If Voting Changed Anything They'd Abolish It:

If Voting Changed Anything, They'd Abolish it Ken Livingstone, 1987 Culture Wars James Curran, Ivor Gaber, Julian Petley, 2018-07-11 Culture Wars investigates the relationship between the media and politics in Britain today It focusses on how significant sections of the national press have represented and distorted the policies of the Labour Party and particularly its left from the Thatcher era up to and including Ed Miliband's and Jeremy Corbyn's leaderships Revised and updated including five brand new chapters this second edition shows how press hostility to the left particularly newspaper coverage of its policies on race gender and sexuality has morphed into a more generalised campaign against political correctness the liberal elite and the so called enemies of the people Combining fine grained case studies with authoritative overviews of recent British political and media history Culture Wars demonstrates how much of the press have routinely attacked Labour and in so doing have abused their political power distorted public debate and negatively impacted the news agendas of public service broadcasters The book also raises the intriguing question of whether the rise of social media and the success of its initial exploitation by Corbyn supporters followed by Labour as a whole in the 2017 General Election represent a major shift in the balance of power between Labour and the media and in particular the right wing press Culture Wars will be of considerable interest to students and researchers in the fields of media politics and contemporary British history and will also attract those with a more general interest in current affairs in the UK The Wiley-Blackwell

general reader Labour and the left in the 1980s Jonathan Davis, Rohan McWilliam, 2017-12-11 This volume of essays constitutes the first history of Labour and left wing politics in the decade when Margaret Thatcher reshaped modern Britain. Leading scholars explore aspects of left wing culture, activities and ideas at a time when social democracy was in crisis. There are articles about political leadership, economic alternatives, gay rights, the miners strike, the Militant Tendency and the politics of race. The book also situates the crisis of the left in international terms as the socialist world began to collapse. Tony Blair's New Labour disavowed the 1980s left, associating it with failure, but this volume argues for a more complex approach. Many of the causes it championed are now mainstream, suggesting that the time has come to reassess 1980s progressive politics despite its undeniable electoral failures. With this in mind, the contributors offer ground breaking research and penetrating arguments about the strange death of Labour Britain.

World is Africa Eddie Chambers, 2020-12-10 World is Africa brings together more than 30 important texts by Eddie Chambers, who for several decades has been an original and a critical voice within the field of African diaspora art history. The texts range from book chapters and catalogue essays to shorter texts. Chambers focuses on contemporary artists and their practices from a range of international locations, who for the most part are identified with the African diaspora. None of the texts are available online and none have been available outside of the original publication in which they first appeared. The volume contains several new pieces of writing, including a consideration of the art world's fetishization of the 1980s as the manifestation of a reluctance to accept the majority of Black British artists as valid individual practitioners, choosing instead to shackle them to exhibitions that took place three decades ago. Another new text re-examines the map paintings of Frank Bowling, the Guyana-born artist who was the subject of a major retrospective at Tate Britain in 2019. The third introduces the little-known record sleeve illustrations of Charles White, the American artist who was the subject of a major retrospective in 2018 at major galleries across the US. Among the other new texts is a critical reflection on the patronage the Greater London Council extended to Black artists in 1980s London. World is Africa makes a valuable contribution to the emerging discipline of black British art history, the field of African diaspora studies and African diaspora art history.

amidst the Brexit conjuncture of 2019 They argue that while this defeat marked the farthest point to which the generation formed in the 1970s was able to carry the Labour new left project it seems unlikely that the new generation of activists will quickly see any other way forward than continuing the struggle inside the Labour Party so as to fundamentally change it In the face of the contradictions being generated by twenty first century capitalism and the need for discovering and developing new political forms adequate to addressing them this book is required reading for democratic socialists not just in Britain but everywhere

Explaining Local Government J. A. Chandler, 2007 In this work J A Chandler explains how local government in Britain has evolved from a structure that appeared to be relatively free from central government interference to as John Prescott observes one of the most centralised systems of government in the Western world

Local Government in England Colin Copus, Mark Roberts, Rachel Wall, 2017-03-15 The book explores the claim that English local government exists in one of the most centralised relationships with national government Such a position fundamentally undermines any notion of local self government and makes the term government in local government a misnomer The book will examine how the erosion of the autonomy powers roles functions and responsibilities of English local government came about the arguments of centralisers and localisers to support their view of the constitutional status of local government and its overall role in the government of England The book offers an antidote to the onward march of centralisation by offering a new vision of local government which emphasises both local and government
