definite lessons in which the subject can be considered in its appropriate divisions are of no little value if we would have our children attain to that finest of the fine arts a beautiful behavior Such lessons should be as familiar and conversational as possible They ought to be talks rather than lectures and the children should be encouraged to do a large part of the talking Children that come from homes where good manners are taught and practiced will be glad to repeat the precepts of politeness learned in the home circle and those less favored will not want to be behind in this hitherto unstudied branch We must remember that many children hear no mention of politeness outside the school room and are uncouth and rude not so much because they choose to be as because they do not know how to be otherwise For some classes the lessons as arranged
