

What's in a Name?

In the 1700s and 1800s, Americans were called "a nation of drunkards." There were many people who drank too much—and many names to describe them. Benjamin Franklin, the American newspaperman and diplomat, collected more than 230 different names for a drunkard. Here are just a few of them:

Drunk as a Beggar
Tipsey
Cock Eyed
Loaded His Cart
Frozen
In the Suds
Topsy Turvey
Like a Rat in Trouble
Moon Eyed

Drunk as a Wheelbarrow
Wet Mellow
Foxed
As Dizzy as a Goose
Oiled
Merry
Got Corns in His Head Soaked

COMPUTING Javier Carbo,2010-06-01 Ubiquitous computing names the third wave in computing where the personal computing era appears when technology recedes into the background of our lives The widespread use of new mobile technology implementing wireless communicationssuch as personal digital assistants PDAs and smart phones enables a new type of advanced applications In the past years the main focus of research in mobile services has aimed at the anytime anywhere principle ubiquitous computing However there is more to it The increasing demand for distributed problem solving led to the development of multi agent systems The latter are formed from a collection of independent software entities whose collective skills can be applied in complex and real time domains The target of such systems is to demonstrate how goal directed robust and optimal behavior can arise from interactions between individual autonomous intelligent software agents These software entities exhibit characteristics like autonomy responsiveness pro activeness and social ability Their functionality and effectiveness has proven to be highly depended on the design and development and the plication domain In fact in several cases the design and development of effective services should take into account the characteristics of the context from which a service is requested Context is the set of suitable environmental states and settings concerning a user which are relevant for a situation sensitive application in the process of adapting the services and formation offered to the user Agent technology seems to be the right technology to offer the possibility of exploring the dynamic context of the user in order to provide added value services or to execute more and complex tasks
