The Royal Air Force at Home Ian Watson, 2010-06-19 Military public relations endeavors ultimately seek to build a sense of common interests and aims and so generally foster good relations with the people they defend and there in ensure a stable society The armed forces when engaging on any public relations exercise have traditionally sought to provide an entertaining spectacle For years this has been typified by parades bands mock battles drill displays and other relevant feats of military prowess which have captured the imagination of the public and inspired potential recruits The 20th Century brought a new dimension to the field of warfare and subsequently added a new strand to the fabric of public ceremony and displays by the armed forces That new dimension was the arrival of powered flight Display flying began within five years of the Wright Brothers making their milestone first flight The first events staged in Britain which centered on demonstrations by flying machines were organized by the town councils of Blackpool and Doncaster and were held within days of each other in October 1909 1920 was the year that the first of the famed and legendary Hendon Air Pageants was staged and this is where military air shows traditionally began The Hendon Displays were organized and staged by the still fledging Royal Air Force and it was probably due in no small part to the prestige and spectacle of this fresh new dimension of military pageantry together with other like events held at RAF airfields through the next two decades that the very existence of the RAF was saved from the threat of abolition The history of the RAF's commitment one that compares almost uniquely with other air forces toward display flying through the years after World War II has now come of age This account of their record in this often overlooked but then again traditional field of military customs describes and illustrates the major public RAF events since 1920

Popular Culture and Its Relationship to Conflict in the UK and Australia since the Great War Andrekos Varnava, Michael J.K. Walsh, 2022-12-26 This book shows how cultural production derived from or in anticipation of conflict can be used to create specific social identities national histories and contemporary concepts of memory in Britain and Australia Studies on the politics of cultural production have usually focussed on one conflict or on one particular cultural medium at a time This volume however presents a broader horizon to draw attention to more popular forms of cultural production from the Great War up to and including its Centenary The chapters in this volume interrogate the contentious philosophical notion that culture thrives in times of war and expires in peace and asks whether art as a form of social barometer can anticipate conflict rather than merely respond to it This is a fascinating read for students researchers and academics interested in British and Australian History and its relationship with Popular Culture The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Contemporary British History Catastrophic Incidents Trevor J. Hughes, 2022-12-19 This interesting book offers an analysis of man made catastrophes and asks why they continue to occur 87 catastrophes or near catastrophes including high profile cases such as the Bhopal gas disaster Grenfell Tower Shoreham Air Show crash Brumadinho dam collapse and Fukushima Daiichi are described together with the reasons why they occurred and why over 50 different safety management approaches and techniques failed to prevent them Featuring 63 eye opening stories from the author's own personal experience and over 200 pitfalls in safety management approaches this title is illustrated by 24 hypothetical cases in which the reader is asked to consider the approach they would take Safety management techniques discussed include operating practices personnel selection and emergency response Safety management approaches including safety governance in organisations along with the role of government and local authorities using the instruments of the law are extensively discussed The work concludes with imaginative and creative ways forward with the aim to make considerable progress and to potentially eliminate man made catastrophes for good This title will be an ideal read for safety managers and engineers community leaders in civic duties or labour union roles and professionals tasked with stopping and mitigating the impacts of man made catastrophes along with non technical readers who are curious and concerned
