putting demand reduction into practice The dimensions of the illicit drugs market in the Caribbean are made clear The origins of the problem lie in part it is argued with the impact of neoliberal economic policies that have opened up the region's borders and gravely undermined its traditional sources of employment and exports like bananas and sugar The islands in part under external US pressure have adopted a region wide policy of criminalization This has involved the creation of specialized drug courts and serious human and social consequences as a result of criminalizing traditional cultural practices around ganja consumption Fascinating light is thrown on the difficulties facing drug abuse and rehabilitation centres and the dilemmas they throw up Harm reduction as a fundamentally alternative approach to the drugs problem is also explored This is the first book to examine the experiences of Caribbean countries since they adopted a coordinated approach to the drugs problem There are valuable lessons to be learned at both policy and practical levels for other countries and in particular those like the UK and US with large Caribbean populations
