Firefighting During World War II:

Firefighting During World War II Paul Ditzel, 1994 Looks at fires of Pearl Harbor New York City Bombay and London of World War II New York City Firefighting 1901-2001 Steven Scher, 2002 The story of firefighting in New York City is one of danger tradition pride excitement and tragedy It is also the story of man s triumph over destructive forces From the gaslight days of horse drawn steam engines to the World Trade Center tragedy of 2001 the heroic men and women who make up the city s most dynamic public service have risked and often lost their lives in order to protect and serve the people of New York City New York City Firefighting 1901 2001 chronicles the proudest fire department in America The proximity of buildings in the city streets and the construction materials made each fire especially dangerous but determined firefighters never hesitated to battle the flames and rescue the victims Later facing unprecedented heights and unparalleled danger firefighters in New York City were called upon to battle infernos in the first skyscrapers often using the most rudimentary equipment and barely protected from the flames In its most trying moments the Fire Department of New York responded to the terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center in 1993 and 2001 dutifully rushing into the towers to save as many lives as possible and ultimately losing hundreds of their own Edison Firefighting Eugene A. Enfield Jr., 2007-12-05 During the early part of the 20th century five separate volunteer fire companies independently organized to protect separate sections of Raritan Township currently known as Edison The township was divided by fire districts each containing elected fire commissioners with political and economic power In 1926 the first career firefighter was hired and since then over 250 career firefighters have taken the oath Edison Firefighting features images memorabilia and photographs from the early days of bucket brigades and horse drawn carriages to current personnel and apparatus Significant fires explosions and rescues that Edison firefighters confronted throughout the years are revealed within this fascinating book Firefighting in Washington The Capitol Fire Museum, 2004 Presents a pictorial history of firefighting and firefighters in Washington D C

Firefighting in Hopkinsville Chris Gilkey, William T. Turner, 2008 Organized in 1832 the Hopkinsville Union Fire Company represented the first attempt to provide fire protection for the town of Hopkinsville which had 1 260 residents at that time Succeeding volunteer groups called runners were created through the remainder of the 19th century By 1900 a paid professional fire department had been established with the firemen and equipment housed in the old town market house at the intersection of Fifth and Main Streets Five years later the City of Hopkinsville completed the new Central Fire Station located on East Ninth Street between Liberty and Clay Streets In October 1924 the destruction of this building by fire generated widespread comment A new station was built within the original walls of the burned building This facility served as the Hopkinsville Fire Station until the department moved to the new Main Station on West First Street in May 1964

Firefighting in Forsyth County Joshua Wright, 2021 Soon after the first buildings were completed a fire department was established in Forsyth County in 1772 The Town of Salem purchased the first fire pump in the state in 1785 after a tavern burned down the year before Old Salem's Market and Fire House is the oldest enginehouse in North Carolina built in 1803. Growth in both population and industry led to the joining of Salem and Winston. When the two cities joined in 1913 they formed a united volunteer department. Even with the newly formed Winston-Salem department there was still a necessity for rural fire protection as some farms, churches, and schools were beyond the reach of the city department. It was not until 1949 that the first rural volunteer department was founded in Sedge Garden. Innovation in fire apparatus and equipment such as the development of the fog nozzle still in use today contributed to the success of rural firefighting. The fire service in Forsyth County has consistently been on the forefront of technology, diversity, and revolution. Army Fire Fighting Leroy Allen Ward, 2012-12. This book details the history of the Army's Engineer Firefighters from the U.S. Civil War to the present.

Bristol Firefighting Dana Jandreau, Gail Leach, 2002. In 1845 a series of disastrous fires nearly crippled the economy of Bristol. Earlier in the century the community had become one of the leading clock producers in the world and this astounding success spawned many other local businesses. As the factories multiplied so did the need for fire protection, unfortunately when the whirlwind of fires struck Bristol was unprepared and suffered heavy losses. Yet it was not until eight years later that three prominent businessmen took the first steps toward organizing a fire company. In September 1853 a firehouse was built on School Street and it was equipped with a used hand pump and five hundred feet of leather hose. It became Bristol Engine and Hose Company No. 1. With some two hundred stunning images Bristol Firefighting relives the fire department's proud history over the past one hundred fifty years as the old hand pump gave way to an 1881 Amoskeag steamer drawn by horses which in turn moved aside in the early 1900s for a Pope Hartford motorized auto chemical truck which changed firefighting forever. Years later Bristol was recognized throughout the country for owning the first American La France foam pumper appropriately known as the Bristol Model. Bristol Firefighting recalls firsthand accounts of many infamous fires told through the eyes of the local people who witnessed them. Most dramatically it relates the stories of heroism, sacrifice, and bravery displayed by firefighters in their unending desire to serve and protect their community. Portsmouth Firefighting Steven E. Achilles, 2009-02-23. In September 1756 with only fire buckets, two hand tubs, and citizen volunteers safeguarding the Colonial seaport Portsmouth decided to organize and regulate its fire protection. By 1852 the Portsmouth Fire Department boasted six suction engines and in 1864 entered the age of steam power when the first steam fire engine was delivered. Disastrous fires and a growing city required the department to modernize as it moved into the 20th century. The department's first motorized engine was purchased in 1912 and by 1921 there was a new central fire station along with a new gasoline-powered ladder truck. Through an exceptional collection of photographs Portsmouth Firefighting richly illustrates the story and tradition of a fire department forever connected to its brave firefighters, their magnificent fire engines, and the spectacular blazes they fought. Firefighting Principles and Practices William E. Clark, 1991-01-01. This classic look at the basics of firefighting provides up-to-date information on firefighting operations beginning with fire behavior and on through to fundamental approaches strategy coordination and tactics of safe fireground activities The book also discusses operational procedures of ladder and engine companies along with preplanning routines that departments should follow and finishes with a look at common fires along with fires that could require special attention including the Big One
