Useless Beauty Robert K. Johnston, 2011-12-16 Reveals how both contemporary movies and the Book of Ecclesiastes portray life's beauty despite its pain and futility The Coming Death Richard F. Calichman, 2022-02-01 The Coming Death explores the question of death and mortality in several key texts of East Asian literature and cinema By exposing the specific fields of Japanology and Sinology to the more general discourse of thanatology Richard Calichman aims to define death more expansively on the basis of loss and disappearance Typically death is understood to be purely separate from life where death is life is not and where life is death is not Yet this view fails to account not only for the frequency with which living individuals encounter the death of others but also and far more radically for the disturbing fact that life in its unfolding remains at each moment open to the possibility of its own destruction In this regard Calichman argues death must be conceived not simply as an actual event but even more fundamentally as a general possibility without which life itself could not develop At issue is how death reveals the emptiness of all identity which demands that life and death no longer be conceived as purely oppositional If mortal death can appear at the very origin of life then the fullness or presence of life is at each instant threatened by the possibility of its negation Through a reading of the works of such major artistic and intellectual figures as Kurosawa Akira Tsai Ming-liang Lu Xun and Takeuchi Yoshimi The Coming Death argues for a fundamental rethinking of mortality Catalog of the Library of the Museum of Modern Art: Eh Museum of Modern Art (New York, N.Y.). Geduld, 1972 Contemporary Japanese Film Mark Schilling, 1999-11-01 This comprehensive look at Japanese cinema in the 1990s includes nearly four hundred reviews of individual films and a dozen interviews and profiles of leading directors and producers Interpretive essays provide an overview of some of the key issues and themes of the decade and provide background and context for the treatment of individual films and artists In Mark Schilling s view Japanese film is presently in a period of creative ferment with a lively independent sector challenging the conventions of the industry mainstream Younger filmmakers are rejecting the stale formulas that have long characterized major studio releases reaching out to new influences from other media television comics music videos and even computer games and from both the West and other Asian cultures In the process they are creating fresh and exciting films that range from the meditative to the manic offering hope that Japanese film will not only survive but thrive as it enters the new millennium
