The Oxford Handbook of Social Justice in Music Education Cathy Benedict, Patrick Schmidt, Gary Spruce, Paul Woodford, 2015-10-30 Music education has historically had a tense relationship with social justice One the one hand educators concerned with music practices have long preoccupied themselves with ideas of open participation and the potentially transformative capacity that musical interaction fosters On the other hand they have often done so while promoting and privileging a particular set of musical practices traditions and forms of musical knowledge which has in turn alienated and even excluded many children from music education opportunities The Oxford Handbook of Social Justice in Music Education provides a comprehensive overview and scholarly analyses of the major themes and issues relating to social justice in musical and educational practice worldwide The first section of the handbook conceptualizes social justice while framing its pursuit within broader contexts and concerns Authors in the succeeding sections of the handbook fill out what social justice entails for music teaching and learning in the home school university and wider community as they grapple with cycles of injustice that might be perpetuated by music pedagogy The concluding section of the handbook offers specific practical examples of social justice in action through a variety of educational and social projects and pedagogical practices that will inspire and guide those wishing to confront and attempt to ameliorate musical or other inequity and injustice Consisting of 42 chapters by authors from across the globe the handbook will be of interest to anyone who wishes to better understand what social justice is and why its pursuit in and through music education matters

Cinema in China's Nation State Building investigates the relationship between cinematic productions about non Han ethnic minorities and China's nation state building project from the early Republican era of the 1920s to the current authoritarian regime in the twenty first century Kwai Cheung Lo argues that the glossy but superficial cinematic depictions of non Han ethnic minorities manufactured and manipulated by state authorities have deeply penetrated the Chinese public's conception of what an ideal multiethnic nation should be like as well as what it means to be Chinese under political unification Lo understands these representations of ethnic minorities as part of a larger ecosystem and the cultures values and life practices of non Han ethnic minorities as closely entwined with environmental issues and politics This intertwining Lo argues suggests a crisis in objectification and identification of both people and the environment that plays out in cinema featuring ethnic minorities Lo traces these depictions of Chinese ethnic minority groups in films created by both Han majority and non Han filmmakers examining how these representations became a site in which state authorities Han and non Han communities and foreign agencies compete and interact under the larger context of building and imagining the Chinese nation state
