1977 The first of these period pieces is an exhortation to children to be kind to animals using fictional incidents in a human and a robin family The second features a gentle and pious creature who even in death inspires those around her

Fabulous Histories, 1786 Sarah Trimmer, 2015      Talking Animals in British Children's Fiction, 1786-1914 Tess

Cosslett, 2017-03-02 In her reappraisal of canonical works such as Black Beauty Beautiful Joe Wind in the Willows and Peter Rabbit Tess Cosslett traces how nineteenth century debates about the human and animal intersected with or left their mark on the venerable genre of the animal story written for children Effortlessly applying a range of critical approaches from Bakhtinian ideas of the carnivalesque to feminist postcolonial and ecocritical theory she raises important questions about the construction of the child reader the qualifications of the implied author and the possibilities of children's literature compared with literature written for adults Perhaps most crucially Cosslett examines how the issues of animal speech and animal subjectivity were managed at a time when the possession of language and consciousness had become a vital sign of the difference between humans and animals Topics of great contemporary concern such as the relation of the human and the natural masculine and feminine child and adult are investigated within their nineteenth century contexts making this an important book for nineteenth century scholars children's literature specialists and historians of science and childhood

Fabulous Histories Sarah Trimmer, 186? An exhortation to children to be kind to animals using fictional incidents in a human and a robin family

Fabulous Histories Sarah Trimmer, 1860

Animals and Other People Heather

Keenleyside, 2016-10-03 In Animals and Other People Heather Keenleyside argues for the central role of literary modes of knowledge in apprehending animal life Keenleyside focuses on writers who populate their poetry novels and children's stories with conspicuously figurative animals experiment with conventional genres like the beast fable and write the lives of mice as well as men From such writers including James Thomson Daniel Defoe Jonathan Swift Laurence Sterne Anna Letitia Barbauld and others she recovers a key insight about the representation of living beings when we think and write about animals we are never in the territory of strictly literal description relying solely on the evidence of our senses Indeed any description of animals involves personification of a sort if we understand personification not as a rhetorical ornament but as a fundamental part of our descriptive and conceptual repertoire essential for distinguishing living beings from things Throughout the book animals are characterized by a distinctive mode of agency and generality they are at once moving and being moved at once individual beings and generic or species figures every cat is also The Cat Animals thus become figures with which to think about key philosophical questions about the nature of human agency and of social and political community They also come into view as potential participants in that community as one sort of people among others

Demonstrating the centrality of animals to an eighteenth century literary and philosophical tradition Animals and Other People also argues for the importance of this tradition to current discussions of what life is and how we might live together

Fabulous Histories Mrs. Sarah TRIMMER, Sarah Trimmer, 1794 A History of the Highlands and of the Highland Clans James Browne, 1851 The History of Infant Baptism William Wall, John Gale, 1862 Romanticism and Animal Rights David Perkins, 2003-10-23 In England in the second half of the eighteenth century an unprecedented amount of writing urged kindness to animals This theme was carried in many genres from sermons to encyclopedias from scientific works to literature for children and in the poetry of Cowper Wordsworth Coleridge Clare and others Romanticism and Animal Rights discusses the arguments writers used and the particular meanings of these arguments in a social and economic context so different from the present After introductory chapters the material is divided according to specific practices that particularly influenced feeling or aroused protest pet keeping hunting baiting working animals eating them and the various harms inflicted on wild birds The book shows how extensively English Romantic writing took up issues of what we now call animal rights In this respect it joins the growing number of studies that seek precedents or affinities in English Romanticism for our own ecological concerns Lectures on the History of Literature, Ancient and Modern Friedrich von Schlegel, 1841 A New History of the Conquest of Mexico Robert Anderson Wilson, 1859 The general history and state of Europe from the time of Charlemain to Charles V.
